MARRIAGES ARRANGED.

Bureaus for Arranging Matrimonial Alli ances do a Flourishing Business in France New York Sun: The French Government, being essentially maternal, even to the point of supervising the engagement of wet nurses, is about to undertake an inquiry into the workings of the marriage bureau. The subject is an interesting one, for the reason that the marriage bureau in France is a recognized social institution, differing in many ways from those of other countries. The American or Englishman who associates matri-monial agencies with matters in the line of the bunco game is often surprised to hear in France that they are regarded by people eminently respectable as a social agency entirely legitimate and often praiseworthy, so much so, in fact, that their intermediation 1s sought in a very large percentage of the mat-rimonial affairs of what must be called, for want of a more definite term, the middle and higher classes of society. Many of the agen-cies are in reality not regular business establishments, but individual matchmakers, who work entirely, or so far as possible, without publicity. They are mostly women of more or less standing in Parisian society, whose husbands' earnings are not sufficient to enable them to maintain the position they desire, and who, through the commissions they receive as marriage brokers, manage to make very comfortable incomes. Some of them have titles. Their intercession is usually known to only one of the parties to a marriage, and they are, of course, exceedingly discreet. "Monsieur," say these women, when a man is recommended to them, "you must always remember that you are not in an agency here but in a drawing-room which is open only to persons who bring the highest testimonials. receive people, I introduce them, I unite their hearts, and I receive my commission; that is all.'

But while these matchmakers arrange many marriages, the regularly licensed marriage brokers do the bulk of the business There are three classes of them recognized EAST FLORENCEVILLE-June 15 and by the police, although all pay the same annual tax to the government, and all are subject to the same regulations. Officially stated, the first category "has for male clients ruined noblemen and the better class of retired office-holders," including diplomatists. The women are "recruited from the ranks of the foreign colony of Paris, among orphaned heiresses and the rich widows of manufacturers." At agencies of this class nothing is paid in advance by the applicant, but he must agree, in writing, to pay after marriage, so much on the wife's dowery-ordinarily 5 per cent. It often happens that

MR. MONTAGUE, DUNNVILLE, ONT..

Has an Interesting Chat About Dr. Chase's Ointment, HIS SUFFERING FROM ULCERATING FILES CURED.

He says :-- I was troubled with itching piles for five years, and was badly ulcerated. They were very painful, so much so that I could not sleep. tried almost every remedy heard of, and was recommended to use Dr. Chase's Chatment. I purchased a box, and from the first application got such relief that I was satisfied a cure would be made. I used in all two boxes, and am now completely cured. Every remedy given by Dr. Chase cost years of study and research, and with an eye single to its adaptation for the ailments for which it was intended. Dr. Chase detested cure-alls, and it has been proven ten thousand times that not one of his formulas leave a bad after-effect. Dr. Chase's Ointment is based on lanoline, and the best physicians prescribe it.

Mr. M. T. Wigle, of Kingsville, Essex Co-

Cured of Itching Piles of 23 Years' Standing.

Physicians Fall to Make a Cure When Dr. Ohase's Gintment Gave Immediate Rellef.

M. T. Wigle, better known to every cne in the vicinity as "Uncle Mike," was troubled for over 23 years with itching piles. At times he was so bad he would have to quit work. The irritation became so intense with constant rubbing that they became ulcerated and would bleed. He had been treated by many physicians, but found nothing that gave him relief. Reading in the paper the cure of a friend who had suffered in a like manner, and being cured by Dr. Chase's Ointment, he procured a box. After the third application he got such relief that he had the first comfortable night's sleep he enjoyel in years. The one box made a complete cure, and he says he would not be without it for $50 a box if it could not be replaced. Mr. Wigle is a wealthy farmer, well known in the community in which he resides. It is over two years since he was afflicted, and he has never been

I wonder if we cannot 'educate' the town council into the feasibility of providing uni-forms for the town marshall and night watchman, and perhaps some other policeman. The force this year have done themselves credit. The mystery of recent burglaries was soon unravelled and untangled. Women, who after dark imagine every man passing on the sidewalk a Jesse James, and every creak in the house after dark the result of the burglars tools, now rest with restored nerves. I was talking to a newspaper man from Truro, N. S., the other day. He had been in Houlton, and he remarked on the general pretty effect of the town, and on the prestige that a place of its size gained by the presence on its streets of two uniformed policeman. By a narrow vote, our council decided against clothing the police in proper garb, the other evening. This matter will be brought up at every future council until, as in the matter of naming the streets, the council is shamed into action. It is said, and what an absolutely childish contention, let the police buy their own clothes, they are paid enough. If they are paid too much cut down their pay, but no town or city, as far as I can learn in the civilized world asks its police to cloth themselves at their own expense. As it is, the police here find their own weapons, a thing which is a disgrace to the town. If this were a matter of any considerable expense I would not wonder at opposition, but it is a trifling affair. Next year's council, 1 am quite sure. will look at the matter intelligently.

