Expressions of Sympathy.

The members of the Richmond Auxiliary of the W. M. S. of the Methodist church give expression to their feelings occasioned by the death of Mrs. E. Slackford, in the following resolution:—

Having been called upon to mourn the loss of a valued member by the death of Mrs. Slackford, who passed to her heavenly home on the 7th inst., we desire to place on record our appreciation of her Christian character and of the valuable service rendered by her during her connection with our society. The zeal she evinced in the Master's work, her willingness to assist in anything that had for its object the furtherance of Christ's cause, as well as the Christian fortitude exhibited during the painful illness of several months which resulted in her death, furnish to us a bright example which, we trust, each member will follow, and thus although removed from our midst, she "being dead yet speaketh."

To her bereaved husband, our esteemed pastor, and his family, we tender our warmest sympathies, and pray that the God of all grace may abundantly comfort and sustain them in their affliction.

"We sorrow not as those without hope," our sister has only "gone before," and we have the assurance that if we are faithful to our trust, as she was to hers, we shall meet in our Father's house, and "go out no more"

Signed on behalf of Auxiliary, B. MAY HARRON, president. M. FLEMING, secretary. Debec, January 16th 1899.

Home Made Macaroni.

Most, if not quite all, of the macaroni sold in the stores of New York is a domestic article put up in one pound packages under a French label, a wholesale grocer told me. "The real imported Italian article seldom reaches the American customer. About 500,000 boxes are annually imported, and most of it comes to this port for distribution. It is eagerly bought up by the Italians here, and so the American who desires the simon-pure article is often forced to go without. But for your consolation I may add that the domestic macaroni is about as good as the Italian, and I am positive is a great deal cleaner, more wholesome and nutritious, and manufactured under far better sanitary conditions.

"In the trade macaroni is known as 'Naples paste,' taking its name from Naples, the principal shipping port of Italy. Dozens of factories are in the neighborhood of the Bay of Naples, and the macaroni is packed for the American market in boxes of eleven kilos each. The French also turn out a great deal of macaroni, and both Italian and French manufacturers use semoule, which is obtained from a certain grade of Russian wheat especially adapted to this purpose.

"Semoule differs from flour only in that it is a trifle granulated. The hard, red wheat grown in the northwestern section of the United States is the solitary variety which will produce a satisfactory grade of semoule, and our own manufacturers of macaroni depend upon it for their supply.

"Macaroni is not a dish of general consumption in Italy. The poorer classes cannot afford it, and it is confined almost exclusively to the tables of persons in comfortable circumstances. It is only on rare occasions or festivals that the poor obtain macaroni."—New York Exchange.

Figures Talk.

It is said that the Family Herald and Weekly Star Company of Montreal, buys one sixth of the entire white paper consumed by the weekly papers of Canada. This will give some idea of the magnitude of that wonderful paper. There are over one thousand papers in Canada, and the Family Herald uses one sixth of the entire paper used to print them. The circulation of that paper is growing by thousands every week and before long their percentage of the consumption of paper will be much larger. The picture, "Thin Red Line" has added thousands of new subscribers this season. The publishers, we are informed, have decided to issue a last edition of twenty thousand for those who subscribe during January and February. This will be welcome news to those who have delayed renewing and to those who are desirous of securing it. The Family Herald and Weekly Star one full year, with the picture, "Thin Red Line," is the greatest snap of the century for one dollar.

Van Buren and Caribou Railroad Company.

This company was organized Jan. 6th with a capital of $150,000, 5 per cent of which has been paid in.

The incorporators are James Crawford, T. J. Cochran, S. L. White, Duncan Ross, John M. Stevens, John A. Nadeau, Allen E. Hammond, M. A. Earrett, J. F. Theriault, and Peter C. Keegan.

It is the idea of the company to build a regular steam railroad between Van Buren and Caribou and they will commence the construction of the road during the coming season, if the rights to be asked for at the hands of the Maine legislature are granted The Restigouche & Western railroad will soon be constructed to St. Leonard, N. B., directly across the St. John river from Van Buren, and as it taps a section of New Brunswick rich in natural resources, it is expected to furnish a large business for not only the contemplated road but also for the B. & A. and Maine Central roads.—Aroostook Republican. Mr. Keegan, who frequently visits Woodstock was elected president of the company.

HAGYARD'S YELLOW OIL cures all Pain and takes out Swelling and Inflammation quicker than any other remedy. Price 25c.

Americans Rush Too Hard.

