Ten-Dollar Drink For A Comrade.

"It was during our civil war, at a time when a drink of whiskey was about the most enchanting thing in life," said Major J. H. Lynch of Louisiana.

"For a $10 note, the last cent I had on earth, I got ownership of a pint of mountain dew, in the vicinity of Shreveport. I had resolved on making this pint last me a long time, and had only taken one small nip from the bottle when I saw coming my best loved friend Bill Beasley, who went into the army from the same town with myself. We had been chums all our lives. As that bottle reposed quietly in my pocket I meditated whether I'd offer Bill a drink. It was a tremendous struggle between selfishness and friendship. Finally, affection for Bill overcame my impulse to appropriate the entire bottle, and drawing it out, I said: 'Bill, here is some good corn juice; it's powerful good stuff, and maybe a small drink would do you good,' emphasizing small.

"You ought to have seen his eyes glisten as he tilted that vial, and down his throat my precious stuff began to disappear. 'Bill,' said I, 'whiskey is awful scarce in these parts but he merely nodded his head, and the liquid kept getting lower in the bottle.

"'Bill,' I said in desperation, 'I gave the last $10 I had in the world for that whiskey. I thought that might make him stop, but it didn't—one final gulp and all was gone. Then he gave a wild Comanche yell, flung the bottle away, and remarked: 'By gad, John, it was worth it.'"—Washington Star.

Dear Sirs,—Constipation for years has been my chief ailment; it seemed to come oftener in spite of all I could do. However, some time ago I was told to use Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills, which I have done, with the result of what appears now to be a perfect cure.—Truly yours, J. HARRIS.

About Flags.

A nation's flag represents its sovereignty and is prominently displayed in all army and navy battles.

Dipping the flag is lowering it slightly and then raising it again to salute either a vessel or fort.

A flag of truce is a white flag displayed to the enemy to indicate a desire for a parley or a consultation.

The yellow flag shows the vessel to be in quarantine, or is a sign of a contagious disease.

A flag at half mast means mourning. Vessels come into harbor with a flag at half mast to announce the loss or death of some of the crew.

Flags are used as the symbol of rank and command, the officers using them being called flag officers. Such flags are square to distinguish them from other banners.

The red flag is a sign of defiance, and is often used by revolutionists. In the American service it is a mark of danger and shows a vessel to be receiving or discharging powder.

The white flag with the red cross is a sign of peace. After a battle parties from both sides often go out to the field to rescue the wounded or bury the dead under the protection of such a flag.

Doan Cures Backache.

"I have been troubled for several years with kidney disease, pains in the back, dizziness and sleeplessness, so that at times I could not work. Doan's Kidney Pills which I started taking about two months ago have made me all O. K." P. J. MCGINNIS, Belleville, Ont.

Time He Was Married.

There was an embarrassing scene at a recent wedding in Yorkshire. All had gone merrily until the bridegroom was called upon to produce the wedding ring. In vain he felt in his trousers pocket for the indispensable trifle. Nothing could be found, except a hole through which the ring had evidently fallen into the boot. What was he to do? "Take your boot off," said the parson. The suspense and silence were painful. The organist, at the parson's bidding, struck up a "voluntary." The young man removed his boot.

The ring was found, also a hole in his stocking, and the worthy minister remarked, evidently with more than the delay of the ceremony in mind. "Young man, it is time that you were married."

SUMMER WEAKNESS.

If you feel weak, run down, easily tired, languid—have your system strengthened and invigorated by Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills. They make weak people strong.

He Was Jammerated.

The facility with which the negro coins words to suit every occasion is always marvellous. The day the District regiment embarked for Chickamauga was, of course, a great day for Washington people, and the sidewalks in front of the reviewing ground were packed to suffocation by colored and white. At one time the congestion of the crowd was really dangerous, and an old colored man whose wool was whitened with age said as he struggled along, wiping the perspiration off his face with his arm: "My Lawd! I never see sich a state ob jammeration in all my bawn days!"

DYSPEPSIA.

"For some time my stomach has troubled me and I tried most everything, but nothing did me any good till I started taking Burdock Blood Bitters. Two bottles have made me well." MRS. LIZZIE SANBORN, Baldwin's Mills, Que.

HAVE YOU BACKACHE?

If you have, you don't need to suffer with it another day. Get Dr. Chase's Kidney Pills and they will give you relief as promptly and effectually as they did MR. D. C. SIMMONS, of Maybee, Ont. He says his kidneys and back were so bad he was unable to work or sleep. His urine had a brick-dust deposit, and he had to get up 3 or 4 times in the night to pass water. He has only taken half a box of Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills, the back pain has gone, he sleeps well, and feels well enough to do any kind of work.

A Good Driver.

