JAN. 16.-Cold? well you would think so had you been here for the last ten days. And coming as it did upon the wake of a long rain and warm weather it took more hold of us I suppose. Yet it has been and is yet intensely cold. It has been so long since we had a fall of snow that we have ceased to look for any. There is only about ten inches in the woods, hardly enough for good work and the roads are very rough.

Guy McCollom has begun hauling off his yards, as it looks as if it is poor policy to wait for more

J. Nowlin has also put two teams on the yards. Guy McCollom is down river at present, for a

Jas. Hayes, Jas. Boyd and Jas. Lynch took dinner at Thos. Lynch's camp on Sunday. A great many of the men in the various camps are sick with "grippe."

Now that the English-American trouble has somewhat subsided and the prospects of a British and German rupture seems inevitable things have quieted down some around here.

The scalers came near having a serious accident on their last trip. They drove their horse into the ice at Vassars camp on the St. Francis where it was not strong enough to carry a man. As a natural consequence horse sleigh and all dropped through in about twenty feet of water. Holmes Morrison who was driving attempted to get the animals head but broke through the ice and had to crawl ashore. The Vassar who had a canoe on the opposite shore run it across on the ice and the horse in the meantime turned for the shore the harness was cut clear from the sled and a rope which one of the party had secured was put around the horses neck and with a heave-ho, he was pull ed onto solid ice none the worse for his icy bath except from his chilling. Mr. Morrison the only one in the party to get wet was hardly able to get out of bed next morning from rheumatism. Moral "Look before you leap" especially on that most treacherous of all streams the St. Francis. We never thought we had reached the limit o civilization but we came near finding that point last week. It is at Beau Lake, the settlement there consists of a Frenchman and his family his son and family. They have a saw and shingle mill and Oliver Ganotte has a lumber store and and blacksmith shop there for the winter. There is also a rum shop situated half a mile further down as we were informed. The settlement if it can called so is just at the head of the lake and on Quebec side of the St. Francis. They are twenty-four miles from the railway and nine miles from any neighbour. The old gentleman asked our opinion about the war and on being informed that it looked as if it would end in wind he heaved a sigh of relief and said in half French and wholly bad English, Mon Deiu monsieurs me pretty glad for hear dat bimeby; we pretty mooch scat to fear dat dare is war. We informed the gentleman he had no cause for alarm for even in case of war all he had to do was to stay at home and there was no danger of any ever finding him until at least half a century after the war closed.

One of our young men is at present suffering from contraction of the muscles of his jaw caused by trying to pronounce some of the words in a letter e received early in the month. We hope the latter is not dangerons. But at any rate it would be well for the young ladies to go a little light on too big words till the cold weather is over at least. Then if "Polly wants a cracker" prob-

JAN. 20.—Henry McCain, M.P.P., has returned from a trip to Boston. We understand that his business to that city was to open up, if possible, a better market for the farmers produce. Mr. Mc-Cain deserves the credit of being the first man to establish the cash produce trade in this section. He has always endeavoured to obtain the best market so that he could give the farmers the advantage of the highest price possible for their produce. By doing this he has won the confidence of the people of this county, and from a small beginning has increased his business to be second to none in the county. Your correspondent learned that he has loaded as high as seven cars per day this station headen beginning the second to none in the county. JAN. 12.—I have been paid a flying visit by two bears. As I awoke one morning and peeped over the edge of my berth I saw two bears crawl out. Junping down out of the berth I grabbed one of them, but it turned out to be Newell Bear and Tom Bear the hunters. They say, "not much fur

Henry Day of Hartland, will commence opera-tions on Sisson Branch, hauling in the lumber that was yarded the first of the season. He is said to have a fine crew of men. One of his crew came in to supper the other night, and after devouring three pounds of beef and a plate of other nice eatables, ate two mince pies, and was laid up the next day with big feet. The men can say what they like about cooks being saving and cooking good grub, but Good McKein is the best all round cook that ever slung dough for Hale.

J. J. Hale is again visiting his camp after his New Year absence. We have some fine singers in the camp. The latest songs are the Bumbley Bee and My Barnie is way out on the Water; and sometimes we hear John Brown talking in the distant woods.

JAN 17.—There has been a gloom thrown over this place by the sudden death of Mrs. John P. Avery aged 28. She passed away on Thursday after an illness of about four days. She leaves a husband and three children. She was buried on Sunday in the Avery burying ground. The funeral was largely attended although the travelling was poor. The survices were conducted by Mr. Significant for the survivers were conducted by the survivers were survivers to the survivers were survivers to the surviv services were conducted by Mr. Smith, Methodist. Mr. Smith is holding special religious meetings here this week. There was a meeting at John Avery's last evening and a number that have not been in the habit of taking part in religious meetings gave their testimony. Some four have started, and it is thought that others will shortly follow. Mr. Smith is an earnest christian minister.

