An Eastern Legend.

There's a tender Eastern legend,
In a volume old and rare,
Of the Christ-child in His garden
Walking with the children there.

And it tells—this strange, sweet story—
(True or false, ah, who shall say?)
How a bird with a broken pinion
Dying, in a garden lay.

And the children, cruel children,
Lifted it by shattered wing,
Shouting "Make us merry music;
Sing, you lazy fellow, sing."

But the Christ-child bent above it,
Took it in his gentle hand,
Full of pity for the suffering
He alone could understand.

Whispered to it—oh, so softly
Laid His lips upon its throat,
And the song-life, swift returning,
Sounded out in one glad note.

Then away, on wings unwearied,
Joyously it sang and soared,
And the little children kneeling
Called the Christ-child "Master—Lord."

He Got Back His Leg.

The manager of a shop in one of our Lancashire towns was standing in the doorway, when a man with a wooden leg and a crutch came along and said: "I want you to do me a favor. 'I want to leave my leg with you for a few minutes and go around the next street and work a house for half a crown I've an idea that the folks are very sympath-atic. If I go with one leg I'm sure of it."

"Very well," said the shopkeeper, "just leave your leg there and I'll take care of it."
The wooden substitute was unstrapped and handed over, and the cripple used the crutch to help himself down the alley. Five minutes later he rang the door bell of a house in the next street, only to have it opened by the man he had just seen.

"What—what—what?" he gasped.
"Very sympathetic family lives here," quietly replied the other.

"You seem to have met with a sad loss, and I'm anxious to help you. Here is a wooden leg which may fit you."

The leg was handed over. The man sat down on the steps and strapped it on, and as he got up and stumped through the gate he said to himself: "I've heard of coincidences ever since I was a youngster, but this is the first one that ever hit me with both feet at once."—Weekly Telegraph.

"I was a catarrh victim for many years.
Dr. Agnew's Catarrhal Powder has done me great service. I tried every remedy in the category of catarrh cures without any permanent relief. After taking only a few doses I received great benefit, and in a very short while my catarrh had disappeared. I am satisfied it is the best, safest and quickest remedy known for this malady today." Jas.

Mince Pie and Milk

One of the boarders in a well-known Brewer, Me. boarding house is advising his friends not to eat cold mince pie and drink milk before going to bed. The cause is this:
A few nights ago he called upon a young woman he regarded with great fondness, and as he was about to leave, after an enjoyable evening, she insisted upon his having a lunch.

Of course he couldn't refuse, so he had to eat. Well the lunch consisted of about half a mince pie and a gallon more or less of milk.
He went home and to bed. It was not long before his room-mate was awakened by some one exclaiming:

"So, boss; so, boss! keep still—you!"

He rose up and looked, and there, squat upon a small stool, was his friend industriously engaged in an attempt to milk a chair.

Piles Cured Without Use of the Knife by Dr. Chase.

I was troubled for years with Piles and tried everything I could buy without any benefit, until I tried Dr. Chase's Ointment. The result was marvellous. Two boxes completely cured me.

Teacher: "Now, Bobby, spell 'needle.'" Bobby: "N-e-i-d-l-e." Teacher: "Wrong. There is no 'i' in 'needle.'" Bobby: "Well, 'taint a good needle, then."

Who can fathom the depths of the human mind? The brain is a puzzling piece of machinery: "We are such stuff as dreams are made of." Is it so? I almost believe it—a microcosm of eternity's infinity "stuff that dreams are made of."

Two young men out riding were passing a farmhouse where a farmer was trying to harness an obstinate mule. "Won't he draw?"
said one of the men. "Of course," said the farmer: "he'll draw the attention of every fool that passes this way." The young men drove on.

Editor: "What qualifications have you for this position? What do you know?" Applicant: "I know what I ought to find out, and that is all I ought to know; for when I know what is necessary to be known I know all that is necessary to know." Editor (bewildered): "Leave your address."

