Benefits of Two Games in One.

One of the old residents in the rural community had been intently watching the two young men from the city as they played chess. The game was a long one and he ventured to interrupt:

"Excuse me; but the object of both of you is to get them wooden objects from where they are over to where they ain't?"

"That partially expresses it," replied one.

"And you have to be continually on the outlook for surprises and difficulties?"

"Constantly."

"And if you ain't mighty keeful you're goin' to lose some on 'em?"

"Yes."

"An' then there's that other game that you dress up odd for an' ply with long sticks an' a little ball."

"You mean golf."

"I think prob'ly that's what I mean. Is that game amusin'?"

"It's quite interesting, and the exercise is very beneficial."

"Well, I reckon it's a mighty good joke on me."

"What do you refer to?"

"The way I've been havin' fun without knowin' anything about. If you gentlemen re'ly want to enjoy yourselves you come over and git me to let you drive pigs. You'll git all the walkin, you want an' the way you have to watch out for surprises an' figger so's not to lose 'em would tickle you to death."—Detroit Free Press.

KIDNEY DECEIT.

How Many are Unintentionally Deceived in

Treating Kidney Disorders—Can You Afford to Trifle with Your Own Existence?—

If You Suspect there is any Kidney

Trouble, Discard Pills, Powders and Cure-

Alls—South American Kidney Cure is a

Time-Tried and Testified Kidney Specific.

A remedy which dissolves all obstructions, which heals and strengthens the affected parts, and which from its very nature eradicates all impurities from the system, is the only safe and sure remedy in cases of kidney disorder. Such a remedy is South American Kidney Cure. This is not hearsay. The formula has been put under the severest of tests, and it has been proclaimed by the greatest authorities in the world of medical science that liquids—and liquids only—will obtain the results sought for. A liquid remedy taken into the system goes directly into the circulation and attacks immediately the effected parts, while solids such as pills or powders, cannot possibly attain these results. Kidney disorders cannot afford to be trifled with. The quickest way is the safest way to combat these insidious ailments. This great remedy never fails. It's a liquid kidney specific. It's a solvent. Sold by Garden Bros.

Training The Children.

"John," said Mrs. Wisely to her liege lord the other evening, "I want to have a very frank talk with you. Do you realize that the boys are old enough now to observe and are beginning to form their characters?"

"Of course I do. Great boys."

"Yes, and we want them to be great men. They naturally look up to you, John, more than to anybody else. For their sakes you must be careful in what you do and say. You fell over a chair the other day and used some very improper language. I heard Willie repeat it when he stubbed his toe in the back yard."

"The little rascal! He didn't?" chuckled the father.

"Yes, John, and they pretend to smoke cigars and pour drinks from an imaginary decanter. Can't you set them a better example?"

"Say, little one, I heard Amy playing keep house one afternoon lately. When callers were announced she sent out word that she was not at home. When she did consent to receive any one she combed them down to beat the band before they were admitted. One was an old frump, another was an intolerable bore, and a third better a good deal be at home cleaning house or looking after her children. You couldn't have done it better yourself."

"I see what you mean, sir. No use of rubbing it in. But wait, dear," in a softer voice. "Let's both do better. It's for their sakes, you know."

As John left that evening he slipped up on the front steps and made the air blue. Around the corner he lit his cigar. Mrs. Wisely had some animated gossip with a neighbor. And yet the children seem to thrive.—Detroit Free Press.

DISTRESS FROM EARACHE.

"I was troubled with earache for a long time," says Miss J. Johnson, Innisfail, N. W. T., "and after trying different remedies without success, used Hagar's Yellow Oil as a last resort and I can really say that it cured me so completely that I have never had earache since."

Suitable Warning.

"When she promised to marry me," said the rhapsodic young man, "her voice sounded just like an angel's."

"H'm," his married friend responded. "I suppose it did. But it won't always sound that way."

"It's the devil for any one to tell me a secret, for it is sure to come out in print."—HAZLITT.

I had been talking with the merchants last Wednesday afternoon, when the thaw was at its worst. Such a dismal lot of mortals, never did I see. Dante's lost souls, in the Inferno, could scarcely have appeared more downcast. The town was gone to pot, business would never revive, that was the sorrowful refrain they mournfully chanted. I left them much dejected, and put on an old worn coat, quite certain that I had better preserve my Sunday garments, as I would never be able to buy anymore. Then comes along a citizen and says: It is true this thaw is bad for business, but the mild weather is good for the poor. Less wood is burned, less food is needed. And what of the Windsor sufferers? Our business men well housed want lots of snow and the thermometer at zero, but what of those who are homeless, and business-less. Here was philosophy. Really, the management of the weather is in good hands, and we can hardly improve it.

It has long been the custom to speak of a man as "worth" so much, his "worth" being the amount of hard cash he can name as his own. According to this perversion of the word the greatest of all was "worthless." Here is a good illustration of the modern meaning of worth," taken from the Chicago Tribune:—"Ever hear of John Billingsboy? Great student" at college. Worked hard. Graduated at the head of his class. Finest Latin scholar the institution ever turned out. Well, he's professor in the college, now, and getting along splendidly. Has a salary of $1800 a year." "Never heard of him before. What of him?" "Nothing only he is a brother of that famous little horse jockey. Billingsboy, who weighs only 98 pounds and makes $100 a day." You see the jockey was worth more than the student. Of course, that is correct. Jay Gould was worth more than Henry George.

Who has not lost an umbrella? If there be such an one let him hold up his hand, and take the head of the class. As the poet remarks:—Alas! my new umbrella—I miss it with a sigh; the day I rashly bought it a friend was standing by. Next day it rained—he borrowed it, to be returned that night; but since that fatal moment it hasn't blessed my sight. He lent it to a neighbor's wife, and to increase my woe, she lent it to the minister, and it's still upon the go. He lent it to a student, who lent it to a friend, and still it's going, going, gone; I wonder where 'twill end. But through the cloud of borrowers, one ray of hope. I see; perhaps I may be lucky and it will be lent to me.

Says the Baltimore American:—"What is more needed in this country than anything else is less political agitation and a closer harmony among all the people engaged in all kinds of enterprises." And that's just the secret of the whole matter, in this country as well as in the States. Every citizen is an embryo politician, and he must stick up for his "party." The "party" is a regular nuisance ten times, for once it is any good, and the politicians are as tyrannical as any czar. They are worse than the potato rot.

The most consistent widow in grieving for her departed husband was the lady, who after wearing the becoming weeds for two or three months, went in for mourning for life by marrying a man named Black.

Last Wednesday evening was one of those occasions when the moon, snow and electric light were on a combined strike. To add to the embarrassment of the public, these recalcitrant agencies had enlisted the fog, to further annoy the belated pedestrians.

The Language of the Coattail.

When you see the lower half section of a coattail missing it means: "I have been introduced to her father's dog."

"If the coattail looks like a porous plaster full of holes: "I didn't get the shot at a hardware store."

Coattail with a large, open-faced tear on the bias: "I scaled the back fence."

Dust on the coattail: "I had a painful interview with her papa's boot."

Coattail ripped up to the collar: "I had two leap year proposals at the same time."—Chicago News.