The lumbermen are very anxious to have snow. They are about done yarding and would like to haul their logs to the stream. Some are getting uneasy, afraid that they will not get their logs off the yards.

Knoxford.

JAN. 10.—Most of the young men from this place are away in the woods. Their return is anxiously looked for by the fair sex. Mr. G. W. Jamison received a severe kick in the face from a horse. He has every reason to be thankful for getting off so easily.

Our school is in chacge of Mr. C. Shaw of Avondale. Mr. Eugene Clark, our former teacher, has charge of the school at Clearview.

Miss Lizzie Fulton of this place is spending a few months in Lowell with friends.

Rev. W. B. Wiggins passed through this place Jan. 14th on his way to St. John. The attention of the local authorities is called to the condition of the foot bridge across the Guisiquit stream between the post office and R. F. Jones' residence. Mr. Trueman Jones, crossing the other day with no heavier load than the "Fredericton Gleaner" became imprisoned by one foot, and only after repeated cries for help, was heard and relieved from his unenviable position by the aid of an axe in the hands of "Little Rob."

JAN. 20.—The steam mill at Upper Brighton was burned at an early hour Sunday morning. The mill was owned and operated by S. E. Campbell, but had not been in operation for some weeks. How the fire originated is not known, but when first noticed had about consumed the dry house. The mill contained a rotary, shingle and clapboard machines, and a plainer, and gave employment to about fifteen men for eight months of the year. The chief output of the mill was clapboards, and a new plainer had been put in during the late season. A mill was burned on the same site a few years since, but it is not probable that another mill will be erected. Some dwelling houses near it were saved with much difficulty. The loss of the mill will be much felt by the place.

VENEZUELAN QUESTION.

Again Assumes A Threatening Aspect.

London, Jan. 19-The St. James' Gazette. commenting upon the speech which Mr. Balfour made at Manchester last night, says this afternoon: "Mr. Balfour does not give encouragement to the diplomatic amateurs who are trying to get the Americans to believe that we are wrong and will end by knuckling

"Those who have been led to believe that the Marquis of Salisbury intends to apply to Washington, asking it to be good enough to arbitrate or conciliate, are much mistaken, and we sincerely hope that they have not

"There is an increasing disposition both in London and in Washington, to believe that the dispute can be arranged by negotiations between the only genuine parties thereto, Great Britain and Venezuela.

"We have no quarrel with the Monroeism, but if the senate insists upon setting up a new Monroeism which will render the United States absolute arbitrator of the affairs of the continent, of which one-third belongs to Great Britain, we certainly cannot avert the consequences by yielding. The issue, peace or war, lies with the Americans.'

The Globe takes the same view of the arbitration proposition and asks how a court could be constituted whose decisions would be sure to command respect on both sides.

"To this day," adds The Globe, "the Americans have not carried out the Behring Sea award, and the arbitrators have no means of entorcing it.'

cables from London to The World: It would not seem from The Times' leader on Venezuela this morning that recent efforts toward arbitration have found much favor in Downing-street. If there exists any indication in the English press of Lord Salisbury's ed to Timothy Ryan thence running by the magdisposition in this matter, it is to be found in | net of the year one thousand eight hundred and the columns of The Times. That paper has, from the beginning of the controversy, seemed inspired by the Premier.

If, therefore, it speaks by authority this morning, any material results from arbitration seem as remote as possible.

"We may emphatically repeat," says The Times, "That the only point on which the British government can make no concessions is the retention under Brisish sovereignity of bona-fide settled districts. If this can be secured, there is no reason for standing by that Venezuela may have the rest without further controversy.

Lord Salisbury has not only the largest party majority behind him in the history of Great Britain, but he has just now been assured of the unanimous and enthusiastic backing of the whole country in overt preparations for war against Germany. That danger now seems to have passed, for some time to come at least, and the Premier's policy towards us is not likely to be less dictatorial unlimited support.

of his instructions to Sir Julian Paunceforte, it may surprise the people of the United States possibly to a langerous repetition of the popular outburst of a few weeks ago. The Senate committee on foreign relations of the United States has gone Sec. Olney one better. They report in favor of a resolution. The United States denies the right of any European power to acquire any such territory, on this continent, either by force, purchase, cession, occupation, pledge, colonization or protection, whether under unfounded predisputes or otherwise. It declares unmistakably that any such attempt will be regarded as a manifestation of unfriendliness, the disposition upon which the government cannot look with indifference.
