Good Roads.

To the Editor of the Dispatch:

SIR,—It is said that "Jordan is a hard road to travel." I think some of our back country roads would fairly match it. One road in particular between Nortondale and Woodstock is in certain parts about as bad as can be. It hardly ever dries out, even in the driest time in summer, and during wet weather in the fall and spring it is well nigh impassable. I pity the man whose business requires him to travel through it.

Now for a remedy. I learn from the papers that there has been formed a "Good Roads Association" for the province and that W. S. Tompkins Esq., Southampton, and C. L. Smith Esq., M. P. P. of Woodstock have been elected vice presidents. I wish they could find him to look over this Nackawick road in company some day when it isn't raining. Mr. A. W. Campbell, highway instructor for Ontario tell us what constitutes a good road. Briefly, it should be tile drained on each side four to six inches below frost. 2nd, the ditches should be shallow and the road crowning 9in. to one foot in the centre. 3rd, after the road bed is formed it should be covered with a layer of clean gravel or broken stone and then rolled. Such a road, he tells us, will last for years. He also tells us that in some parts of Ontario they have freighted broken stone 100 miles on the rail roads and found it profitable. To return to this Nackawick road. It would not be practicable to tile drain it as in many places the ledge comes too near the surface, and in others, it would be difficult to find a sufficient fall. There is no gravel in the neighborhood but there is plenty of stones within a few miles that would be just the thing if pulverized. The worst enemies to good roads in N. B. are the rains, and the use of narrow tired wagon wheels. Our government should amend the law and make it imperative that all two horse waggons should have tires four inches wide. In making turnpike the road is generally made too narrow so that two loaded waggons can hardly pass each other. Another thing is, road commissioners should be empowered to draw upon next years statute labor in order to mend bad spots in the road. If we could have use of the Fredrickton rock breaking machine for a week or two to fill up some mud holes it would do. Filling those holes with loam from the roadside is labor thrown away.

He is a Temperance Man.

To whom it may concern:—

As I am a man of good temperance principle I wish to make my case clear before the public. When I took the Queen Hotel this fall it was with the firm determination to keep a temperance house. As I keep no clerk and as I am a barber and run a barber shop in connection with the house, I had no time to bother with a bar room. I rented the room that on former occasions had been used as a bar room to William Partridge with a guarantee that nothing but temperance drinks were to be sold in the house. I watched Partridge sharp and warned him that the first sign of liquor I saw he would have to give up the room. Thursday I was served with two papers for selling rum which is something I have never touched or handled in any way, shape or form. Leaving the people of Woodstock to judge for themselves the position I am placed in,

I remain, yours,

ROBERT BLACKIE,

Queen Hotel.

Woodstock Nov. 7th, 1897.

To all whom it may concern:

Whereas it has been reported that at the recent Municipal Election at the Parish of Wicklow I stated that Mr. Samuel Jones, the Gaoler of the County of Carleton, stole ten cords of wood from the County and when it was brought up before the Council he was compelled to pay for it.

I hereby publicly deny having said so, but what I did say and the meaning I intended to convey was that the Council through extravagance had purchased more wood than they required for County purposes, and Mr. Jones was compelled to sell a portion of it to keep it from rotting and becoming a loss to the County, and I did not intend to convey any such meaning as first above stated, and I also state that I never at any time knew that Mr. Jones had ever taken a stick of wood from the County premises either rightfully or wrongfully, neither do I believe that such a thing ever happened, and from inquiries made, I do not now believe that he ever even sold any wood, and have always considered and do now consider Mr. Jones to be a capable, upright and honest official.

Dated at Woodstock in the County of Carleton This Twenty Eighth day of October A. D. 1897.

A. E. HARTLY.

"I am told," said the caller, "that your husband is engaged on a work of profane history?" "Yes," replied the author's wife, "it certainly sounded that way when I heard him correcting the proofs."

PROSTRATED, EXHAUSTED.

NO SLEEP—NO REST.

ALL do not appreciate the words of John G. Saxe, who sang, "God bless the man who first invented sleep!" But appreciation is not wanting to those who have suffered as Mrs. White, of Mara Township Ont., who became so ill with nervous troubles that, to quote her brother, Mr. Donald McRae, a well-known resident of that illustrious section of North Ontario: "My sister had not slept a night for over three months. She could not have stood this much longer, and it was only when death seemed imminent that South American Nervine became the good physician. After taking the first dose of the Nervine she slept all night, and gained in flesh until perfectly well, and has now no sign of nervousness." This is a wonderful medicine in the severest cases of nervousness, and the greatest flesh-builder to be found anywhere in the world.—25.

A Narrow Shave.

A farmer, not living a hundred miles from Woodstock had a narrow escape as any man ever had, from a violent death. Someway or other he got more whiskey aboard, by a good deal than he should have, on Saturday afternoon. He wandered towards the railway track and finally lay down with his head across the track near Connell's foundry and went to sleep. The night express came thundering in to the lower station and there stopped as usual. The engine was slowly pushing ahead when something dark was noticed on the track, and the sleeping agriculturist was discovered, and taken aboard, now well sobered. He has probably taken his last drink of whiskey.
