As an alternative and tonic it has no superior. This statement, for the benefit of suffering humanity, we give freely.

THE MUSINGS OF THE WICKED IMP.

A GOOD JOKE ABOUT THE CAMPAIGN BUTTON.

It Wouldn't do to Use it as a Canvas. What Color Will The Mayor's Chair be Painted?—Against New Sidewalks.—A Suitable Name.

I understand that the town council is to have a new suit of clothes, speaking figuratively. That is, the chamber is to be newly swept and garnished, and our civic rulers are to have a fit room in which to transact their weighty public business. The mayor's desk is to be painted. All of this I approve most heartily. The only thing that bothers me, is how the council are likely to decide on the color in which to adorn His Worship's chair. Will it be orange or green?

And now some foolish citizens are talking about laying asphalt sidewalks on Main street, even if they have to bear part of the expense themselves. I am opposed to any such innovation. I am opposed to anything and everything new. I think the waterworks was a great mistake, the electric light a positive scandal. Having water so convenient that you can turn a tap and get all you want, has the effect of making people lazy. The electric light which, by the way, is having a holiday now, encourages the bad habit of keeping late hours. I would go in for the curfew bell being rung at eight o'clock every evening, and any person found out after the customary ten minutes was allowed in which to get home, should be put in the lockup and fed on bread and water for a month. In case of a prayer meeting a special permit would be allowed. Now, there is a great objection to asphalt sidewalks, in general. If we leave the streets as they are, there is a chance for a hard-up fellow like me to earn an honest penny. I can easily stumble in a hole and sprain or break my ankle, and then the town will have to pay me damages. Whereas if good sidewalks are laid it will be hard to get anything out of the town. And surely, it is more charitable and wise to pay out money for damages than to throw away money in putting our sidewalks in repair. I trust to the conservatism of the present council, that no innovations will be allowed in our town.

A Liberal came into this office last week wearing in his buttonhole a campaign button, bearing on it a likeness of Mr. Laurier, and he was taken to task by a high protectionist Conservative for being a member of a party that had all its campaign paraphernalia made in the United States. The Conservative took the button from the astonished Liberal's coat and showed him on the reverse side the imprint of a New Jersey manufacturing concern. Just then another Conservative entered with a campaign button, containing a picture of the "old flag" and other emblems claimed to be particularly those of the "old party." The liberal, with one last ray of hope gleaming in his eye examined the reverse of the conservative button, and lo, that also had been made in the United States.

Never having indulged in ardent spirits, I can be expected to have but little sympathy with those who do bend the elbow, or with those who provide the wherewithal to cause the elbow to bend. The liquor seller is getting it hot and heavy from all quarters, and nowhere is he more abused than the places where prohibition prevails. This is all very right, but it reminds me of the oft repeated story of the minister who didn't know what subject to select for a sermon, as he was very anxious to offend no one in the congregation. Finally he acted on the suggestion of an elder who remarked "Pitch into the Jews. They've no friends here."

A Boy's Life Saved

"One day my little boy, aged 7, got a fall and hurt his knee. Inflammation of the knee joint set in and the decay of the bone of the leg rapidly followed. Doctors removed over a hundred pieces of decayed bone, but the process of decomposition continued. All attempts to stop it failed. The boy had but a few days' life before him according to all human expectations. Mr. Denham, druggist, Petrolia, advised me to try Scott's Sarsaparilla, I did so, and not only saved but completely cured my boy."—JOSEPH DUNCAN, farmer, Lambton County, Ont.

DOGS AND SHEEP.

What our Members Had to Say in the Matter.

The legislature was occupied in committee part of last week in debating a bill, introduced by Mr. White, imposing a tax on dogs for the protection of sheep.

Mr. White said it was proposed that an annual tax be imposed of one dollar for every dog and five dollars for every female dog throughout the province. It was not proposed to raise any revenue for the province under the bill, the intention being that the taxes should be devoted to the different municipalities or incorporated towns or cities. In municipalities the taxes would be a fund to meet the losses of those who might have sheep destroyed after the passage of this bill. It might be argued that in cities or towns dogs should be exempted from the operation of the bill, but it was a fact that many sheep in the rural districts were killed by dogs from cities and towns. That being so, it might be a question if some part of the taxes in the cities and towns should not go into the county funds, in order to provide for the payment of losses of sheep, as in the cases of the municipalities taxes. The bill as it stood, however, did not provide for the taxes in towns and cities going elsewhere than into the funds of such towns and cities. It was not proposed to pass the bill regardless of the will of the people. Section two provided if a petition of ratepayers, being householders to the number of fifteen in each and every parish of a municipality outside of the limits of any city or incorporated town shall be presented to the council of the municipality, such council may by by-law provide that the said tax, or any portion thereof, shall not be levied in such municipality outside the limits of any city or incorporated town, upon the owner, possessor or harbinger of a dog that such persons owns, possesses or harbors one dog and no more, and there is only owned and possessed one dog in the household, or upon the premises of such person.

Mr. Smith said the figure in the bill in reference to female dogs would have the effect of improving the breed of dogs and do away with hundreds of poor curs. He believed that three-quarters of the sheep killed within five miles of Woodstock were killed by town dogs. A vigorous law was enforced in Maine, and had borne beneficial results.

An amendment to exempt cities and towns from the operation of the act, was lost Upon the discussion of the section providing that upon the petition of fifteen ratepayers in each parish the county council might, if they wished, exempt the farmers from taxation to the extent of one dog. Mr. Dibblee said he thought the section was all right as it stood, because it left to the farmers themselves to say whether or not they wished to have their sheep protected from the ravages of dogs.

Wore Greased Gloves Seven Years. John Siron, mason, Aultsville, Ont., had Salt Rheum so severe that for seven years he wore greased gloves. He writes: "I used a quarter of a box of Chase's Ointment. It cured me. No trace of Salt Rheum now." Chase's Ointment cures every irritant disease of the skin, allays itching instantly, and is a sterling remedy for piles. Avoid imitations. 60c. per box.

A Swift Acting Army Rifle. Dr. S. F. McClain of Washington, Ia., who has invented an army rifle that is causing astonishment among military men wherever it is exhibited, left Chicago for New York to enter his rifle in competition before a committee of the State Legislature, which was appointed to equip the National board of that State with 12,000 new guns. The invention has been fully patented. A single straight movement of the hand loads and fires the rifle, which has a capacity of five cartridges at present. It is filled by one movement from a case containing the cartridge. The new contrivance makes clogging of the rifle or disarranging of the cartridges impossible. It is lighter than other rifles, and 750 rounds have been fired at one time to test its endurance and faithfulness to aim.

Ayer's Sarsaparilla will remove that tired feeling, and give new life and energy.

The South Australian railways, it is said, have perfected a system of supplying current for lighting their cars by means of a dynamo run from the car axle. In the day time this dynamo stores up energy in accumulator cells, which is used in the night time to light trains. The arrangement is said to work satisfactorily.
