THE WOODSTOCK DISPATCH.
 WOODSTOCK, N. B., APRIL 1, 1896.

LIGHT THE STREETS.

There are complaints made all the time that the streets of Woodstock need to be lighted in winter as well as in summer. The idea that the snow is a sort of an electric light of itself, to take the place of the ordinary lamps is really a myth. There are nights in winter when the streets need to be lighted as much as in summer, and especially is this the case just now. It is only a few nights in the month that the moon is any use, and, anyway, when we have the plant and every thing at hand it is utterly absurd keeping it idle, for the little extra expense that would be attached to its running during the months that it is now taking a holiday.

Coun. Gallagher has shown a most commendable interest in the working of the electric light system. He has taken a practical interest in his department, and seems to be conducting it, in the interest of the ratepayers. We earnestly urge upon him to recommend that in future the lights be run the year round.

BOARD OF TRADE.

The annual meeting of the Woodstock Board of Trade will be held on the 10th of April, a week from Friday next. This will be an important meeting and a full attendance of members is requested. While the meetings during the past winter have been few, and no particular business has been done, the members of the board realize that it is greatly in the interest of the town that the organization should be kept actively alive, and be ready to pronounce itself upon any important question which may expectedly or unexpectedly come up.

THE DISPATCH understands that the president has some idea in his annual address, which will be delivered on the 10th, of recommending a reduction in the number of the council, to make it less unwieldy, and more easily called together. In this way the council will become the working body of the board. There are other changes which need to be made, and, in fact a general reorganization of the board.

We trust members will see that no other business interferes with their attendance at the annual meeting on the 10th inst.

THEY MUST ATTEND.

Ontario, undoubtedly, leads the rest of the Dominion, particularly with social difficulties. A year ago the Ontario legislature established a board of arbitration as a medium to settle difficulties between employers and employees. The working people in several tailoring establishments in Toronto have gone on strike and the newly appointed board met to deal with the dispute. The employees attended but the employers ignored the tribunal. But their pride will be short lived. The board, it is announced, will again have a sitting when the employers will be compelled by law to attend.

Capitalists always need to remember that they don't own the earth.

"My Dad's the Engineer."

THE LATEST SONG—HAVE YOU HEARD IT!

The very latest popular song is "My Dad's the Engineer," and a copy (with words and music, full sheet music size) worth 50c., will be forwarded to any of our readers who will mention this paper, and send 5c. in stamps to Edmanon, Bates & Co., Toronto. This firm who have had such great success with Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills, Ointment, Catarrh Cure and Linseed and Turpentine, also Scott's Sarsaparilla, have just printed over half a million large, six papers, containing interesting stories, reading matter, and good music. The popular song "You Can't Play in Our Yard" is printed with words and music in full. A free copy of this valuable paper will be sent to anyone sending for "My Dad's the Engineer."

A four-foot body of high-grade silver-lead ore has been cut in the south drift from the old workings of the Yankee Girl mine, at Silver City Tintic, Utah. This mine is being worked with a horse within. The property is worked on a lease. The Yankee Girl was formerly known as the Lucky mine.

AN EASY HEAD

CLEAR BRAINS!

With a Sound Body!

Are Bestowed upon All who Use
Paine's Celery Compound.

Sweet, gentle spring is with us, presaging leaves, bud and flowers, and, of course, happier times. Thousands will welcome the balmy air and zephyr breezes, while a multitude, hovering between life and death, are unable to enjoy or even appreciate the blessings of a kind Providence.

A host of men and women and young people are laid low owing to diseases contracted during the winter season.

Impurities of the blood, cause it to flow sluggishly, and the results are, continual headaches, heavy and clouded brains, neuralgia, rheumatism, and a host of other symptoms that endanger life.

For all these troubles, Paine's Celery Compound is the great and unfailing cure; it acts like a charm on the nervous system, producing pure blood, a cool and easy head, clear brains and a sound body.

Paine's Celery Compound is as superior to the ordinary nervines, bitters sarsaparillas and pills as strength is better than weakness. The use of one bottle will soon convince the ailing that Paine's Celery Compound has virtues unknown to any other medicine.

Death of James McQuarrie.

The following notice of the death of James McQuarrie, brother of Mr. John McQuarrie, one of Woodstock's oldest and most respected citizens, and father of Mrs. L.A. Fraser, Mr. Fraser being formerly of Fredericton, is copied from the Cralport, Pa. Standard.

