

Yarns. Yarns. Yarns.

This notice is intended especially for Farmers. Those who have yarn made to order by us have been exceedingly well pleased, and 'tis a very frequent expression, "We will spin no more at home." Think of one machine spinning as much as one hundred women. We don't wonder farmers' wives are tired of it, besides it will cost very much more to do it at home than than it will cost at the mill.

Send along your wool soon as it is dry and your orders. We can make any size for you. Be sure and send samples of sizes. By sending your wool and orders early you will be able to have your yarn at hand more promptly, for all along the summer months we are rushed with this work.

We make single for you for 15c. and double for 18c. per lb.

Information cheerfully given.
When writing mention this paper.

Pill Clothes.

"I don't believe there ever was so good a pill made as Ayer's Cathartic Pills. They will do all you recommend them for and even more. When I have a cold and ache from head to heels, a dose or two of these pills is all the medicine needed to set me right again. For headache,"

The good pill has a good coat. The pill coat serves two purposes; it protects the pill, and disguises it to the sensitive palate. Some coats are too heavy; they won't dissolve, and the pills they cover pass through the system, harmless as a bread pellet. Other coats are too light, and permit the speedy deterioration of the pill. After 30 years exposure, Ayer's Sugar Coated Pills have been found as effective as if just fresh from the laboratory. It's a good pill, with a good coat. Ask your druggist for

Smart Boys.

There is a cruel story in circulation concerning a certain pupil teacher in one of the public schools, who has been highly complimented because of the success attending the examination of her pupils. It was noticed that her class of boys seemed to be able to solve all the problems. When a question was asked every boy's hand in the class was raised.

The principle of the school was putting the questions, and the lady teacher would call on a pupil to make the answer. Although more than a score of questions were asked, in no instance was an improper answer given. The principle was so pleased at the result that he made special reference to Miss Dash's proficiency as a teacher in each of the class-rooms he visited.

Probably envy was caused by the fact that in no other class-room did the pupils seem to be as well up to their studies. One of the teachers, whose pupils did not acquit themselves very creditably, made an investigation, and, by a judicious outlay of candy, succeeded in gaining the confidence of one of the boys under Miss Dash's care.

"Now, Johnnie," said she, "how is it that all you boys know the answers?"

"We don't all know," said Johnnie, munching a brandy ball.

"But you all put up your hands as if you did."

"Miss Dash tells us all to put up our hands. We boys who don't know the answer put up our left hands, and the boys who know the answer put up their right hands, and then Miss Dash only asks the boys who have a right hand up."

How the Dipper Saved the Farm.

Father was sick and the mortgage on the farm was coming due. I saw in the Christian Advocate where Miss A. M. Fritz of Station A, St. Louis, Mo. would send a sample combination dipper for 18 two cent stamps, and I ordered one. I saw the dipper could be used as a fruit jar filler; a plain dipper; a fine strainer; a funnel; a strainer funnel; a sick room warming pan and a pint measure. These eight different uses makes the dipper such a necessary article that I went to work with it and it sells at very near every house. And in four months I paid off the mortgage. I think I can clear as much as $200 a month. If you need work you can do well by giving this a trial. Miss A. M. Fritz, Station A, St. Louis, Mo., will send you a sample for 18 two cent stamps—write at once. JOHN G. N.

Hints For the Housewife.

If grass stains in white goods are rubbed with alcohol before articles are put into soap and water, the stains may be readily removed.

Never finish a meringue by placing it in a hot oven. It should brown slowly in a cool oven, when it will rise high and be light and spongy.

Bits of fish may also appear in the form of soup. They are boiled in milk, strained through a coarse sieve, seasoned to taste, and served with croutons.

All the bread crumbs which may be in the bread jar should be dried, rolled fine and placed in a jar or can ready to use in escalloping meats, fish, oysters, vegetables or as a thickening.

Bits of fish may be used for salad, and it is very good. Any mayonnaise may be used, but fish salad calls for more mustard and vinegar. A chopped pickle added to the fish makes it piquant.

If a clean cloth wrung out of water to which half a teaspoonful of ammonia has been added is used to wipe off a carpet which has been recently swept, it will remove the dusty look and brighten the colors.

Meats never allowed to boil will be more tender than those that cook hard. Tough meats become tender by proper cooking, while the reverse of this is equally true. Hard boiling in salted water will toughen the best piece of meat ever sold.

Old potatoes are made mealy by being soaked for an hour in cold water after being peeled. When boiling they should be cooked in salted water; when the potatoes are soft, turn off the water, leave the potatoes in a covered kettle to dry off all steam. They will be nearly as nice as new ones.

Do not throw away old preserve jars which have lost their covers, or whose edges have been broken, so that the covers do not fit tightly; they are excellent for holding pickles. When filled, tie a piece of cotton cloth over the top to keep out insects, and put the jars away in a storeroom closet.

In making cream or lemon pies, where the crust requires to be baked before the filling is put in, an excellent plan is to lay over the paste a piece of strong brown tissue paper, plating it to fit the pie plate and coming above the edge. Fill this with flour or meal and bake until the crust is done. Then the paper and contents may be lifted out. If flour is used it can be utilized afterward for thickening sauce and gravies.

SHILOH'S CURE, the Great Cough and Croup Cure, is in great demand. Pocket size contains 25 drops only 25c. Children love it. Sold by all druggists.

Buckingham's Dye for the Whiskers does its work thoroughly, coloring a uniform brown or black, which, when dry, will neither rub, wash off, nor soil linen.

