Mr. Michael Joseph Donnelly, of St. Paul, has observed a popular medical craze of the day, and has satirized it in a lively fashion. We cordially commend his verses to the entire medical frater-

He shuffled along the scaffold walk, Nor heeded the dizzy height; Then having dumped his mortar out,

He turned and passed to the right.
He stumbled—grasped to save himself,
His downward course to check;
He dropped about a hundred teet, And lit upon his neck. Did he die?

Dislocated neck? No. Heart failure.

He skated on the river's ice, The night was crisp and clear; The city being close at hand,

There were no wolves to fear. On, on he sped with lightning speed, The town more distant grew;
A hole—a splash—a gurgle, and
He disappeared from view.

Drowned? No. Heart failure.

He loved his Nell for many years, He loved her hard and well, But never had the courage his Affection strange to tell. He nerved himself at last one night,

No. Heart failure. -O. S. Sun.

ONE HONEST MAN. Dear Editor.—Please inform your readers, that if written to confidentially, I will mail, in a sealed letter, particulars of a genuine, honest, home cure, by which I was permanently restored to health and manly vigor, after years of suffering from nervous debility, sexual weakness, night losses and weak shrunken parts, I was robbed and swindled by the quacks until I nearly lost faith in mankind, but thank heaven I am now well, vigorous and strong, and wish to make this certain means of cure known to all sufferers. I have nothing to sell and want no money, but being a firm believer in the universal brotherhood of man, I am desirous of helping the unfortunate to regain their health and happiness. I promise you perfect secrecy. Address with stamp, WM. T. MULFORD, Agents' Supplies, P.O. Box 59, St. Henri, Que.

The Opal's Delicate Tint.

Opal presents a peculiar display of colors of delicate tints and is highly esteemed as a gem. In New South Wales opal mining is making most satisfactory progress, the output steadily increasing. There used to be a superstition that this beautiful stone brought We have School Books and with it bad luck, but the advance of knoweverything that one would ledge in recent years has, it is pleasing to note, been fatal to that silly and ridiculous notion. The leading gem dealers of Europe of a term, Scribblers, Paper, have now agents on the opal fields at the Antipodes for the purchase of the article, and buyers on the spot have proved an immense convenience to the miners.

The Rev. Bernard Snell said a little while ago: "It is of no use for us, whether Sunday school teachers or preachers, to imagine that we are thoroughly equipped if only we mean very well. Far down in the depths of the forest, under the shadows of gloomy firs, far out on the rolling prairie, springing with the grass, under the full light of the fervid sun, are fair and fragrant blossoms, budding, blossoms king, fading, dying, unseen by mortal eye. 1 millions of homes, scattered over this wide earth of ours, are fairer human blossoms, patient, gentle thoughtful souls, the fragrance of whose daily sacrifice fills, unheeded, the air; the flowers of whose offerings wither unseen, on the steps of the altar; the fruits of whose ceaseless toil are plucked by careless hands. How sweet the thought that there is no lot so low, no care so trifling, no life so hidden, that it escapes a Father's eye.

"It's the devil for any one to tell me a secret, for it is sure to come out in print."-HAZLITT.

I often hear So and So spoken of as a "smart" lawyer, and the inference is that the smart lawyer must be a clever man. What an absurd mistake! It is with lawyers as with prize fighters. There are many physical giants in the world, engaged in honest labor, who, with a little training could easily knock out either Corbett or Fitzsimmons. The same holds in the law and in other 'learned" professions. Unfortunately trickery figures a good deal in the practise of law. Now, many a juryman has better natural ability than the lawyer whose name is so glibly quoted as belonging to a naturally very sharp man. There are tricks of the trade in the law as in other businesses, and the clever lawyer is in nine cases out of ten, quite imaginary. When a so-called eminent lawyer waxes prosy with a witness, he thinks the audience thinks he is getting at some very deep point, but the aggregate listening public has more brains than the individual eminent lawyer and knows that often he is prosy and nothing more.

An interesting enquiry was held at Napanee, Ont., recently into a claim against a young man named Porton for "burglarizing" the bank safe. He was not sent to trial. It appears that popular feeling was strongly with the accused. Constables in Ontario are not as particular as to etymology as our constables are. For instance, when the accused was given his freedom by the magistrate, there was ringing shouts of approval. The magistrate rebuked the impetuous ones and Canstable Huff announced in a stentorian voice: "Whatsoever youse is what's making them rows, youse got to quit!" * * *
