Sweetness and Light.

Put a pill in the pulpit if you want practical preaching for the physical man; then put the pill in the pillory if it does not practise what it preaches. There's a whole gospel in Ayer's Sugar Coated Pills; a "gospel of sweetness and light." People used to value their physic, as they did their religion,—by its bitterness. The more bitter the dose the better the doctor. We've got over that. We take "sugar in ours"—gospel or physic—now-a-days. It's possible to please and to purge at the same time. There may be power in a pleasant pill. That is the gospel of

How Indians Are Named.

As the Indian child grows he commits acts from time to time each of which gives him a new name. For example, he may see a bear and run screaming to the tepee. The folks all laugh at him, and call him Runs-from-a-bear. Later on he may become the possessor of an unruly pony which he fears to ride, and becomes known as Afraid-of-his-horse. Or, he may mount a horse from which another Indian has been thrown, and he then is spoken of as Rides-the-horse. Further on he becomes a great hunter and kills five bears, and they call him Five-bears, and when he slays another his name changes to Six-bears. He may perform a valiant deed in battle and ride his horse through the camp of the enemy for which he is dubbed Charges-through-the-camp. During the conflict he may kill one of the enemy. If his victim is the only one slain he is called Kills-the-enemy. But if others fall the one he has killed must be described, as Kills-the-one-with-the-big-knee. If he braids in his hair a yellow feather which he has plucked from the tail of an eagle he may be called Eagle-tail, Eagle-feather, Yellow-tail or Yellow-feather. If he gives it to his friend he will be named Gives-feather, but if he refuses to part with it his name will change to Keeps-his-feather. Or he may obtain his name from some other object.

If he is accustomed to ride what is commonly known as a "calico" horse he may be called Spotted-horse, but if his horse has a short tail he will be known as Bob-tail-horse. The chances are that he will be known by all the foregoing names. His enemies in the tribe will continue to speak of him as Loag-ears, Runs-from-a-bear, or Afraid-of-his-horse, while his friends will call him Rides-the-horse, Six-bears, or Kills-the-enemy. For this reason it occurs that if you speak of the Indian in the presence of certain members of the tribe and call him Six-bears they will laugh at you and say: "That not his name; his name Runs-from-a-bear." But if you speak of him to certain others as Runs-from-a-bear they will scowl and say: "That not his name; his name Kills-the-enemy."

Hence it will be seen that the Indian names are nothing, a delusion and a snare, and the practice of converting them into English appears eminently unwise. It is certain that the name on the rolls at the agency is the interpretation of only one of the Indian's several "names." A short Indian name in their own vernacular, or a syllable or two of a long one, if euphonious and pronounceable, as they usually are, will answer quite well for a family name, but the translations are never satisfactory, and cannot be too strongly condemned.—From "Naming the Indians," by Frank Terry, in March Review of Reviews.

The Life of Dr. Chase.

As a compiler of Chase's Recipe Book, his name is familiar in every household in the land, while as a physician his works on simple formulas left an imprint of his name that will be handed down from generation to generation. His last great medicine, in the form of his Syrup of Linseed and Turpentine, is having the large public patronage that his Ointment, Pills and Catarrh Cure are having. Dr. Chase's Syrup of Linseed and Turpentine is especially adapted for all Bronchial and Asthmatic troubles.

Rules For Dolls.

"A wooden-headed doll should be careful not to hit her head against her mother's, lest she should hurt her. A doll should keep away from the rocking chairs, as the rockers may crush her. A wax doll should avoid the fire, if she wishes to preserve completion. Often an old doll with a cracked head and a sweet smile is more beloved than a new doll with a sour face. It's a bad plan for dolls to be stretched out on the floor as people are apt to tread upon them; and a doll that is trodden on is sure to go into a decline."

Marjory who reading these rules to her dolly with a very sober face. Then she laughed. "Doll," said she, "it's funny; but I really believe these are more for me than they are for you."

A person is prematurely old when baldness occurs before the forty-fifth year. Use Hall's Hair Renewer to keep the scalp healthy and prevent baldness.

Could Handle Them All.

