Ruled By A Prisoner.

A Frenchman, a prisoner in Edinburgh, having managed to escape during the Napoleonic wars, took refuge in the powder magazine. When the authorities wished to seize him, they found him sitting on a barrel with a lighted match in his hand, and threatening to blow up the town.

The authorities reflected prudently, and the result of their deliberations was that it would be better to starve the Frenchman out.
But they reckoned without their prisoner, who liked good cheer, and was determined to live well. In consequence he called out that he would blow the town to pieces if he did not get three meals a day; he would write out the bill of fare.

His captors succumbed, and the demands of the prisoner went on increasing. Sometimes he had a serenade under his window; then a review of the garrison; afterwards a sham fight, in which the troops representing the French army beat the Highlanders. At last he enacted that every Sabbath morning, before breakfast, that Lord Provost in full uniform, should make his appearance and read him an address. This lasted until the Allies entered Paris.

Vigor for Heart and Nerves.

Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills cure Anaemia, Nervousness, Sleeplessness, Weakness, Palpitation, Throbbing, Faint Spells, Dizziness, or any condition arising from Impoverished Blood, Disordered Nerves or Weak Heart.

The Indian's Point of View.

Carl Smith, the "Fired at Random" man of the Chicago Record, gives a detailed report of a recent speech of a chieftain of the Sioux Indians who wish to go to war against Spain. Here are some of the reasons why the red man wants to fight:

"But woe is us. The Spaniard came nosing around discovering us. We did not want to be discovered. We did not send any messenger to him asking him to discover us. It bored us to be discovered. And yet, with no consideration for our feelings, this man, who if not a Spaniard, was backed by cruel Spanish gold gained from a Spanish pawnshop, came ruthlessly over and did that which we didn't want him to do. And with what result?" Look about and see. We are worse than in the hands of a receiver. Our lands are gone, and they have built mills on our streams and killed the fish and scared away the wildfowl. They have taken our ancient hunting grounds for golf links, and uncouth men in plaid socks go pounding a rubber ball in a foolish way over the territory where we used to build the campfire and roast the captive alive and laugh to see him sweat and hear him swear. Our wise men no longer rule the land, but are themselves ruled by a pack of fat fossils who prefer truffled oysters and baked sweetbreads to the best and yel-lowest and most entirely thoroughbred dog that ever served his turn at a regal banquet.

We are wronged. We are outraged. We are robbed of our birth-right, and we are sore. We have fought about it, off and on, but have been uniformly and voluminously licked. That was because we did not go to the seed of the thing and fight the real offenders—the original.

"That is what we propose to do now. We will fool no longer with the middlemen. We will go back to the beginning.
"Give us guns. Let us go fight Spain.
Let us lick the eternal stuffing out of the meddling dolts that didn't know any better than to discover us against our will."

Baby Eczema and Scald Head.

Infants and young children are peculiarly subject to this terrible disorder, and if not promptly arrested it will eventually become chronic. Dr. Chase made a special study of Eczema, a disease of the skin, and we can confidently recommend Dr. Chase's Ointment to cure all forms of Eczema. The first application soothes the irritation and gives the little sufferer rest.

Dairying.

Clean and thoroughly air the stable before milking; in hot weather sprinkle the floor.
Milk is a ready absorber of gases. Care should be taken not to have it stand in a place which is damp or musty or in a cellar where there are decaying vegetables or near onions, fish or other odorous substances.
Finely powdered charcoal, which is an absorber of gases, should be kept continually in a milk room, especially in hot weather, when unwholesome gases are most liable to affect the milk.

In cases of heart trouble Agnew's Cure for the Heart has proved itself the quickest acting remedy in existence. It has stepped in when the victim of heart disease seemed beyond hope—in the last grasp—has stayed death's hand, and has proved a never-failing and permanent cure. It is an honest medicine and will do all claimed for it.

A SPRING SERENADE.

My love, the moon is in the sky, (Where else, I wonder, could it be?) Beneath thy window shine am I, (Oh, but it's chilly! Hully gee!)
For thee I thum the gay guitar, (I wonder how she likes my thum?) Thou art my light, my guiding star, (You bet you are, tum-tum, tum-tum.) Once more the lilacs are in bloom, (They always bloom, you know, in spring.)
They breathe thy name in sweet perfume, (Just now I'd rather sneeze than sing!) Oh, listen in thy slumber deep, (Methought I heard a snore, tum-cum!) Rouse thee, my darling, from thy sleep, (And send me down a glass of rum!)
My heart is thine, my love, my own, (It's all I have to give thee, sweet,) Be mine for aye, and mine alone, (But how in thunder can we eat?)
Dream on, and when the sun shall rise, (What's that? A bark! The dog, I vow!) I'll read my answer in thine eyes, (Farewell! I've got to hustle now!)
—Town Topics.

