Collecting Postage Stamps.
Thousands of people, young and old, now find pleasure and profit in stamp collecting, a pursuit which extends year by year, the price of genuine specimens of early stamps rising continually with the demand. There are now about fifty dealers in stamps in London alone, and the collector may be found anywhere. One dealer, Mr. W. J. Palmer of the Strand, estimates the value of his stock at over £60,000; and last year he sold upwards of 100,000 stamps, while he examines from five to ten thousand every day. The varied uses to which stamps are put may be judged from the fact that a customer bought 20,000,000 of the commoner sorts for papering walls of houses and public buildings. It is estimated that there are 500,000 stamp collectors in the United States, the C. H. Mekeel Stamp and Publishing Company of St. Louis employing alone about 130 persons in the conduct of a very large business. Sensational prices are given for rare stamps. American local varieties bring from £250 to £500; one of Livingston, Ala., has sold for £140. One of the ten specimens of the Brattleboro stamp has sold for £250; the twenty-cent St. Louis (1845) for about £500; a pair of Post Office, Mauritius, are worth £600 (two have sold for £850) and a set of the five British Guiana, first issue of 1850, will fetch £1000. An unused Transvaal stamp with error "Transoral" has sold for £60. One of the most valuable English stamps is the nine-penny straw-colored Queen's hairline of 1862 which is worth £50. Among valuable collections is that of Ferrari of Paris, which is said to be worth £270,000. That of the Duke of York is said to be worth between £200,000 and £400,000; Rothschild's about £100,000, and that of the late Czar of Russia £150,000. The collector which Mr. Tadling left to the British Museum was worth £70,000. There are now collections in the Berlin Imperial Museum, also at Amsterdam, Vienna and Dresden.

HAND-IN-HAND.

Health and Happiness go Hand-in-Hand—With Stomach and Nerves all out of Sorts, Health and Happiness are Unknown.

Frank A. Gabdois, Cornwall, Ont. "I was for several years a great sufferer from indigestion, dyspepsia and nervousness. I took many remedies without any relief. I saw South American Nerve advertised. I procured a bottle, and I can truthfully say it is the best medicine I ever used, and I strongly recommend it to anyone suffering as I did. A few doses wonderfully helped me, and two bottles have made a new man of me." It cures by direct action on the nerve centres.

Rag Carpets.

In a family where there are several children there is always a quantity of faden and worn out clothing, also sheets and pillow cases that are no longer useful in that capacity. Very pretty and serviceable carpets will be made of them, and as I have just put a new one down on our dining-room floor, I will tell you about it.

When the weekly washing was done every soiled garment was put in. Those intended for the carpet did not need ironing, but were sorted out, and all the buttons cut off and saved for future use. All seams and other thick places were cut out, as they would make rough places in the carpet, the white and very light colored rags put in one box, and the dark ones in another; both boxes have close fitting lids which keep out the dust. My last carpet is the prettiest one I have ever made, and it is composed of wide hit or miss stripes of dark rags alternating with the bright stripes.

If you wish to make a carpet of that kind, save the dark rags until you have the amount required, then cut or tear them in narrow strips. Of course, thin goods must be wider than thick, so they will make a thread of the same size when beaten up, and the texture will be uniform. When you have enough for your carpet, mix them thoroughly, so that all the stripes will be alike, and begin sewing. The white rags must be colored for the bright stripes, and the ordinary dyes for cotton are excellent for that purpose. Red, yellow, blue and green are pretty, and brighten a carpet wonderfully.

Do not leave the arrangement of the colors entirely to the weaver. Wind the stripe that you wish copied on a board, being careful to have the amount of each color used correspond with the amount of that color you have on hand. A little study will enable anyone of fair judgment to decide which color should go together to produce harmonious effects.

I have seen very pretty carpets made by sewing all the rags hit or miss style, when there was a variety of bright colors to mix with the dark ones. Two contrasting colors of warp are often used, woven in a check about an inch square. Any weaver knows how this is done. Get the best four or five ply warp, as it is usually the warp that wears out first. It is easy to estimate the quantity of material needed, for one and one-fourth pounds of rags will make a square yard of carpet, and one pound of chain is enough for three yards.