A simple but significant scene occurred the other day. A heavily loaded wagon, drawn by a pair of large horses, stopped for a moment's rest. The driver a rough and hardy looking man, went about the animals, lifting the broad harness here, and adjusting it in another place, spreading the head-stall blinders, and shifting the saddle-bearings. It was a warm day; the horses were very wet with perspiration. He patted them about the head kindly—first one and then the other, and there seemed to be a perfect understanding between man and beast. We felt a little annoyed to see the heavy load,—too heavy; but the driver had no whip, and when he was ready and spoke to the horses, they responded with all their power, and the great weight was moved steadily along to its destination.

"How did you get on at the police court?" "Fine!"

George describes the girl he is engaged to as a perfect vision. "Yes. And his sister says she is a sight."

"It's the devil for any one to tell me a secret, for it is sure to come out in print."—HAZLITT.

Base ball is a game well worth watching. One objection, only, can be urged against it, but it is objection not to be lightly considered. Professionalism seems to have taken possession of the devotees of base ball, and whenever professionalism enters into a game, the true spirit of sport takes its departure. Why the decidedly objectionable features, of a shouting, gesticulating and, often, insulting crowd should attend so closely or the base ball field, it is difficult to explain. But can any lover of base ball, in Woodstock, say that the field where a match is being played, is a fit place for modest women. Youths become excited, and their excitement leads to the use of language not only vulgar, but profane, and what is even worse than profane, obscene. Does Woodstock excel in urehins who cultivate the foul mouth? I hope not, but we must not forget that Lord Aberdeen, when here, felt it necessary to publicly rebuke the noisy youngsters, who could not remain quiet during the addresses by himself and Lady Aberdeen. We fear that it is too true, that the ordinary Woodstock boy is not too lavishly endowed with a sense of his own insignificance. I am glad to see that the managers of the base ball team mean to stop the insulting remarks made apropos of any foreign team playing in this town. Such remarks and jeers are not only the worst possible taste; they are nothing less than cowardly. Particularly, in this so, if the visiting team is defeated. Who ever would insult, by word of mouth a defeated foe, would trample, under different circumstances, on his dead body. It wasn't funny to shout out to the Houlton boys "Remember the Maine." Nor was the remark "You are not now dealing with the Spaniards," witty. As one of our citizens remarked after the game, "there seem to be some differences yet between the Anglo-Saxon race." Some of the Houlton editors appear to be taking the result of the game very seriously, and I understand that one visiting editor used language, rather out of keeping with his position. The fact is that both the Woodstock and Houlton boys were so anxious to win, that their sense of fair play was lost. This is an outcome of professionalism in sport, and base ball is essentially professional. Such things do not happen in the good old game of cricket.

The circus is coming today, and young and old will flock to see its wonders. The grumbler will grumble about the amount of money the circus takes out of town, but he will not estimate the amount of innocent and solid enjoyment that the youngster who attends the circus will have. I brag on the boy who wants to see the circus, and I brag, likewise, on the old man and the old woman who "for the boy's sake of course" decide to take it. For myself, I thoroughly enjoy the circus, and I love a good clown. I am never tired of watching his foolish antics, and listening to his vile puns. But our friend the grumbler will begin to moralize. He will talk of how much might have been purchased with the 50cts that goes to the circus man, how many loaves of bread it represents, how many good books it would purchase. Now, my dear, old grumbling, pessimistic friend, does not this sad, human race of ours need some moments of enjoyment? Do we not all feel better for a good laugh? and for the sake of all that is charitable, let the youngsters have their laugh. The town council should appropriate a sum of money to let every poor child see the circus, and the county council should do the same. What's the use of being an idiot, old grumbler. We can't raise a big show in town for we have nothing to raise it with, and we are not in the show business. Then, let the boys go to the circus and have a good time. We were all young once.

At a recent meeting of the Women's British Temperance Union workers in Berlin, Ont., a Mrs. Goldie made an excellent address on "Stumbling Blocks." Among other things, she said. "The importance of work among young men with a view of helping them to over come the many pitfalls in their way be should emphasized. Referring to smoking Mrs. Goldie said, if young men will smoke, let them smoke at home, don't drive them to the street corners and other places, where they will be surrounded by evil associations. You must win the people, they will not be driven. It is a case of 'come now let us reason together.' People must be persuaded of the evil of a certain thing before they will forsake it. Narrowmindedness, was another stumblingblock, causing disinterestedness on the part of many in things pertaining to the general good of the community. Prejudice, criticism and harsh speaking were dwelt upon by the speaker at some length, in words which showed how strongly she deprecated such things." There is a good deal in what this good woman says. The young man does not like to be driven. He likes to be called upon to exercise his God-given power and right of reasoning.

SCROFULA.

"My little boy, aged 7 years and 15 months, was a victim of Scrofula on the face, which all the doctors said was incurable. To tell the truth he was so bad that I could not bear to look at him. At last I tried a bottle of Burdock Blood Bitters, and before it was half used he was gaining, and by the time he had three bottles used he was completely cured. I cannot say too much in recommendation of B.B.B. To all who suffer as he did." JOSEPH P. LABELLE, Mani-wake P.O., Que.
