

THE WOODSTOCK DISPATCH

AUGUST 25, 1897.

When Mr. Notman of the C. P. R. was here and talking with the board of trade about the passenger rate, he promised that justice would be done Woodstock in the future, in special excursion rates. This year the return ticket to the Toronto exposition is $15.75. It is about $3.00 cheaper than last year, and there is no discrimination in favor of a place, like Edmundston where there is competition. The rate is perfectly fair to Woodstock.

It is of no use to say that reading does not influence. You can no more read bad books, and not be influenced by them, than do any other bad act without its having its influence.

Everyone is talking Klondike, and visions of golden fields are more dreamt of than ever occurred to those who muse upon the heavenly streets of the New Jerusalem.

A lady near Toronto willed her body to the Ontario Medical College, having a fear of being buried alive. Most of us are afraid enough of being buried, dead.

PAIN IN THE BACK.

Mr. M. P. Halpin, Brockville, Ont., makes a statement as follows: "For two years I had suffered from kidney trouble, causing severe pains across my back, dizziness, headache, sleeplessness, etc. I had often to lean on the counter when serving a customer, so intense was the pain in my back. On taking Doan's Kidney Pills I improved from the very first, and now after using three boxes am all right; all my pains, and aches and dizziness having disappeared, thanks to Doan's Pills."

Awful Railway Accident.

The shocking railway accident which took place at Middle Sackville on Thursday last had a fatal termination. Young Stokes died at his home a few hours after the accident. He suffered little pain although frightfully mangled, and was conscious to the last. He was only ten years of age. Coroner J. M. Baird empanelled a jury who were immediately taken to view the remains. Proceedings were then adjourned till two o'clock in the afternoon, when the formal inquest was held in Geo. Campbell's carriage shop. The evidence given went to show that all the necessary precautions, in the way of slowing up the train, whistling and ringing the bell, were taken by the train hands. The verdict was to the effect that the boy came to his death by being run over by the train, and no blame was attached to anyone. The crossing at which the accident took place is a bad one. Coming from Lower Sackville it is impossible to see the train until it is right on the crossing. The vehicle, which was a heavy truck, was smashed to pieces. The forward wheels had the spokes ripped completely out, and the axle was carried 150 feet down the track, the remainder of the wagon being strewn along the sides of the rails to this point. Mr. Towse's story is substantially as follows: He had been in Lower Sackville and was hurrying home to dinner. He was trotting his horse as he approached the crossing, and the rumbling of the wheels drowned the noise made by the train. When he first saw the engine it was too late to draw back, and he did the only thing possible, whipped up his horse and tried to cross in front of the approaching train. He was hurled from his seat between the forward wheels, but was fortunately thrown clear of the rails, so that his only injuries are those resulting from the violence with which he was thrown to the ground. Young Beal, who was sitting with the deceased on the rear of the cart, was also thrown clear of the fatal wheels and sustained no injuries except a nasty cut in the head and the necessary shaking up. Poor little Robbie Stokes fell in front of the engine and the whole train passed over him. One arm was completely severed from his body, and the leg on the same side was mangled shockingly and hung on the skin. His other foot was crushed and he had numerous minor injuries. In justice to Mr. Towse it must be said that the reports relating to his being the worse of liquor are untrue. These stories arose from the fact that he had a bag on his cart containing ale bottles which were smashed to pieces by the shock and which were at first supposed to have been full of liquor. It turns out, however, that the bottles were empty. Mrs. Towse had been making root beer, and had got Mr. Towse to get her some empty bottles to put it up in.

Go to John McKenzie, the Painter.

WOODSTOCK, Aug. 21st, '97.

Gentlemen,—For the past sixteen years it has been my custom to let the owners of Sleighs and Pungs know the time to have them looked after. As time is an ever precious commodity, the customer seldom gives the poor painter enough time to produce the job, with the satisfaction he ought to have on account of hurrying the work through in a short time. My idea in writing this letter to my customers and the public in general is to remind them that this is the time to look them over, and should they want painting, you would do well to have them attended to. I don't want all the trade, but I want a part of it. I am fitted up with a large stock of colors and varnishes, the best that can be bought for money, and by fair dealing and honest work I am safe in saying you can do as well with me both in workmanship and price as anybody in the business.

Hoping you will give this your attention, I am, yours very truly,

JOHN MCKENZIE,

Loane's Factory, Connell Street.

P. S.—Parties living in town wanting their Pungs Painted can have the same hauled to my shop free of charge by notifying me.