It is nothing new to suffer from the fact that our knowledge can be but fragmentary, that we can never fathom what lies behind.
But suppose, now, that we could reckon it out, that the inmost secret of it all lay as clear and plain to us as the rule-of-three sum, should we be any the happier? Possible just the reverse. Is it not in the struggle to attain knowledge that happiness consists? I am very ignorant, consequently the conditions of happiness are mine.

Mr. J. Bretz, 104 Church Street, Toronto, the popular tobacconist, says he was troubled with weak and intermittent action of the heart, was sleepless, nervous and losing flesh. Three boxes of Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills completely cured him.

The main cause of her anguish—"My good woman," said the parson to a York-shire woman whose husband had just died, "your husband is now with Abraham, Isaac and Jacob." "That's what makes me feel so bad," was her reply, "for he was always so shy with strangers."

"It's the devil for any one to tell me a secret, for it is sure to come out in print."—HAZLITT.

There is good sentiment in the extract I have clipped from Harper's weekly. We have military and militant spirits on this side of the border, who are fierce warriors in times of peace. Let them read this:—"We hear and read a good deal, in these stirring times of shouting, about the 'American spirit' and an 'American policy.' The people who are talking most about this spirit and this policy which they advocate is that of taking Cuba away from Spain. And they remind us disagreeably of the fact that if there should be a war we shall still have them with us for a generation after the war is over, as prominent politicians, screeching editors, pension agents, and such like worse than worthless citizens, disgracing us by their bombast, corrupting our politics, and insisting on an undeserved preference in nearly every relation of life. A majority of the shouters today would not fight, although some of them might enlist in the army and navy, and would be, therefore compelled to take part in the proposed contest, which is quite as likely to be brought about by their own noise as by any other cause. If they really did enlist, they would do so under the momentary excitement which they are themselves creating. The real fighting, however, would be done by the men who are sincerely opposed to war, who appreciate its horrors, who are doing their utmost to prevent it, and who are, in consequence, the objects of the in-sults of the obstreperous people who are now claiming the possession of all the patriotism of the country, just as in the future, if they succeed in forcing war upon us they will be claiming all the pecuniary rewards of patri-otism, rewards which, as decent men know, are never claimed by the deserving, but which a grateful people, ashamed to seem niggardly where patriotic services appear to be in question, readily yield on the first clamorous demand."

The Bobcageon Independent has been quoted several times in this column. The latest cut in that esteemed publication is one on the raw for Russel Sage who, 'speaking of the Cuban rumpus, says, 'I am an American, first and last, and will stand by the flag.' Certainly he does, when carrying that flag into war, means trucking in millions of bonds through the said Sage. He is a patriot he is, until it comes to facing a bomb. Then he pulls a poor devil of a clerk in front of him, and afterwards refuses to pay the man for his injuries." This is a cold crack. Every one remembers how Sage was saved from death by a clerk's standing or being thrust in his way and it is true he did not pay the clerk. Of such are all loud mouthed patriots.

It is interesting to know that the Prince of Wales is learning to ride a bicycle. That will make this useful pastime all the more fashionable. Many will ride now with great speed comforted by the assurance that royalty is in it. There are those, even among our democratic people, who dearly love a lord. The wheel is a useful innovation whether ridden by H. R. H. or by any other ordinary cuss.

Diamond Dyes Make Old Things Look As Well As New.

This is the great spring month for using Diamond Dyes. Old, faded and dingy looking dresses, costumes, shirts, blouses, jackets, capes, shawls, and suits, for men and boys are usually looked over with a view of fitting them for another season's wear.

The dyeing operation is an important one and demands care. The great point is to get the right dye colors that are pure, bright and warranted fast to washing and sunlight.

The Diamond Dyes—the only guaranteed dyes in the world—possess all the important virtues for the production of perfect colors. The popular and tested Diamond Dyes have such an immense demand all over the world that unscrupulous dealers, for the sake of large profits, sell vile imitations. If you would have your garments and goods colored richly and permanently, avoid all such imitations.

Refuse all dyes that your dealer tells you are just as good as the "Diamond."
