Pistols and Pestles.

The duelling pistol now occupies its proper place, in the museum of the collector of relics of barbarism. The pistol ought to have beside it the pestle that turned out pills like bullets, to be shot like bullets at the target of the liver. But the pestle is still in evidence, and will be, probably, until everybody has tested the virtue of Famous Dunces.

It is somewhat discouraging for a boy with moderate abilities, who aims to do his best, to be told that others accomplish in childhood what he can only do by hard study the best years of his youth. But such a boy should not relax his efforts. He will succeed if he gives his heart and mind to the work. Sir Isaac Newton was pronounced a dunce in his early school days. He stood low in his classes, and had no relish for study. One day the "bright boy" of the school gave him a severe pain.

The insult stung young Newton to the quick, and he resolved to make himself felt and respected by improved scholarship. Newton owed his preeminence in philosophical studies more to perseverance and application than to any marvellous natural endowments.

Oliver Goldsmith, than whom no boy could appear more stupid, was the butt of ridicule. A school dame, after wonderful patience taught him the alphabet, a thing which she deemed creditable to her school, and which she lived to mention with pride when her pupil became famous.

Sir Walter Scott was a dull boy, and when attending the University of Edinburgh, he went by the name of "the great blockhead." But he wasted no time in trifles, and in pursuing a study that he loved, he was persevering and methodical.

A Sparrow's Ride in a Fly Wheel.

Birds have all sorts of queer adventures, but perhaps, what was the oddest one of recent days is that which befell a sparrow at Anderson, Ind. It flew into a knife and bar manufactory, and getting too near a small wheel, was sucked in. The workmen noticed it go into the wheel, but knowing that the cylinder was revolving at a speed of 130 revolutions a minute, took it for granted that the bird had been killed. When the factory shut down at noon the men were astonished to hear a gentle chirp from the wheel, and lo, there was the sparrow as well as ever. They found that the bird had clung to the wheel and was in a semi-dazed condition. They picked him up and put him on a table, and thence, after collecting his wits, the little bird flew to freedom. The wheel in which the bird rode made 31,000 revolutions while it was upon it, and so the tiny feathered creature travelled seventy-three and eight-tenths miles in the embrace of a fly wheel.—Cleveland Plain Dealer.

William H. White of Portuguese Cove, Racked by the Tortures of Rheumatism, is Quickly Relieved and Permanently Cured by the Great South American Rheumatic Cure.

"I was a martyr to acute rheumatism for years. All the known remedies and best doctors were given a trial, but nothing ever gave me any permanent relief until I obtained your great South American Rheumatic Cure. It has done so much for me that I gladly give my testimony, that other sufferers from the agonies of rheumatism may take my advice and try this great remedy. I am satisfied it will cure them as it has me.—Sold by Garden Bros.

As the following is published in the Army and Navy Journal, it may be copied without offence to the military profession, no doubt.

"Father, are generals brave men?" asked Johnny.

"Yes, my son, as a rule," was the answer. "Then why do artists always make pictures of them standing on a hill three miles away looking at the battle through an opera-glass?"

MRS. R. B. GIBSON,
Queen St.,
Opp. Opera House.

I do like to see a fellow have same style about him and do things up in proper shape without impertinence or rudeness. Hazlitt had the correct tune in his head when he said "even a highwayman, in the way of trade, may blow out your brains, but if he uses foul language at the same time, I should say he was no gentleman." Poor Hazlitt! and he died without the pleasure of knowing that I approved of some of his stuff. However, I hope the joys of the regions above may compensate him somewhat for having died in ignorance of it. To resume, why will people use bad, vulgar language, where they can express simply rotten things in the choicest English? Beaconsfield, instead of telling Gladstone that he was a blooming old wind-bag from way back, conveyed the same idea to him in the remark that he was carried away by the exuberance of his own verbosity. A fellow who is in parliament has to learn to damn his enemies without the use of Billingsgate. It is simply charming to read the debates of the House of Commons with an eye to the round about ways some of the fellows have of calling liars, thieves and cut-throats without rendering themselves open to the censure of the House.

A party by the name of Leeds, reported to be a Duke or something, is counted on as our next Governor General. Now this Leeds it seems, is a man who makes Holland Gin, the stuff from which the country called Holland, takes its name. And the temperance people of Canada don't approve. They oughtn't to be so rabid. They should be temperate in the pursuit of temperance. It would do them good to read "Right and Wrong Uses of the Bottle" by the Honorary President of the order of reformed Tanks. This book is on sale at all the leading and misleading Grocery stores in the county. I have written to Leeds asking him to express his opinions to me on Cold Storage, the Wellington Ward Sewer, the Scotch Act and other great questions of the day and if his opinions are satisfactory I will have pleasure in recommending him to my friends Victoria for the job.

I CAN'T SLEEP.

