OUR FARM PRODUCE WANTED.

The establishment of a freight service between St. John and Liverpool, has introduced a new element into the business of the province. Farmers who have for the past fifty years, looked only for markets across the border, now look, also, across the ocean. We do not give up the hope of some arrangement with the States by which we can have the advantage of their market for our farm produce. What we hope for is extended trade in all directions. In England we have a sure market and no fear of varying tariffs. In the United States we may have a good market today—and no market at all tomorrow. If a term for another set of circumstances may be applied, we lack in the latter case "fixity of tenure."

We are speaking of this state of affairs as it affects Carleton County. Something over a hundred miles from Carleton County is a port of our own province. Everyday or two an immense ship laden with freight leaves that port for England, where the freight is sold. Carleton County raises a good quantity of agricultural produce. Carleton County wishes to sell farm produce. England wishes to buy farm produce. The common carrier is at the door of Carleton County ready to take the goods which she wants to sell to England which in turn, wants to buy.

And yet, practically nothing goes from Carleton County to England. Why?

As a general thing we do not raise the best. We do not raise as good a crop as we can, and we cannot palm off poor products on the English market.

The Englishman is a good judge of eatables. His stomach is capacious. It will take in all we can send, if we send what is good. Otherwise the stomach of the man "at home" will rebel.

We want the good farmers to come to the front and try the English market, and for this reason the proposition that the county should have an agent in England, is founded on common sense. We cannot get something for nothing. We cannot get the English market by wishing or even by whistling for it. We must hustle, in these days of competition.

We trust the members of the County Council will seriously consider the question of "Carleton County products for the English market."

BE JOLLY, ANYWAY.

It's no good having the dumps, if times are hard. Better be an optimist than a pessimist. Better to sink with a jolly laugh, than to go down with a glum face.

Times are hard, but most of us have food and raiment and are not told with this to be content?

And are we not all practical and consistent Christians?

There is a silver lining to the cloud. Oats are up and other produce is said to be climbing the pole.

We have had a stiff winter of it, but some of our merchants who are kicking the most, don't show that they have lost flesh, worrying over the future.

BLOOD THAT IS BAD.

Blood that is bad makes the whole body sick. Blood that is good makes the whole body healthy and vigorous. BURDOCK BLOOD BITTERS makes good rich, ruddy blood. "I regard B. B. B. as the best medicine in the world to make rich, red blood. It cured me after two years suffering from weak, thin blood." JENNIE A. GLEASON, Centreton, Ont.

Reckless Economy.

When Buster reached home about sunset the other evening, he was the maddest man in the lower peninsula. On one arm he carried the baby, who looked as though she had been rolling about in a mud puddle, and on the other arm were the pieces of a badly wrecked baby buggy. He was heated and tried, his whole wardrobe was out of plumb, and he also looked as though he had passed through the mud hole experience.

"Take this child," he ordered from between set teeth, as his wife met him at the door with frightened face and a volley of excited questions. "Don't stand there like a bump on a log. Get her into hot water and mustard, give her stimulants, rub her with a crash towel and get up a circulation, if you want to save her. I'll get to the bath room and see if I can rescue my own life."

"Now," he said an hour later, "telephone an advertisement for a nurse girl. I decline to fill the position any longer. The expensive economy business is played out. There's no use in the world of arguing. I've struck. I could stand the women grinning at me and the men guying me, but that experience today closes the deal. I left the baby outside in her carriage while I went in for a cigar. Two heavy-weight dogs got to fighting and the baby happened to be right on the site of the chief engagement. When I rushed to the scene the little dear was tossed about on the backs of these dogs, pieces of the buggy were flying in all directions, and a lot of frightened women were screaming at the top of their lungs. I threw myself into the midst of the fray, and we wallowed around in the dirty slush till I escaped with the child. You saw what was left of us and the carriage. Now get a nurse maid."—Detroit Free Press.

Home Dyeing Made Easy.

Even a Child Can Dye With Diamond Dyes.

Diamond Dyes Color Anything Any Color—Make Old Cloaks, Gowns, Scarfs, and Suits Look Like New—How to Dress Well at Small Cost.

Diamond Dyes are a wonderful help to economical dressing. These simple home dyes will color anything any color, and they make cloaks, stockings, dresses, feathers, laces, curtains, etc., look like new.

Many of the Diamond Dyes are made from specially prepared dyestuffs, and in no other way can home dyeing be done so simply and satisfactorily.

They come in all colors, and the plain and explicit directions and the package make it easy for the most experienced to use them with success. Even a child can dye a rich, perfect color, if Diamond Dyes are used.

Do not risk your material with dyes that claim to color both cotton and wool with the same dye, for it is impossible to get satisfactory results with dyes of that character. In Diamond Dyes there are special dyes for cotton and special dyes for wool, and they are all guaranteed to give satisfaction, if used according to directions.

His Wit Saved Him.

A strict rule promulgated by every successive commandant at the navy yard prohibits smoking on Mare Island under the most stringent penalties. Admiral Miller, sauntering one recent afternoon through a distant part of the island, came upon an Irish laborer digging a trench and smoking a short black pipe. He was puffing away serenely, unconscious of regulations and with evident enjoyment. The admiral, who was in undress uniform, stopped.

"Don't you know, sir, that smoking is absolutely prohibited in the navy yard?" he said.

The Irishman looked up and with a kindly smile, answered: "Indeed, that's true, but here am I all by myself, wid not a soul to say a wrrold to, and I thought I'd take a puff or two to relave the silence."

