

Yarns. Yarns. Yarns.

This notice is intended especially for Farmers. Those who have yarn made to order by us have been exceedingly well pleased, and 'tis a very frequent expression, "We will spin no more at home." Think of one machine spinning as much as one hundred women. We don't wonder farmers' wives are tired of it, besides it will cost very much more to do it at home than than it will cost at the mill.

Send along your wool soon as it is dry and your orders. We can make any size for you. Be sure and send samples of sizes. By sending your wool and orders early you will be able to have your yarn at hand more promptly, for all along the summer months we are rushed with this work.

We make single for you for 15c. and double for 18c. per lb.

Information cheerfully given. When writing mention this paper.

Ticklish Things.

Coughs are ticklish things. Nowhere does the extravagant saying: "I was tickled to death," come nearer being true, than in the case of a severe cough. Do you know the feeling? The tickling in the throat, that you writhe under and fight against, until at last you break out in a paroxysm of coughing? Why not cure the cough and enjoy unbroken rest? You can do so by using Ayer's Cherry Pectoral.

Language of Color.

Some of the officials at the Ministry of the Interior are engaged at the present moment, says a Paris correspondent, on what to many may seem a very simple matter, but which to them is decidedly a knotty question. It has been decided that all prison warders who have completed a term of service of 25 years are to be rewarded with a medal. The idea is an excellent one, and the men themselves certainly deserve some suitable recognition in return for their strict attention to a rigorous and monotonous duty. The great question now to be settled is what color shall the ribbon attached to the medal partake of? Green was at first thought of, but as this tint here denotes hope, it was felt to be too suggestive for man who has passed much of his life between four walls. Red, it appears, was next proposed, but put aside for obvious reasons, while white, the emblem of innocence, could scarcely be associated with the habitation of crime, even when the wearer was the guardian and not the guarded. Someone has suggested a stone color, which would prove very appropriate, and at any rate it is thought the official mind will choose some sober-toned tint.

ONLY DISCOVERED LATELY

THAT "KOOTENAY" WILL CURE CATARRH.

Read the Sworn Statement of Three of Hamilton's Citizens.

Dominion of Canada, county of Wentworth, province of Ontario, to wit:

I, William G. Cox, of the city of Hamilton, in the county of Wentworth, flour and feed merchant, at 374 King street west in said city, do solemnly declare and say that it affords me great pleasure to add my testimony as to the wonderful properties of "KOOTENAY CURE" for catarrh, with which I have been troubled for fully ten years. I tried almost every advertised medicine for this disease, but without success until I began taking Ryckman's "KOOTENAY CURE" in October, 1895, and found after following the directions closely, that it has exceeded my most sanguine expectations, and relieved me from all the unpleasant symptoms of the disease. I can cheerfully recommend it to any one thus afflicted, and feel confident that if its use is persevered in for a reasonable time and directions faithfully observed, that it will lead to a positive cure.

And I make this solemn declaration conscientiously believing it to be true, and knowing that it is of the same force and effect as if made under oath and by virtue of the Canada evidence act.

Declared before me at the city of Hamilton, in the County of Wentworth, this 18th day of February, A. D., 1896.

Rats.

We always like rat stories. Here is one from a sober contemporary:

During the quiet of interval at Blackburn Railway Station, a porter was resting near a hoist when he observed a large motherly-looking rat approaching him. He held out his hand, and to his surprise the friendly rodent nestled contentedly in his capacious palm, and allowed him to place her in his pocket, where she remained some minutes. Presently the noise and bustle of an arriving train alarmed the animal, which darted off, leaving in its novel nest a litter of five baby rats.

We know whereof we affirm when we state that Ayer's Pills, taken promptly at the first symptoms of colds and fevers, arrest further progress of these disorders, and speedily restore the stomach, liver, and bowels, to their normal and regular action.

Rushing the Wheat.

The Manitoba and North West farmers are busily engaged getting their wheat to market, taking advantage of the high price of the staff of life. A dispatch from Winnipeg says: The grain men are loud in their praises at the efficient manner in which the C. P. R. is handling the unprecedented rush of wheat. Every hour and a half during the day a train of cars loaded with wheat passes the C. P. R. depot here destined for Fort William. Three hundred cars, carrying 50,000 bushels of wheat go east every day. Before the end of the week the C. P. R. will have handled three hundred and fifty cars, or nearly 225,000 bushels a day. This will make the weekly output up to slightly over a million and a half bushels per week. Empty cars are being brought back from the lake front with all possible speed, and the present rate of handling the traffic can be maintained until the close of navigation. The deliveries at provincial points average 125,000 a day, and as the company are handling twice that amount in the same time there is no danger of a blockade. Navigation is not expected to close before the end of November, at which time the greater part of this season's crop will have been moved out of the province.

THE MUSINGS OF THE IMP.

I hope I will not be set down as cynical, or be accused of throwing cold water on commendable zeal, when I say I think the "convention" idea is overdone. I have not any intention of casting the slightest slur on the successful meetings of last week. My opinion was formed before I ever heard the Prov. S.S. Convention would meet in Woodstock. It is on general principles that I hold the convention is overdone. We must have a grand flourish over our work, or we are not satisfied. All I have to say is that history does not show that the most successful movements have been the most noisy, or the most widely published. Free Masonry works quietly but effectively. When Ignatius Loyola conceived the idea of forming an order, which successfully met the rising wave of Protestantism and pushed it back, he did not have a convention, yet the work of the Jesuit order has been inestimable to the church of which it is an arm. Nor did Puritanism in its early day, when it gathered itself together, and smote kings and prelates, rely upon noise and publicity. It worked quietly. But, now-a-days we must have our blow out. Every organization religious, social, fraternal, is bound to have a "convention." I recall once attending a convention of undertakers, and, as a positive fact, all the dishes and get up was in funeral style. For instance there were coffin-shaped salt cellars. It was a ghastly sight to the uninitiated but the undertakers are used to that sort of thing and did not mind it. However, it shows to what lengths conventions may go. Oh! for an order that never had a "convention." I'm not a joiner, but I will join it right away.

"I wish I had been born in the moon, or in any of the planets (except Jupiter or Saturn because I never could bear cold weather) for it could not well have fared worse for me in any of them (though I will not answer for Venus) than it has in this vile, dirty planet of ours—which o' my conscience, with reverence be it spoken, I take to be made up of the shreds and clippings of the rest;—not, but that the planet is well enough, provided a man could be born in it to a great title, or to a great estate, or could anyhow manage to be called up to public charges and employments of dignity or power;—but that is not my case,—and therefore every man will speak of the fair as his own market has gone in it for which cause I affirm it over again to be one of the vilest worlds that ever was made." So talks Tristram Shandy and he even adds that this is a "scurvy and disastrous world." Tristram found the world cold to him, and he retaliated by abusing the world. So do we all when we have the blues, but the world can stand it and goes on the even tenor of its ways, hardly taking time to laugh at our impotent ravings

This is a very old rhyme, but it is about as profane as anything that a thoughtless end-of-the-century poetaster would put out. Fancy a man writing the like of this:—"Die I must, but let me die drinking in an inn, Hold the wine cup to my lips sparkling from the brim So when angels flutter down to take me from my sin, 'Ah! God have mercy on this sot' the cherubs will begin." What bad men there must have been in those days.