In the January Ladies' Home Journal Edward Bok deprecates the sense of rush that has taken possession of the American women, and emphasizes the danger arising from the condition of unrest. "Take our family life today," he says, "Look around one's own family circle, look into its life look into the families we know and tell me if I am so far wrong when I say that what our American families need more than anything else is more time with each other; more drawing together; more moments of being alone with each other; a greater extraction of the peace and comfort from those material surroundings which each so earnestly strives for, and all are too much satisfied to strive for simply to possess, and nothing more. We are all too much in a hurry in America to allow of our knowing and enjoying each other. Our lives are too full with the things which ought to be secondary and which we have allowed to dominate us. We are all too busy: men and women, girls and boys—all of us. We are not getting the rich beauties out of life; the greatest enjoyments out of living. Rush and haste are too much upon us. The sweet balm of peace and quiet is an unknown delight to thousands of our people. And much of the cause, disagreeable as it is to say it, lies with our women who have of late allowed their lives to become too full. I will not say that they have neglected, to any alarming extent, the fundamental duties of wifehood and motherhood. But I do say that the danger of doing so in the very near future exists, in many an instance, if things are allowed to go on as they have gone.

That Weak Back

Gold From Dawson City.

VICTORIA, Jan. 20.—Steamer Danube arrived from the North yesterday, brought 50 passengers from Dawson, and several from the Atlin Lake district. Damson passengers, according to the purser, brought about $400,000 in gold. The health of Dawson is reported to be very bad, and although the mercury is down to 48 degrees, typhoid is general. Major Bliss, of the Yukon force, was one of the passengers on the Danube. He is on his way to Ottawa with official despatches and a duplicate of the military mail lost through accident to Corporal Richardson some time ago. The work of the Victorian Order of Nurses comes in for warm commendation from Major Bliss. Not only have they engaged in the work of nursing from house to house, but they have helped in hospitals as well, or wherever their assistance was required. So exacting have been the demands upon them that Miss Powell, the superintendent, fell ill with fever herself and now is slowly recovering from the attack. Faith Fenton intended leaving the Klondyke this winter, but has been retained in the commissioner's office as assistant private secretary to Mr. Ogilvie.

Thin Blood is bound to follow the ravages of disease the outcome of stomach disorders—thin blood shakes hands with the undertaker—ward off that possibility—Dr. Von Stan's Pineapple Tablets make and keep the stomach healthy—they're Nature's antidote—pleasant and positive. 35 cents.

Men Devoured by Wolves.

The Ottawa Citizen has the following: "A gentleman from up the Ottawa, who came to the city, states that in the vicinity of the Coulogne limits hungry packs of wolves are ravaging the country, and the shantymen are compelled to go armed in many cases, in order to protect their lives. One of the men employed in Mr. Alex. Fraser's camps went out a few days ago, and a short time afterwards his head and feet were found in the woods, the body having been devoured by wolves, whose tracks were plainly traceable. Two men who left one of the camps at Christmas time to go to Ottawa have not been heard of since, and it is feared that they, too, have met a terrible fate. In no previous year have the wolves been so numerous or ferocious, and hundreds have been killed by the shantymen."

PROVINCIAL HISTORY, both general and in respect to special localities, has never received the attention it is now getting in The New Brunswick Magazine, the February number of which is at hand. Mr. Raymond has reached the eighth paper of his most interesting story of the pre-loyalist settlement of St. John, and this month an engraving of Fort Howe in 1741, illustrates his narrative. Prof. Ganong tells all that is known of New Brunswick's first governor, Thomas Carleton, and Mr. James Hannay continues his account of the early Acadian families. The editor, Mr. Reynolds, tells the story of the strange cruise of the pilot boat "Rechar" to the West Indies, in search of buried treasure. A new contributor is Dr. I. Allen Jack, who tells of the now populous valley at the north of St. John, as it was forty or fifty years ago. Mr. J. F. Herbin, of Wolfville, N. S., makes a plea for the preservation of an historic spot in that vicinity. The departments, including Notes and Queries, anniversaries of the month, etc., are well filled. The magazine is published by W. K. Reynolds, St. John, at $1.50 a year. Single copies 15c.

McKenzie-Tibbits.