I notice that when the electric lights shine, they shine brilliantly, but when they don't shine brilliantly, they don't shine at all. On Wednesday night last at about nine o'cluck some of them were not shining. Ah ! now I must beg pardon, there was a new moon. It was a small moon and was considerably hidden by the clouds, and the night was very dark, but there was a moon. In the matter of the electric light, our council seems smitten with lunacy. Lunatics are affected by the moon, indeed, the word is derived from the latin, "luna", the moon. When the moon works all right we don't object to the contract which the town of Woodstock, exclusively, has with the moon, but when the moons sulks and there are no lights, it is a bit aggravating. * * *

52 BOILS

"Three years ago I was troubled with boils, and tried several remedies recommended by friends, but they were of no avail. I had FIFTY-TWO BOILS in all, and found nothing to give me relief until I tried Burdock Blood Bitters. The first bottle I took made a complete cure and proved so very satisfactory that I have recommended B.B.B. to many of my friends who have used it with good results." A. J. MUSTARD, Hyder, Man.

both parties to the marriage are clients of the amount that you require as dowry? In what-in cash, real estate, or securities? Must she have the whole amount in her own right, or will it be sufficient to have part in expectations? Where would you expect to live after marriage, city or country? In what city? Would you ever require your wife to leave France? Would you desire to

It might be imagined that the somewhat free revelations necessary in filling in this circular would deter applicants from proceeding further; yet, as a matter of fact, that particular agency was the intermediary in no fewer than 232 marriages of the better class during 1897, according to its report submitted to the Perfect of Police. Then it must also be remembered that marriage in France is hardly ever an affair of sentiment. The notaries employed by a prospective bride's parents would make inquiries just as comprehensive, and they are often even stricter.

No matrimonial agency will ever consider an application from a dowerless woman, no matter how beautiful, no matter what advantages she may have in the way of position or education. There is no market for the product. Every girl who desires to marry must have some money, even if it be only a pittance. The French convents are full to overflowing of high-bred girls, many of them pretty, whom reversal of family fortunes has driven into the sisterhoods. That career, lacking dowers, is the only one open to them. They cannot marry and they cannot seek self-maintenance. It is a very sad chapter in French social life.

Chronic Eczema Cured.

One of the most chronic cases of Eczema ever cured is the case of Miss Gracie Ella Alton, of Hartland N. B. On a sworn statement Mr. Alton says; I hereby certify that my daughter Gracie Ella was cured of Eczema of long standing by using four boxes of Dr. Chase's Ointment. William This-tle, druggist, of Hartland, also certifies that he sold four boxes of Dr. Chase's Ointment which cured Gracie Ella.

Doctor Depew Finds How to Make Friends.

Not long ago the editor of a New York magazine called upon Chauncey M. Depew to contribute to his magazine.

"My magazine, Doctor Depew," he said, 'has three hundred thousand readers. By addressing them you will gain one hundred thousand friends, all of whom some day will vote for you for the Presidency." "Will they?" asked Depew abruptly. "I am convinced of it," said the editor Depew took a letter from one of the drawers of his desk and said, "Well just read this. "Honorable Chauncey M. Depew "Dear Sir: -- If you will stop cackling for a while, and give the country a rest on the thousand and one subjects that seem to be your speciality, yours iruly will not only be very thaukful to you, but will of his own ac coad blow your trumpet whenever the necessity for doing so arises.

"Yours respectfully, "JOSHUA S. R.-.. "Charleston, South Carolina,"

"This advice," said the learned doctor, 'seemed to me sound, though at first a trifle hard to digest. I have concluded to accustom my system to it."

SITUATION WANTED

Persons who know the human frame and the human mind say that a perfectly healthy man should have eight hours sleep, eight hours work, eight hours recreation. in the twenty-four. If we all went in for more amusement we would, I believe, do better work. The coming century will probably see a change in this direction. Steady, con-Hagyard's Pectoral Balsam tinuous, unceasing work, brings money, but it brings, quite as surely, disease and death. Business worry wrecks men who have just attained their prime. It was a perfect prayer "give me neither poverty nor riches but feed me with food convenient for me." Nature is an inexorable mistress. The human machinery needs, readjusting, refitting, repairing. Neglect this duty, and the machine breaks down just as the bicycle or engine that is neglected.

> People who are in the habit of making public addresses and using metaphors, al ways need to be careful in their choice, for they are apt to meet with a crushing retort such as put to silence a certain eloquent minister. "My friend," exclaimed the elo-quent minister, "were the average man to turn and look himself squarely in the eyes, and ask himself what he really needed most, what would be the first reply suggested to his mind?" "A rubber neck !" shouted the precocious urchin in the rear of the room.

Queen Victoria And The Parrot.

In Windsor Castle there is a suite of rooms for the use of the Queen's Chaplain. A private passage connects the Chaplain's study with the Queen's apartments and she frequently repairs there to consult him on 1mportant matters. One day as the Queen was returning to her apartments after an inter-view, a parrot called out some words in a cross tone of voice from its cage in the passage way. Failing to understand the sounds the Queen turned to the Chaplain and asked, "What is the parrot saying?"

With much embarassment he replied, "If you please, Your Majesty, I should rather not repeat it."

"But what was it?" she said. "Something I fear Your -Majesty would not like, therefore I hope Your Majesty will excuse me from telling it." The Queen's curiosity was now thoroughly roused and she said, "Come, I insist."

The Chaplain bowed low and made answer Since Your Majesty insists, the parrot said, "Go along, you ugly old woman." Queen Victoria laughed heartily, as she said: "Well, I am glad there is at least one voice in the kingdom which is not afraid to 'tell me what they think of me."