James McQuarrie was born in Nova Scotia in June, 1820. His life thus stretched over three quarters of a century, having entered his seventy-sixth year. Very early in life Mr. McQuarrie came to the United States and settled in the State of Maine, where he remained for some time. Migrating further southward, he settled in Clearfield, Pa., in 1866, and later at Bigler and Houtzdale, in the same county. Seven years ago he came to Irvona. His life in the community during that period has been manifest to all. Rarely do we see such a union of the christian virtues of charity, meekness, forbearance and unselfishness as were blended together in his character. The impression he left on all who knew him was that of unapproachable integrity, and in his removal from our midst the remark has been made by many that there is not his equal left behind in the whole community. The profound respect in which Mr. McQuarrie was held by young and old was evinced by the numerous callers who came, during his sickness, to inquire of his condition.

He bore his last illness with great patience and resignation. For seven weeks he was bedfast, and often under intense suffering, yet he never betrayed the least sign of murmuring, bearing his affliction in the spirit of a sweet christian submission.

Funeral services were held in the Presbyterian church on the 15th. Out of respect for his memory all the stores in town were closed and the church was densely crowded in every part. The remains were taken to Bigler the next morning and interred in the family burying ground. For 30 years Mr. McQuarrie had been a consistent member of the Presbyterian church. He leaves a widow and two daughters to mourn his loss.

Mrs. McQuarrie's maiden name was Mary J. Kirkpatrick of Debec.—Ed. Dispatch.

THE ILLS OF WOMEN.

Constipation, causes more than half the ills of women. Karl's Clover Root Tea is a pleasant cure for Constipation. Sold by Garden Bros.

The illustrated monthly "Magazing Number" of THE OUTLOOK for March has nearly fifty pages of reading matter, and more illustrations than any of the previous issue. Dr. R. L. Dickinson writes as an expert on hygienic and practical aspects of "Bicycling for Women," with cuts showing just what is right and wrong about women's riding; Edward Everett Hale tells of the "Higher Life of Boston;" there is a pleasant "Spectator" talk about picturesque New Orleans; Charleston of to-day is compared with its ante-bellum life in Mr. W. J. Abbot's "From Atlanta to the Sea;" Martin Luther is the subject of a fine article by Professor Harnack, the great German theologian; and Mr. A. E. Kimball has a readable article about Penzance and the Newlyn school of artists. All these articles are fully illustrated. Ian MacLaren's novel gains in interest and humor. ($3 a year; The Outlook Company, 13 Astor Place, New York.)

An Opening for the New Woman.

A cry of distress comes from the western plains. Many sections of that great fertile belt are desolate and cheerless, not through any shortcoming of nature, but simply owing to the absence of the gentle sex. No less an authority than the Land Commissioner of the Canadian Pacific Railway Company expresses the opinion that the great want of the North-West is more women. He does not dilate upon the charm of woman's society, the elevation, refinement, and brightness it gives to life, and its entirely inspiring influence, but what he does say is equally to the purpose. He declares that the greatest drawback to the country is the bachelor farmer. There are hundreds of those forlorn beings living in domiciles on the prairies, their lives unsweetened by any human companionship save that of their own stern sex. This uncongenial way of life makes them dissatisfied, tends to make them careless. What wonder if such exiles and hermits, with no helpmate by to stiffen their backbones, often lose heart, let things go to the dogs, send home lamentations to the Old Country, and then fare thither themselves to confirm their stories by their poverty-stricken appearance? It is a known fact that the letters of these disappointed ones have proved a serious damper to the enthusiasm which was spreading in favour of the North-West at the time they left the United Kingdom. Their letters, scattered over the whole of England, widely talked of or published in the provincial press, turned off the course of immigration to other shores—to the United States, to Australia, to South Africa. If these men had been mated with plucky wives, the story of their failures would not have been written home. They would have found life on the prairie tolerable, and would therefore have taken a pride in overcoming their difficulties. A good housekeeper would have changed the face of the world for them. The comforts of home, the sympathy and loyal support of a good wife, would have made a man of many a poor fellow who lacked nothing else to make a man of him. As the Toronto Mail and Empire says, a few thousand women of the right kind would probably do more to make that country than any other influence that could be brought to bear upon it just now. They would give some energy to the now weak and ineffectual efforts of lone young farmers. Life is also made somewhat blank on the prairie by a scarcity of domestic servants. Suitable immigrants of that kind can find employment, and are not likely to have to go long without husbands. Women seem to be a real want of the country. Until it is favoured by enough of them its progress, great though it may be, must be far short of its possibilities.—St. John, P. Q. News.
