A Marrying Man.

Charles W. Woodruff, who is under arrest in Buffalo, is said to have married more than fifty women since 1885. The police have found four Buffalo women with whom he went through the ceremony of marriage but none of them will consent to appear against him, so he is held while the police seek for further evidence.

Woodruff is now 53 years old. He got the marrying habit shortly after the death of his first wife in Wellsville in 1885. He was then a good-looking man of some means.

He came to Buffalo in 1889 and pretending to be a theatrical manager, married an actress named Kent. Six days later at a leading Buffalo hotel, he married the daughter of a Buffalo broker.

On the next day he married a widow with five children. His next wedding took place in Dunkirk. To escape the consequences he entered the army, but soon deserted and since then has married women in all parts of America.

In his trunk were found more than 30,000 letters from a hundred women, half of whom signed themselves as his wife. He is credited with six wives in St. Louis.

One of his buffalo wives was sent to look at him. The woman is now happily married and her husband is well-to-do.

"He's the man I married," the woman said.

Woodruff looked at her inquiringly.

"Are you sure about that," he asked.

"Yes, I'm sure," the woman repeated.

"Well, I would never have known you."

KIDNEY'S CLOGGED.

Many Victims of Bright's Disease—Diabetes, Dropsy and Distressing Urinary Troubles Have Been Saved by the Timely Use of South American Kidney Cure.

The kidney are nature's filters in expelling from the body all impurities. If the kidneys are out of sorts the whole system becomes impaired and disease follows as sure as fate. Bright's disease diabetes, dropsy and distressing urinary troubles infest four-fifths of the race. It need not be so, for South American Kidney Cure is a power in dispelling all tendency to the seating of disease. It has cured cases that have been long and stubborn and that have baffled medical skill. Sold by Garden Bros.

Hawaiian Islands.

We acknowledge receipt of the latest pamphlet of the Canadian Pacific Railway, on the Hawaiian Islands, it is very neatly and artistically arranged and depicts in choice language and illustrations the beauty of this lovely mid-ocean group of islands. Their recent acquisition by the United States has opened a new world to American and European tourists, either pleasure or health seeking, who will find this a delightful semi-tropical climate with unrivalled attractions.

The transcontinental trip is made by the C. P. Ry. from St. John in their solid vestibuled sleeping and dining car train. The scenery along the route is of unusual diversity, the North Shore of Lake Superior picturesque and rugged wildness, Manitoba's mammoth wheat fields, and the Rockies and Selkirks' awful grandeur characterizes the overland journey to Vancouver, where the Canadian-Australian Steamship "Warrinoo," "Miowers" or "Aorangi" is taken for Honolulu, the chief city of the Hawaiians, where the first insight is given of the dreamy native life of the Pacific, and where the fragrance of flowers perpetually fills the air; one of the world's beauty spots, and justly named the "Paradise of the Pacific."

Steamers leave Honolulu twice a week for the different surrounding Islands. We would advise all intending tourists to write for a copy of this very interesting pamphlet to A. H. Notman, Assistant General Passenger Agent, Canadian Pacific Railway, St. John, N. B.

WEAK LUNGS.

"I was troubled with a Sore Throat and Weak Lungs and completely cured by Dr. Wood's Norway Pine Syrup." Frank Jennings, Coldwater, Ont.

How to Prevent Coughing.

The following is from a doctor connected with an institution in which there are many children. There is nothing more irritable to a cough than coughing. For some time I had been so fully assured of this that I determined for one minute at least to lessen the number of coughs heard in a certain ward in a hospital of the institution. By the promise of rewards and punishments I succeeded in inducing them to hold their breath when tempted to cough, and in a little while I was myself surprised to see how some of the children entirely recovered from the disease. Constant coughing is precisely like scratching a wound on the outside of the body; so long as it is done the wound will not heal. Let a person when tempted to cough draw a long breath and hold it until it warms and soothes every air cell, and some benefit will soon be received from this process. The nitrogen which is thus refined acts as an anodyne to the mucous membrane, allaying the desire to cough and giving the throat and lungs a chance to heal. At the same time a suitable medicine will aid nature in her efforts to recuperate."

THE MEDICAL PROFESSION

Recommends Dr. A. W. Chase's Ointment.

Dr. C. M. Harlan, writing in the American Journal of Health, of February 19, says:—

"Among the proprietary medicines deserving recognition is 'Dr. Chase's Ointment,' compounded by THE DR. A. W. CHASE MEDICINE CO., Buffalo, N. Y., and Edmanson, Bates Co., Toronto, Ont., as a remedy for sores, eruptions, and skin diseases of all kinds, for which it has been used with marked success, and has effected remarkable cures in many obstinate cases which seemed to baffle the skillful medical attendant. The results were most favourable, proving the value of 'Dr. Chase's Ointment' as a curative agent in the diseases named. The manufacturers of the remedy are well-known as experienced pharmacists, careful and reliable, in addition to which we have made full examination, and find the article to be all that is claimed for it. 'It is not the practice of the medical profession to indorse indiscriminately the use of proprietary medicines, but while we condemn the bad and worthless, we are still more ready to indorse and recommend the remedy deserving the recognition. 'Neither the physician nor the responsible Journal of Health now refuses to acknowledge the claims of such proprietary remedies as 'Dr. Chase's Ointment,' which prove their virtues by curing where other agencies have failed. 'We know that 'Dr. Chase's Ointment' meets all requisitions of the highest standard of worth, that it will be held in high esteem wherever it is used, and consequently we indorse it to every reader.' C. M. HARLAN, M. D.