Is the Daily Wall of Thousands of Humanity Who Have Suffered as Wm. Proudfoot of Huntsville Has—Read What the Great South American Nervine Did For Him.

I was greatly troubled with general nervous debility, indigestion and sleeplessness. I tried a number of cures and consulted best physicians without any benefit. I was finally induced to give South American Nervine a trial. I had heard of some great cures by it. I took it, got relief from my sufferings, and after using one bottle sweet sleep came to me. I slept like a child. Six bottles have completely cured me.—Sold by Garden Bros.

Asiatic Agricultural Proverbs.

The following proverbs, illustrative of agricultural life and practice in the East, general are both interesting and instructive. In fact they are "the concentrated presence of the wisdom and experiences of ages.

No art is equal to the art of cultivation. Better the gifts of the earth than the reward of the powerful.

The earth is every inch a hidden treasure. It is better to have cultivated and lost than never to have cultivated at all.

What is produced in one's own field is enough, even if it be only a handful.

No suffering attends him who puts his trust in his mother and his land.

Prayer annihilates sin, and agriculture famine.

Crop extinguishes famine as fire destroys locusts.

A manageable farm and a suitable wife are as necessary.

Do not fail to acquire an adjoining field or a plot of land next to your house.

Education without a school and cultivation without supervision are of no use.

The tenant's share in the produce (of the farm) may be tied in the corner of his cloth.

Farming is easy if the family consists of many persons; if of one it is torture.

There is nothing like clubbing of ryots (farmers.)

A cultivator is ruined by wandering, a beggar by staying in one place.

Spring is full of terrors to all whose constitution is not able to resist the sudden changes of the temperature and other insalubrities of the season. To put the system in condition to overcome these evils, nothing is so effective as Ayer's Sarsaparilla. Take it now.

Next door to Dr. Manzer's office, Main Street,
WOODSTOCK.

An honest man who stood upon the ragged edge of death, but was convinced of the truth.

CALAIS, ME., May 13, 1896.

John Boyd, mason, 61 years old, says: "Last Spring I was very sick and miserable, had no appetite, could not sleep nights, began to think my time had come, and that I was to join the great majority. I walked around the streets feeling entirely used up, was good for nothing, could not do a minute's work, until like a drowning man gasping for straws, concluded to try Dr. Thomson's Sarsaparilla, and began using it, as directed; it began to help me from the first trial. After using three bottles, my old-fashioned good health returned to me, and have been well and strong ever since. I cannot express in language the great worth of this wonderful medicine and what I think of it." Yours truly, JOHN BOYD.

HELP CAME AT LAST.

I have been a hard working man doing general work. Over one year ago I suffered a severe attack of LaGrippe. It left me in a helpless condition. I suffered with severe pains in my back and could not do any work. I was advised to try Dr. Thomson's Sarsaparilla. I used five bottles, and it is marvelous how quick it cured me. That is over two years ago, and my health since that time has never been better. LINDSAY SCOTT. Calais, Me., Jan., 1896.

PRINCETON, May 23d.

THOMSON SARSAPARILLA CO.: Having the LaGrippe last winter, I was left near spring in very bad shape. I was all run down and I began to think I would never get any strength. F. H. Hall, of Calais, called at my place and advised me to take Thomson's Sarsaparilla. He said he would send three bottles if I would take them, and after taking two bottles I began to gain strength. I then took two more, and I must say of all the different kinds of medicines I have taken, it is with me one of the best. And I will say that I thank Mr. Hall and the Thomson Sarsaparilla Co. for what it has done for me. C. A. ROBBINS.

Given up in despair to die.

PATRICK MYERS, of Calais, Me., says: I was troubled with eruptions on the face and body, causing at times a burning and itching sensation which was almost unendurable; could do no work. I tried to get help from a number of our physicians, and paid them hundreds of dollars, which proved hopeless, was confined to my bed. I gave up entirely to despair. I was advised to try Dr. Thomson's Sarsaparilla, and I used eight bottles which entirely cured me. It purified my blood, restored my appetite, made me feel like a new man. Today am about my work, not forgetting to speak great words of praise for the above medicine.

Weak, Nervous, Sleepless, Tired and Run Down.

Nothing is so common today as the complaint of weak nerves. Read the testimony of MR. H. W. EATON, of Calais, Me.:

My nerves were so unstrung that it was a burden for me to do any business, and sleep was out of the question, also had considerable difficulty with my stomach. I tried Dr. Thomson's Sarsaparilla, and it proved a blessing to me. I think everything of it, it is a great medicine, and it is a pleasure for me to recommend it.

There are numberless people who do not call themselves sick, yet who are not well. They feel weak, nervous, languid and tired. They have lost their vim, power of endurance and ambition to work. Most people have these feelings in the spring, because at this season the blood is impure, the nerves weakened, and the liver, kidney and bowels inactive.