When gravest news reached the Foreign Office, Lord Salisbury questioned the Admiralty relative to the strength of the several fleets in the Mediterranean. Mr. Goschen, First Lord of the Admiralty replied: "We could whip the lot," and figures show that this statement is true. Moreover, Italy is acting in complete harmony with Great Britain, and their joint naval armaments preponderate by 250,000 tons and 350 guns over the fleets of the other powers.

Dr. Chase Cures Backache.

Kidney trouble generally begins with a simple pain in the back, and in time develops in Bright's Disease. People troubled with stricture, impediments, stoppage of water, or a frequent desire to urinate at night, will find Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills a blessing. Read the wonderful cures in another column. One pill is a dose, and if taken every other night will positively cure kidney trouble.

An Englishman once remarked in company that he had just been taken for the Prince of Wales, on account of his resemblance to that personage. "Oh, said a Scotchman present. 'I was once taken for a greater man than either of you,'" broke in Pat. "Who?" they asked. "Well," said he, "the other day as I was walking down Sackville street, I met a friend whom I had not seen for many years, and the moment he saw me he shouted out: 'Oh, Holy Moses, is that you?'"

SHILOH'S CURE, the great Cough and Croup Cure, is in great demand. Pocket size contains 25 drops only 25c. Children love it. Sold by all druggists.

J. L. Toole was once entertained by a party of Edinburgh gentlemen at dinner. After the cloth had been removed, a little sociality was indulged in, and Mr. Toole was asked to give a recitation. This the veteran comedian sternly declined to do. A worthy baillie whose knowledge of things theatrical was somewhat primitive approached Toole, patted him on the back and said, in a fatherly way: "Come awa, my mon; dinna be bashful. We're no ill to please."

Precepts and manners are of great weight, and a few useful ones at hand do more towards a wise and happy life than whole volumes of cautions that we know not where to find.

Opp. Opera House.

Hypnotism or as we used to call it in earlier days, mesmerism, is something which is figuring a good deal in present conditions. Law courts are being called upon to decide how far a man is liable, who is hypnotized, for the acts, he does. Trilby, Dumaurier's popular but, perhaps, evanescent work, shows the hypnotizer to his full in Svengali, and the hypnotized in the character who gives a title to the work. The erratic course of the once beautiful, but now depraved Princess de Chimay, would seem to be almost surely dictated by the hypnotic influence of the ugly gypsy who has taken her from her husband and children. Mr. Clark Bell writes to a New York paper, asking these questions:—

1. If the subject is unconscious and even unwilling, has the hypnotizer such power and dominion over the hypnotized as could control action to the extent of the commission of a crime?
2. It is certain or possible to remove by hypnotic suggestion from the mind of the subject all the memory or occurrences which happen in the hypnotic state?
3. Would it be possible for a hypnotizer to so control a hypnotized subject as to, for example, make him (1) sign a will in the presence of third persons, declare it to be his will, and to request them to sign as attesting witnesses, and be afterward wholly unconscious of the occurrence; (2) or a note of hand, or a cheque?

Professor J. Mark Baldwin, of Princeton University, one of the editors of the Psychological Review, says in response to the question: To the first question—"Yes, I think so; the particular crime depending upon the mental and moral habits of the subject; each subject's suggestibility for crime seems to have its limits, at which he resists and refuses the suggestion."

To the second question he replies: "Not generally, although the subject may hesitate and make an apparent effort to resist and then finally follow out the suggestion."

To the third question he replies: "Yes, indeed, forgetfulness, after the subject returns to his normal state, is the regular phenomenon, not requiring any special suggestion." He adds: "The word 'certain' in the question is slightly ambiguous."

To the fourth question, as to both its first and second subdivisions, he replies: "Yes, to each."

A Dr. Crothers, of Hartford, Conn. says: "I am inclined to doubt this power to make a person do a criminal act, unless the mind is already criminal in its instincts." The insanity plea will, in the future take a back seat, and a jury will be told that the accused was under hypnotic influence.