Only think, if there was never any thing anywhere to be seen but grown-up men and women, how we should long for the sight of a little child! Every infant comes into the world like a delegated prophet, the harbinger and herald of good things, whose office is to turn the fathers' hearts to the children, and to draw the disobedient to the wisdom of the just. A child softens and purifies the heart, warming it and melting it by its gentle presence; it enriches the soul by new feelings, and awakens within it what is favourable to virtue. It is a beam of light, a fountain of love, a teacher whose lessons few can resist. Infants recall us from much that engenders and encourages selfishness, that freezes the affections, roughens the manners, indurates the heart. They brighten the home, deepen love, invigorate exertion, infuse courage, and vivify and sustain the charities of life. It would be a terrible world, I do think, if it were not embellished by little children.—Thomas Binney.

Money! Make it Yourself!

I have never seen anything in the papers about the People's Wind Mill; we call it the people's because the inventor never patented it, but let everybody use it free. Any farmer can make a mill himself and all the material complete will not cost over $10. It is a splendid mill, will pump the deepest wells, and will last longer than any mill I ever had. Any person can get diagrams and complete directions free, as I did, by sending 18 two-cent stamps to pay postage, etc., to Francis Casey, St. Louis, Mo.; he sells pumps also, and when you get your wind mill going would be glad to sell you a pump if you need it. It is useless to pay $20 or $30 for a wind mill when you can get one just as good for $10. I think there could be big money made putting these mills up through the country as everybody would like them. A READER.

THE MUSINGS OF THE IMP.

Great minds think alike. Just about the time that I was writing in this column in favor of cremation as a means of disposing of dead bodies. Prof. Goldwin Smith, one of the greatest living writers and literatures, who writes under the non-de-plume of Bystander deals with the same subject, and DuMaurier's common sense inspired him as it inspired me. Here is what the learned professor has to say on the subject:—"The habit of burial is deeply-rooted, and it is the more difficult to change because the moment of affliction is the one at which a family is the least prepared to do battle against custom. But all the reasons, both of health and taste, are surely on the side of cremation. Those of health unquestionably are. But if we look at the matter from the side of taste, what idea can be more repulsive than that of the protraction of decay by coffin burial? In none of its aspects is death agreeable, except to those who are weary of life. But it is least disagreeable when we think of it as the re-union of our immortal part with the general frame and the beauty of nature. The speedier, surely, this re-union can be made, the better. That the danger of premature burial is no illusion, there have been attested cases enough to prove; and nothing more hideous can be imagined. Not a few people, there is reason to believe, are haunted by the fear. All that is done for the preservation of the body after death, or to protract the process of dissolution, derogates from belief in the immortality of the soul. Why all this care for the corpse, and all this pomp and expenditure in disposing of it, if it is nothing but cast-off raiment? The Egyptian, who thought the body was still the man, went straight to his mark, and tried to preserve the body by embalment. We, by the coffin-burial, merely spin out the loathsomeness of decay."

THE IMP.
Another Smart Woman.
My husband is poor but proud and he does not want me to work; as I have nothing to do I get restless, and after reading in your paper Mrs. Russell's experience selling self-heating flatirons I concluded I would try it. I wrote to J. F. Casey & Co., St. Louis, Mo. and they treated me so nicely that I felt very much encouraged. As soon as I got my sample iron I started out and sold 8 irons the first day, clearing $12. I have not sold less than eight any day since, and one day I sold 17. I now have $225 clear money, and my husband does not know I have been working, but I am afraid he will be mad when I tell him. Have I done right or should I quit work and leave him to struggle along?
AN ANXIOUS WIFE.
You are doing just right, your husband should be proud of you, go right ahead and show the world what an energetic woman can do. That self-heating iron must be a wonderful seller, as we hear of so many that are succeeding with it.

Short Term Sentences.
There is a growing feeling not only here but abroad that the system of sentencing prisoners in the police courts should be radically changed. Men and women whose faces grow as familiar in the court room as the officials themselves are up for offences month after month, and each time they receive sentences varying from ten days to three months. Obsolete entirely of the enormous expense of this leniency the offenders might readily lay claim to being unjustly treated, since their very short term gives them no help or encouragement to reform. They drift along upon a sea of chance, and the whole proceedings look like a friendly co-operation between them and the officials to provide mutual employment. Commenting upon this the Howard Association of Great Britain in a recent report said:—"The too brief sentences often passed upon drunkards, professional thieves and hardened criminals, together with the mischievous association of these in prisons, encourage them on release deliberately to organize further outrages upon their fellow-men." The practice that is so common in our own cities was forcibly presented by Dr. Lyman Abbott in a sermon at Brooklyn a short time ago when he said:—"When the man is sentenced, the sentence should be adjusted with reference not to the crime he had committed but wholly to the cure to be accomplished. Not that this ideal could be instantly reached, but that this ideal is to be kept constantly in view. I confess I am amazed at our patient folly. We arrest a man in New York for drunkenness; we send him up to the island for ten days; he stays there just long enough to get sober and then he is discharged. He comes back to New York; in 24 hours he is arrested again for drunkenness and sent to the island again for ten days. There are men in New York who spend two-thirds of the time on the island. We are paying Police Justices in New York for that operation. What we ought to do is this; When the man is arrested for his first drunkenness his friends should be found, if he has any; when he is arrested for the second or the third or the fourth, patience should be exercised; but when the right time comes he should be put into an institution, the object of which is to cure men of inebriety, and if he cannot be cured he should stay there the rest of his life. You say, Would you imprison a man for life for getting drunk? No, I would not; but I would keep him in an institution for life rather than let him come out to prey upon the community by his drunkenness."