"The regulations are explicit, sir," rebuked the admiral, "and the silence does not excuse you. What's your name, sir?"

"An who may you be, anyway?" asked the Irishman.

"I'm Admiral Miller."

"Ah, 'tis the new admiral ye are. 'Tis the fat job ye have, admiral. Be careful to kape it. Me name's Pat McGinnis."

"Report at my office this afternoon without fail, McGinnis," said Miller, who could hardly keep from laughing. At 5 o'clock poor Patrick, who had made up his mind there would be the devil to pay, tramped over to headquarters and the orderly ushered him into the dreaded presence of the admiral, who said: "Sit down, Pat."

Pat sat down. Miller touched a bell. The orderly appeared.

"Bring a bottle of champagne and two glasses," he said.

Not a word was spoken until the wine arrived. The admiral filled the two glasses and pushed one over towards the Irishman.

"Pat," he said, "give me the pipe. You'll not need it again."

The mystified laborer obeyed.

"Now," said the admiral, "drink hearty, Pat, but you'll keep your job as long as I'll keep mine."

Nor is this the first situation saved by Irish wit.—San Francisco Wave.

NOT SO EASY.

It is not so easy to cure an obstinate cough it won't cure itself. NORWAY PINE SYRUP is the remedy indicated because its record shows that it always cures coughs colds and all lung troubles.

A Cord of Wood.

Few persons comprehend the productive capacity of a cord of wood. Chemical experiments are occasionally developing new uses for wood in matters remote from its ordinary adaptability, and the feature that is exciting a great deal of interest just now is the transformation of wood products into liquids. Although under the strongest kind of pressure wood yields scarcely any moisture, by means of heat wood will evolve gases and liquids of great potency and utility. In converting wood into charcoal, gases and smoke arise which can be condensed into pyroigneous acid. It is estimated that there is fully 65 per cent. of the acid in a given quantity of Wood, and from it are extracted wood, alcohol, acetate of lime and wood tar. The alcohol thus obtained is said to be very satisfactory substitute for grain alcohol for mechanical and manufacturing purposes, and it can be produced at less than one third of the cost of the grain alcohol.

Investigations conducted with practical objects in view have disclosed their interesting facts: A cord of wood, which weighs 4000 pounds, will yield about 2050 pounds of pyroigneous acid and 700 pounds of charcoal; the acid will produce about nine gallons of 82 per cent. crude wood alcohol, about 25 gallons of tar, and fully 200 pounds of acetate of lime. These facts indicate a future for wood outside of the reaty of fuel and pulp.

She Knew Him.

Mrs. K.—had engaged a robust, middle-aged colored woman to do some house cleaning. During the progress of the work Mrs. K.—said:

"A colored man came along here one day last week and wanted work, and I let him wash some windows, but he did not do the work at all well."

"What fo' lookin' man was he?" asked the helper.

"Well, he was a big, strong fellow, and he had but one eye. He said that his name was White. He did very poor work."

"I spes he did, lady. He's de wus no 'count in dis town."

"Oh, then, you know him?"

"Know him? Why, lady, I's mah'ied to 'im!"—Harper's Bazar.

Beware of Cocaine.

Thos. Heys, Analytical Chemist, Toronto, says:—"I have made an examination of Dr. Chase's Catarrh Cure for Cocaine and any of its compounds from samples purchased in the open market, and find none present." Dr. Chase's Catarrh Cure is a cure—not a drug. Price 25 cents, blower included.

A good many hundreds and even thousands, of long-suffering husbands can bear sorrowful testimony to the fact that this is the sort of a catechism the wives of their bosoms subject them to every time they put on their hats to go out in the evening: "Where are you going?" "O, I'm going out for a few minutes." "Where?" "O, nowhere in particular." "What for?" "O, nothing." "Why do you go, then?" "Well, I want to go; that's why." "Do you have to go?" "I don't know that I do." "Why do you go then?" "Because." "Because what?" "Well, simply because." "Going to be gone long?" "No." "How long?" "I don't know." "Anybody going with you?" "No." "Well, it's strange that you can't be content to stay at home a few minutes. Don't be gone long, will you? This is why so many marriages are dead flat fizzles and failures."

Archbishop Cleary Dead.

FEB. 24.—A special to THE DISPATCH announces the death this afternoon of Archbishop Cleary, the well-known Roman Catholic Prelate of Kingston Ont. His name was in everybody's mouth, a short while ago, by reason of some utterances he gave about his own people attending and taking part in Protestant weddings.

He always took an active interest in political affairs, and represented the rather extreme school of Catholic ecclesiasticism. At a general election in Ontario a few years ago, Archbishop Cleary and Sir William Meredith, the leader of the opposition, and now Chief Justice of Ontario had a wordy warfare, Meredith favoring the abolition of separate schools, to which the late Archbishop Cleary was a very clever speaker and writer, as a controversial writer being scarcely excelled. He was from Ireland.

Emile Zola Sentenced.

Emile Zola, the champion of Dreyfus now imprisoned on an island, and in solitary confinement for the alleged crime of giving away secrets about the army, was found guilty of libelling the army and has been sent to prison for one year and fined 3000 francs. The French are well satisfied with the sentence as they have no sympathy with Dreyfus, on account of his Jewish extraction. Public opinion outside of France is that the trial was a farce and that as a matter of fact, Zola fairly proved his charges.