Women's rights have been nobly vindicated of late. The women of Carson, Nevada, signified their intention to be present at the Corbett-Fitzsimmons fight on the 18th inst. At first, there was some demurring on the part of the sterner sex, but it was not sufficient to prevent Mr. Daniel Stuart, who may be termed master of ceremonies, from succumbing to the demand of the gentler sex, and announcing that they will be admitted to the fight, and given every opportunity to watch the boxing mill. The new women is making marvellous strides, and the next thing we may hear of, will be a hair-pulling contest between two Amazons for $5000 a side.

In his celebrated speech on Parliamentary Reform Lord Macaulay spoke as follows:—I rest my opinions on no general theory of government. I distrust all general theories of government. I will not positively say that there is no form of polity which may not, in some conceivable circumstance be the best possible. We have seen that the true source of the power of demagogues is the obstinacy of rulers, and that a liberal government makes a conservative people.

For my part, I trouble not myself about anomalies, considered merely as anomalies. I would not take the trouble of lifting my hand to get rid of an anomaly that was not a grievance.

A contemporary writes an exceedingly cynical story. He narrates of a certain minister that he refused an increase of salary saying, that his present income was quite sufficient for his wants, and that if he had an increased salary he would have more than he could use conveniently. That would oblige him to put some money in the bank, where interest would be earned incessantly on his deposits, and he really couldn't think of letting his money earn interest on Sunday.

An honest man who stood upon the ragged edge of death, but was convinced of the truth.

CALAIS, ME., May 13, 1896.

John Boyd, mason, 61 years old, says: "Last Spring I was very sick and miserable, had no appetite, could not sleep nights, began to think my time had come, and that I was to join the great majority. I walked around the streets feeling entirely used up, was good for nothing, could not do a minute's work, until like a drowning man gasping for straws, concluded to try Dr. Thomson's Sarsaparilla, and began using it, as directed; it began to help me from the first trial. After using three bottles, my old-fashioned good health returned to me, and have been well and strong ever since. I cannot express in language the great worth of this wonderful medicine and what I think of it." Yours truly, JOHN BOYD.

HELP CAME AT LAST.

I have been a hard working man doing general work. Over one year ago I suffered a severe attack of LaGrippe. It left me in a helpless condition. I suffered with severe pains in my back and could not do any work. I was advised to try Dr. Thomson's Sarsaparilla. I used five bottles, and it is marvelous how quick it cured me. That is over two years ago, and my health since that time has never been better. LINDSAY SCOTT.
Calais, Me., Jan., 1896.

PRINCETON, May 23d.

THOMSON SARSAPARILLA CO.:
Having the LaGrippe last winter, I was left near spring in very bad shape. I was all run down and I began to think I would never get any strength. F. H. Hall, of Calais, called at my place and advised me to take Thomson's Sarsaparilla. He said he would send three bottles if I would take them, and after taking two bottles I began to gain strength. I then took two more, and I must say of all the different kinds of medicines I have taken, it is with me one of the best. And I will say that I thank Mr. Hall and the Thomson Sarsaparilla Co. for what it has done for me.
C. A. ROBBINS.

Given up in despair to die.

PATRICK MYERS, of Calais, Me., says: I was troubled with eruptions on the face and body, causing at times a burning and itching sensation which was almost unendurable; could do no work. I tried to get help from a number of physicians, and paid them hundreds of dollars, which proved hopeless, was confined to my bed. I gave up entirely to despair. I was advised to try Dr. Thomson's Sarsaparilla, and I used eight bottles which entirely cured me. It purified my blood, restored my appetite, made me feel like a new man. Today am about my work, not forgetting to speak great words of praise for the above medicine.

Weak, Nervous, Sleepless, Tired and Run Down.

Nothing is so common today as the complaint of weak nerves. Read the testimony of MR. H. W. EATON, of Calais, Me.:

My nerves were so unstrung that it was a burden for me to do any business, and sleep was out of the question, also had considerable difficulty with my stomach. I tried Dr. Thomson's Sarsaparilla, and it proved a blessing to me. I think everything of it, it is a great medicine, and it is a pleasure for me to recommend it.

There are numberless people who do not call themselves sick, yet who are not well. They feel weak, nervous, languid and tired. They have lost their vim, power of endurance and ambition to work. Most people have these feelings in the spring, because at this season the blood is impure, the nerves weakened, and the liver, kidney and bowels inactive.
