

A NURSE'S STORY.

Tells how she was cured of Heart and Nerve Troubles.

The onerous duties that fall to the lot of a nurse, the worry, care, loss of sleep, irregularity of meals soon tell on the nervous system and undermine the health. Mrs. H. L. Menzies, a professional nurse living at the Corner of Wellington and King Streets, Brantford, Ont., states her case as follows: "For the past three years I have suffered from weakness, shortness of breath and palpitation of the heart. The least excitement would make my heart flutter, and at night I even found it difficult to sleep. After I got Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills I experienced great relief, and on continuing their use the improvement has been marked until now all the old symptoms are gone and I am completely cured."

Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills cure Anaemia, Nervousness, Weakness, Sleeplessness, Palpitation, Throbbing, Faint Spells, Dizziness or any condition arising from Impoverished Blood, Disordered Nerves or Weak Heart.

DREW HIS REVOLVER.

Trouble Between Revenue Officer and Restauranter.

People in This County will Remember E. Floody, who did Some Detective Work Here Last Autumn.

Everybody who sells tobacco in this county remembers E. Floody, the inland revenue detective officer who cut quite a figure last fall.

Some merchants of the county do not remember him with feelings of pleasure.

A recent dispatch from Windsor, Ont., to the Toronto Globe says:—"A. J. Gilboe, proprietor of a restaurant on Sandwich street, appeared before Magistrate Bartlett charged with interfering with and assaulting an inland revenue officer in the discharge of his duty. Mr. E. Floody, the secret service force is the officer. He came to Windsor a few days ago as a result of several informations filed with the department alleging the unlawful sale of American-made tobacco. According to his story, he visited Gilboe's place, showed his credentials and announced his object. Mrs. Gilboe, he says, told him there was no American tobacco in the place, but he began to investigate. In a cigar box he found a third of a plug of Battle Axe tobacco, American goods. Gilboe came in later. The men had words and Floody departed. Collector Genning returned with him. After a few more words Gilboe struck Floody, the latter says, and Floody drew his revolver. An officer appeared at this moment and arrested Gilboe. The case was adjourned until Monday. Gilboe's story is that Floody entered his restaurant and, without saying who he was, began rummaging through drawers and boxes. When he found the tobacco he asked Mrs. Gilboe if she had chewed the tag off. Later, Gilboe says, the officer pushed Mrs. Gilboe with such force that she fell on a sick child sitting near. Gilboe says the tobacco was for his own use."

THE KLONDYKE'S WEALTH

Would be No Inducement to the Sufferer if it Stood Between Him and Perfect Health

H. H. Little, Campbellford, writes: "About one year ago I had a severe attack of typhoid fever and it left my system in a very weak and nervous condition in fact, so badly that I despaired of recovery. I was induced to try South American Nerve. In a remarkable short time my health improved and when I had taken a few bottles I was completely cured and have better health since than for years before."—Sold by Garden Bros.

Sugar-Eating Nations.

The sugar crop of the world amounts in a normal year to about 8,000,000 tons, of which the larger part, about 4,000,000 tons, from sugar cane. Of the latter the largest proportion comes from the West Indies and a large amount from the island of Java.

Among the countries producing beet sugar, Germany comes first with about one-third of the world's crop; then Austria with about as much, and then France, Russia and Belgium and Holland together, with substantially the same quantity.

In respect of the production of beet sugar in the United States there has been a vast increase since the establishment of the McKinley tariff in 1890. The year previous the American product was 2800 tons. Two years later it was 12,000 tons. Four years later it was 20,000 tons. Last year it was 43,000 tons, and the product is on the increase. The McKinley tariff established between July 1, 1891, and July 1, 1895, a bounty to be paid by the United States government to sugar producers, with a view of stimulating the industry and compensating those engaged in it for the changes made in the duty upon imported sugar.

Among scientists the opinion has been general that a moderate amount of sugar, like a moderate amount of salt should enter into the dietary of the people of each nation; but it is only when the figures of the consumption of sugar are examined that it is seen that the quantity consumed varies radically, and it is a curious fact that in those countries in which the maritime spirit—the spirit of navigation, commerce, travel and colonization—is strong, there is a very considerable consumption of sugar per capita, whereas in those countries in which these qualities are not predominant among the inhabitants the consumption is smaller. In England, first among the maritime nations of the world, the consumption of sugar is 86 pounds a year for each inhabitant. In Denmark it is 45, in Holland 31, in France 30, and in Norway and Sweden 25, whereas in Russia it is only 10, in Italy 7, in Turkey 7, in Greece 6, and in Servia 4. The consumption of sugar seems to have very little connection with or relation to the production of sugar, for in Austria the sugar product of which is large, the average consumption is only 19 pounds, while in Switzerland, in which there is no production to speak of, it is 44. And another curious phase of the matter is that there is a great disparity in the consumption of sugar in the two tea-drinking countries, England and Russia. The large amount of sugar consumed in France is attributed, in part, to the fact that the French confectioners and candymakers, and more especially those doing business in the city of Paris, use in their trade enormous quantities of sugar in a year, adding abnormally to the average consumption of sugar in the French republic.

Woman's Way.

"What is it Mary?"

"It's a boy, mum, with a telegraph."

"A telegram! Oh, ask him if James is killed."

"He says he doesn't know, mum."

"Ask him what he does know about it."

"He says all he knows about it is that it's for you, mum."

"Oh, dear! Oh dear! What shall I do!"

Oh my poor James. I knew something would happen him before he went away this morning. Will they bring him home on a stretcher, Mary?"

"I s'pose so mum, Maybe you'd better read the telegraph."

"I can't. I can't. Oh, it serves me right for not kissing him three times when he left. And we've been married such a short time, too."

"Why don't you open the telegraph, mum?"

"Well, I suppose I must; but oh, I can't tell how I dread it."

"Reads telegram—"Will bring friend home to dinner.—James."

"Oh! the heartless wretch."

Peril of Keeping "Tab" on a Man's Faults.

Mrs. Murkle—"Josiah, do you know that you have worn three times within an hour, that six dark frowns have crossed your brow, that you have spoken crossly to the children four times, and that you have hunched around in your chair so much that I wouldn't be surprised if the carpet were all worn out under you?"

Mr. Murkle—"Indeed! Well, can you tell me how many nice things I have said to you and the children during the past hour, how often have I laughed, how many words of encouragement I have used, how many twinkles have come into my eyes, and how many minutes I have sat absolutely still?"

Mrs. Murkle—"I haven't counted them."

Mr. Murkle—"That's what I thought, suppose you try looking out for a fellow's good qualities a little while. Perhaps if you do that you'll not have so much time to keep tab on his faults."

Mrs. Murkle (beginning to weep)—"Josiah, you are not satisfied with me. You wish you were married to some other woman!"

Mr. Murkle—"Dash it, who could help swearing under such circumstances. I've half a mind to go out and get drunk."

Mrs. Murkle—"There now the animal in you is gaining full control again. Oh, why did I ever place my fair, sweet young life in the keeping of a brute?"