He who has lived in the form of an experience looks back, while he who has entered into the substance and soul of an experience looks forward. "The outward man perishes," as Paul says, "but the inward man is renewed day by day." The perishing of a form and method in which we have lived may naturally bring a pensive sadness like that which always comes to us as we watch the setting sun, but he who is in the spirit of the sunset turns instantly from the westward to the eastern look. The things the day has given him—its knowledge, and its inspirations, and its friendship, and its faith—these the departing sun is powerless to carry with it. They claim the new day in which to show their power and to do their work. Live deeply and you must live hopefully. That is the law of life.

He that is a good man is three-quarters of his way towards being a Christian, whereso-ever he lives, or whatsoever he is called.

Some day He will let you look back on your life story, and see the golden thread of His fatherly love, and care shining over and around it all.

"It's the devil for any one to tell me a secret, for it is sure to come out in print."—HAZLITT.

We narrowly escape being in for another murder trial. About half a mile across the boundary, a sad tragedy occurred. A son murders his father in the most cold blooded manner, the details of the crime being revolving to a degree. With this, the State of Maine will have to deal, although the murdered man is a native of Woodstock, and only left here a few weeks ago. The son or sons who committed the deed come perilously near being blue noses, if they are not subjects of Her Gracious Majesty. They, at least, are safe from the fear of the hangman's noose, for Maine has abolished the death penalty.

THE QUESTION OF RELIGIOUS INSTRUCTION.

The question of religious instruction in schools will always remain debatable. We say that it is better to have no religious instruction than to have religious instruction which may be offensive to any of the scholars or to the scholars' parents. Let the Sunday schools do the work is the cry. If there are no Sunday schools what? However, it is quite a problem. A correspondent "Arichat" writes to Le Moniteur Acadian of the 7th inst, a long letter on education of the young, from the point of view of a large section of the French Acadians. Arichat makes several good points against the neutral schools. He says that in these schools the infant is taught about the cat, the dog, the horse, that a cat has so many claws, etc.
Here is how morals are taught he says. To a scholar it is said "If you tell me the truth I will give you bon-bons, but if you tell a lie I will give you poison." Continuing, this writer speaks of the privilege accorded in some places of teaching religion after the school hours. When the child is fatigued with all his other studies, is the time to devout to teaching him about God. All these arguments have more or less weight.
The effect upon the rising generation cannot be other than to belittle the importance of religion. It cannot be the great thing to learn, or it would be taught in the schools.

THE TOWN COUNCIL.

There are healthy symptoms of a desire among our councillors and citizens generally to improve the appearance of the town. A well-disposed stranger who was here the other day remarked to me about the untidy appearance of Main Street. He spoke as he looked out from the Carlisle Hotel, and with the same breath he spoke of the fine residences, and the well kept lawns surrounding them. The worst of it is that many visitors to the town see only the Queen street station, the hotels and Main or Queen streets, and certainly the impression one would form of the town from such an acquaintance, is not likely to be pleasing. And one does not like to be called upon to apologize for the appearance of the town, to every stranger one meets.
Of course one may tell these critical strangers that they need not visit the town, that if Woodstock doesn't suit them they may stay away, and perhaps this would be the better plan to adopt. But, when the town council admit that the town is not kept as it should be, we must admit that strangers are not unreasonable. A good move has been made in deciding upon a curb for the Main street sidewalks. When we make a good job of our sidewalks, the business portion of the town will look very different. The inferiority of the buildings on Main street, is something we must make the best of. After all, they are better than handsome buildings, covered over with mortgages.

THE CYCLISTS' FRIEND.

No cyclist's kit is complete without a bottle of Hagyard's Yellow Oil. Can be taken internally or externally. For Cuts, Bites, Bruises, Sprains, Stiff Joints, Coughs, Sore Throat, Pains in the Chest, etc., it is always effectual. Has no equal as an all round remedy.

How It Worked.

"It works this way," said the agent "When a burglar tries to open the window this bell begins ringing and wakes you up."
"Bell rings and wakes me up?" said Popper. "And it will wake the baby, too. I don't want it. Take it away. I guess you don't know that kid of mine."—The Yellow Book.

A Study in Motive.

"Say, old man, just supposing I had the choice, would you advise me to marry an ugly girl with money or a pretty girl without money?"
"A pretty girl without money, by all means. That would give you the name of having money yourself."—Detroit Journal.

RUNNING SORES.

Mr. Stephen Wescott, Freeport, N.S., found (Burdock Blood Bitters) a wonderful blood purifier and gives his experience as follows: "I was very much run down in health and employed our local physician who attended me three months, finally my leg broke out in running sores with fearful burning. I had thirteen running sores at one time, from my knee to the top of my foot.
All the medicine I took did me no good, so I threw it aside and tried B.B.B.; when one-half the bottle was gone, I noticed a change for the better, and by the time I had finished two bottles my leg was perfectly healed and my health greatly improved."
