Miles Moore Injured.

C. Miles Moore received a serious accident on Monday. He had gone into the woods with a crew of men and had his gun with him. The gun exploded and badly lacerated his face. At first it was thought his eyes were seriously injured but late reports say that his sight will not be affected. He is now in Houlton, Mrs. Moors having gone there receiving a telegram telling of the accident.

AMONG THE RECENT deaths recorded in Aroostook county is that of Mrs. Frank Johnson who died in Presque Isle early in September. Deceased, says the Star Herald, was born in Woodstock. She was the daughter of Charles E. and Helen C. DeForest, who came to Presque Isle some twenty years ago, and recently moved to Pittsfield Mass., where they now reside. Mrs. Johnson has been with her parents for some time, but returned to Presque Isle in June, hoping her health would be improved by the change. She was able to be out until a few hours before her death.

Pretty Hats, Etc.

Every lady who likes a pretty hat, and who does not of the fair sex, will be glad to learn that Mrs. Wm. Loane is making special efforts for the fall opening on the 6th, 7th and 8th of next month. There are some beautiful samples of the millinery art to be seen in her windows, and others are in course of preparation that will fairly cause the thrifty or stingy husband to shiver in his boots every time he hears his wife remark on the beauty of Mrs. Loane's display. There are some very pretty things in the head gear line altogether. The editor with the eye for feminine beauty was particularly taken with a fall hat of the castor shade trimmed with turquoise blue. There was a smaller one of the same shade. Burnt orange is a pretty shade and something new and Mrs. Loane has some very pretty make-ups in this kind. There is a little gem, in brown velvet, trimmed with burnt orange. Then there are wondrous things of beauty in other shades, royal blue and royal purple for instance. A pretty assortment of Paris made hats, struck the eye as likely to prove a severe temptation to the gentler sex, who love all things beautiful but desire to study economy as well. Among the other attractions is a silver grey hat trimmed with royal blue. In fact there are such a variety that the ordinary power of description fails, but the women can judge for themselves. It may be mentioned that Mrs. Loane has all manner of the latest things in trimmings, in sequins, feathers, osprays, flowers of all kinds. Remember the opening on the 6th, 7th and 8th of October.

Railway Collision.

On Wednesday morning last a terrible collision occurred on the Pictou branch of the I. C. R. resulting in loss of life and great destruction to rolling stock. The train which takes miners to Westville left Stellarton, as is her custom, promptly on time—5.20 o'clock—in charge of Conductor W. W. Gordon, and he had with him James A. Sproule as engine driver, and J. Robert McKenzie as fireman, the train consisting of a locomotive and workmen's car. A special left Pictou for Stellarton to make connection with another special from New Glasgow with passengers en route as an excursion train for the Halifax exhibition. The Pictou special was in charge of Conductor Alex R. McLeod, with Michael O'Brien as engine driver and as fireman W. D. Henderson. The train consisted of a locomotive and four first class passenger cars.

On leaving Pictou there were over a dozen passengers on board, which number was considerably augmented at Westville. When within a mile of Stellarton, at a place called McAdam's Cut, in a very winding curve, one of the worst on the branch, in fact so bad that it is impossible to see twenty feet ahead, the two trains collided. Neither party could have seen the oncoming train and even if they did it was too late to put on brakes. The train with the passenger cars was going down grade and the locomotive with only one car up grade and both at a high rate of speed. The great engines crashed into one another and virtually telescoped each other. Both engineers and fireman met instant death at their posts. They were fearfully mangled, in fact so much so that they were almost beyond recognition. Two of them were in the debris and it was sometime before the bodies were recovered. The car next the locomotive, in which there were three passengers, reared up on the hind trucks, turned over and was a complete wreck. One passenger named Martin Cameron, from Scotch Hill, a young man bound to Boston, was killed outright. A number of other passengers were injured.

COUNTERFEIT nickles are in circulation. Both the old and the new styles of nickles are being duplicated in lead, one of those received bearing date of 1895, and the other having been used so long the date cannot be seen. Anybody can easily tell one of the counterfeits. In the first place their ring when dropped on a metallic substance is entirely different from that of a good nickle. A jackknife will readily whittle away a portion and the nickle can be used as a lead pencil. It is not known how many of the pieces are in circulation, but it would be well for all to keep their eyes open for them.—Star Herald Presque Isle.