Rubber-Rimmed Wheels.

Rubber-tired wheels are now very commonly used on such vehicles as coaches, coupes and hansom cabs, and within a year or two they have come to be used to a very considerable extent on lighter vehicles runabouts and light wagons. They have previously been placed on heavy top buggies, such for example as those used by physicians. Now besides the increasing use of rubber-tired wheels for various sorts of vehicles there is a great increase in the use of pneumatic-tired wheels.

Very heavy and substantial pneumatic-tired wheels may be seen in daily use in the city's streets on the electric cabs now running. As yet, however the use of pneumatic tires has been confined principally to light wagons and runabouts, though they are also used on pleasure vehicles designed to carry heavier loads as for instance the surrey.

On a pleasant afternoon there may be seen nowadays on the speedway scores of vehicles with pneumatic-tired wheels.—Ex.

Asthma Gasp.

The wheezing and strangling of those who are victims of Asthma are promptly relieved by a few doses of Dr. Chase's Syrup of Linsed and Turpentine.

Too young yet. He—For the past year I have been a social lion. She—It takes longer than that to make a lion—You're only a cub yet.

A bluff called—He—If I were not in a canoe I'd kiss you. She—Take me ashore instantly sir.

"It's the devil for any one to tell me a secret, for it is sure to come out in print."—HAZLITT.

There is always something exciting on the stage. The gaul matter has become stale, and no one will bother with it for a while, not until, at all events a few more judges have had a hack at it, and the lawyers have exhausted their powerful reasoning and convincing eloquence on the pros and cons. And the county must pay the piper. But we have another sensation and it is our early closing. A bold, bad merchant has opened out in spite of his fellows, and being quite free and independent, wishing no longer for civic honors, he don't give a hang for anybody. There is to be no third term, evidently. It is not an altogether easy question, this early closing, although the agreement between merchants should be observed by men of honor. It is claimed that in a country town it is suicidal for merchants to close their stores in the evenings. If it is suicidal to one it is suicidal to all, and how does it come about, then, that a majority of the merchants favor the early closing? Majorities don't generally favor their self-extinction. At the same time, the merchant says, "Can I not do as I like with my own?" If he insists on keeping open, there is no law to close him up, and if by keeping open every evening the merchants of Woodstock will increase the trade of the town, let them keep open. But, it would seem that the early advocates are no clerks, only, but merchants themselves. When it becomes a question of clerks vs merchants, it becomes like any other struggle between labor and capital; but when on one side are two or three merchants, and in the other the balance of the merchants—plus all the clerks, how can an outsider come to but one conclusion? Let the merchants agree on something. That is if an agreement between the merchants of Woodstock is worth the paper it is written on. By the way early closing is trifled with, one doubts it.

Puck is a New York funny Journal that in the matter of cartoons and written jokes keeps well ahead of the times. Here are two excellent selections that seem to be original and new:—

Uncle Hiram—"They say the sun never sets on the British empire," Aunt Hannah—"Doesn't it now? And we have such magnificent sunsets over here!

"It is too bad that we have to leave," said Eve, after the expulsion. "Yes," said Adam, who was more or less of a philosopher. "Still, we can't tell what sort of a place Eden would have been in the winter."

Publishers sometimes send prospectuses of books to this office with a view of having them advertised, in exchange for a copy of the book. I saw a prospectus, the other day. It deals with a book regarding the Philippines. But fancy such a paragraph as this: "In that day when the representatives of the federation of man shall meet in the parliament of the world, there will be emblazoned upon the walls, in colors of living light, the immortal names of Constantine and Luther, Gustavas Adolphus and John Wesley, Patrick Henry and George Washington, Abraham Lincoln and Toussaint L'Ouverture; but far advanced above them all, glowing like a crest in all the colors of the prism, like a beacon of light, like a rainbow of promise, will stand the immortal name of Dewey." Who ever read trash like this before?

There is probably no foundation for the report that the property owners on the west side of Main street, have stated that they will not put down curbing in front of their places, when the asphalt will be laid next year. This would be to attribute to them, a meanness of which I know they are not guilty. At the same time the town council would do well to find out what is likely to be the attitude of the property owners. We want no asphalt between Connell street and the town hall without the curbing, and other property owners having paid for the curbing in front of their places, an exception can scarcely be made, for the sake of these opposite neighbors.

MOTHER JOYS:

A Dimpled Dot in Her Arms and a Body Without a Pain—Here's a Case of Mother Cured of Tormenting Piles by Dr. Agnew's Ointment.

"After baby was born I suffered great torment from piles. Nothing gave me any lasting relief or benefit until I had used Dr. Agnew's Ointment. One application of it gave me almost instant relief, and a few applications cured me. Mrs. M. K. Collger, 30 Pacific Ave., Toronto."—Sold by Garden Bros.

DON'T CHIDE THE CHILDREN.

Don't scold the little ones if the bed is wet in the morning. It isn't the child's fault. Weak kidneys need strengthening—that's all. You can't afford to risk delay. Neglect may entail a lifetime of suffering.

DOAN'S KIDNEY PILLS

Strengthen the Kidneys and Bladder, then all trouble ceases.

Mr. John Carson, employed at M. S. Bradt & Co.'s store, Hamilton, Ont., says: "My little boy seven years of age has been troubled with his kidneys since birth and could not hold his water. We spent hundreds of dollars doctoring and tried many different remedies, but they were of no avail. One box of Doan's Kidney Pills completely cured him."