When the new carpet comes from the weaver's take a measure and get the length of the floor, then measure the carpet, marking the end of each strip by putting a pin in the place. Take it to the machine and sew across the breadth twice at each place that

English Tomato Mustard.

Slice a pint of ripe tomatoes and boil for three-quarters of an hour with a small piece of chili. Press through a hair sieve and boil up again, with pepper, allspice, pounded cloves, ground ginger, mace, and salt to taste. When cold stir in two or three teaspoonfuls of mustard worked into a smooth paste with vinegar add the same quantity of curry powder and enough vinegar to make all the consistency of made mustard, then bottle for use. Exact quantities of spices for this recipe are not given, for tastes vary so much, and some like a larger quantity of one spice than another, etc. This sauce will be found delicious with cold meat.

"It's the devil for any one to tell me a secret, for it is sure to come out in print."—HAZLITT.

The use of shorthand is becoming quite general. Its utility in business matters can scarcely be over estimated, and one wonders that any business man, who values his time does not see that it is money in his pocket to make use of stenography. There are many different systems, and it may truthfully be said that they are all good. The great thing it is to learn to take letters or speeches quickly and transcribe your notes readily. When you can do this, you should be satisfied, and there is no particular reason why you should listen to the praises of some system different from that which you have found a success. What we may look for are easier modes of teaching shorthand. As far as the Pitman system is concerned, a very excellent pamphlet has been turned out by Mr. R. Stanton Wright, official court stenographer Montreal, entitled "Pitmanic Shorthand Simplified." Graham's adaptation of Pitman, is used in introducing the student to the reporting system at once. The Family Herald and Weekly Star give this book to anyone already a subscriber, who sends them another subscriber. It is an exceedingly useful little book and people proposing to learn shorthand, where a teacher is not procurable would do well to avail themselves of the offer.

I never could see any thing but absolute sensitiveness in the objection taken to Kipling's "Our Lady of the Snows," on the ground that it represented Canada as a land of winter. This is a wintry land, and as a general thing we have lots of snow. If we have not much snow, now and then, we have what is infinitely worse, a great depth of frost. Last winter frost was six feet deep around Woodstock. Well! now if we have cold winters why be ashamed of it. Oh! they say it hurts immigration. It would be better to have no immigrants than to have them come under a mistaken idea as to the severity of our climate. Our climate, at all events, make strong and vigorous men and women, while a warm, sultry climate tends to enervate. Perhaps the joke on the critics is that in Rudyard Kipling they attacked an English writer, whose ignorance they pretended they could blame for the untrue impression created by his well-meant, verse. Now, William Wilfred Campbell, a poet of our own soil, comes out with a production in which he talks of the "far Canadian snows." Kipling is exonerated. Anyway, our sensitiveness on the snow question is inexcusable. We do not hear of Russians proclaiming that their climate is Californian, and if they did so proclaim it, we would not believe them, for experience has taught the world the contrary. The same of Canada. Who would not prefer the sharp dry cold of a Canadian winter to the dismal, wet weather that prevails during that season in so many other lands.

Do You Intend Making Your Rooms Look Brighter and Cleaner?

Thousands of women all over Canada wish this season clean house and make rooms look brighter and more cheerful. It should be remembered that Kalsomine can be beautifully tinted with the Diamond Dyes at a very trifling expense. One package of Diamond Dye tints ten to fifteen pounds handsome shades for walls. The favorite colors are yellow, orange, cardinal, slate, crimson, bismarck, violet, green, light blue and pink. To make good Kalsomine, dissolve one fourth pound of good glue to each ten pounds of whitening. Mix with sufficient water to give the right consistency. To tint it, dissolve a package of dye in a quart of water, and add as much as is necessary to give the color desired. When you buy dyes for tinting, be sure you ask your dealer for the Diamond Dyes, using any of the shades mentioned above.