A very happy event in which one of our popular young townsmen took a principal part, was the marriage of Arthur Robert McKenzie, eldest son of James McKenzie, to Miss Inez Helena Tibbits, daughter of Sheriff and Mrs. Tibbits of Andover, Victoria county. The ceremony was performed at the residence of the bride's parents on Wednesday, in the presence of a few friends and relatives of both families. Rev. Mr. Hillock, assisted by Rev. Mr. Hopkins, was the officiating clergyman, the full Episcopal service being read. The bride looked very fair and sweet in a lovely gown of rich white silk, trimmed with pearl passanterie lace and orange blossoms. She carried a beautiful bouquet of white carnations and was attended by her sister, Miss Edith Tibbits, who was attired in a pretty dress of pale pink silk and carried a bouquet of pink carnations. The groom, looking radiantly happy, was supported by his friend Howard Murchie of Stephen. After the ceremony and congratulations, a dejeuner was served.

The bride then changed her bridal costume for a stylish travelling dress of purple broad cloth, trimmed with braid, and hat to match. The happy young couple left for a wedding journey to Boston. On their return a reception will be given in their honor by Sheriff and Mrs. Tibbits. Mr. and Mrs. McKenzie will reside in Andover during this winter, where they will be at home to their friends after the twenty-third of this month. The wedding gifts were very numerous and elegant. The gift of the groom was a handsome brooch set with pearls.—St. Croix Courier.

Another Name For "Leg."

Frederick Locker, in Patchwork, tells a story in illustration of the unwillingness among certain circles to allude to such a thing as a leg. A girl goes in hot haste to fetch a doctor for her sister, who she says, has broken a limb.

"Which limb is it?" says the doctor.

"Oh, I can't tell you which limb," says the girl.

"But you must," replied the doctor. "Is it the limb she threads her needle with?"

"No, sir," says the girl. "It's the limb she wears her garter on."

War on Tuberculosis.

ALBANY, N. Y., Jan. 20.—In the Senate Senator Willis introduced a radical anti-tuberculosis bill requiring all cattle brought into New York state to have had a test for tuberculosis 30 days previous at the hands of a state official, who shall furnish a written permit to import them. All transportation companies are forbidden to carry cattle without such certificate and permit. No indemnity is to be paid for slaughter of tuberculous cattle brought into the state without certificate. Violation of the law imposes a fine of $25 to $250 for first offence, and six months to one year imprisonment for second offences.

The Doukhobors.

2300 natives of Asiatic Russia, known as Doukhobors, arrived at St. John on Monday, and have been sent forward to the North West, where lands will be given them. They are said to be a well-living, industrious class of people, and will probably make good settlers. Their religious belief is much the same as the belief of the Quaker. Another steamer load will arrive shortly on the Lake Superior. Altogether some 4000 of these people will be settled in the North West. Those who have arrived made a favorable impression.

More About Tuberculosis.

WOODSTOCK, N. B., Jan. 21, 1899.

To the Editor of the Dispatch:

In your last issue I notice a communication from Mr. de Veber on tuberculosis, wherein he suggests to our town council to help stamp out the disease by endeavoring to get owners of cows within the town limits to have the same tested, and prevent milk vendors who are unable to show a clean sheet, selling milk in the town. The suggestions are good and we hope the council will not overlook the matter, not only to see that milk cows are free from this disease but that cattle slaughtered for the meat market, are inspected by a competent official, for if the milk of an animal having tuberculosis is unfit for use, so should be the meat, and yet the number of cattle infected with this disease and slaughtered every day and the meat consumed in the town, cannot be known without proper inspection, as animals having the disease usually look as healthy and thrifty as those free from it, as was seen in the case of Mr. Peabody's cattle. It is hoped that all who eat meat and drink milk will lend all possible aid to stamp out the disease. But, while the greater part of Mr. de Veber's letter is worthy of note, yet, part of it, at least, needs correction—it being very misleading viz:—

- 1st. That the danger is much greater in using milk from cows kept in town than that brought in from the country.
2nd. That the germs of tuberculosis are much more prevalent where the population is densest, or in other words, more prevalent in town than country.
3rd. That town cows are largely fed on all kinds of kitchen waste and other refuse gathered from various sources, &c.
4th. That the cows destroyed by Mr. Peabody were purchased in the town a few months past.

I would answer his first statement by saying that it has been proved beyond dispute that the milk from town cows is in every respect superior to that from the country. That the cows tested by Dr. Frink, among them the writer's—were all free from tuberculosis and in a perfectly healthy condition.

2nd. That the density of the human population of Woodstock was never known to affect the health of the cattle.

3rd. That town cows are not fed as stated by Mr. deVeber. While there may be a rare exception it is not the rule by any means.

4th. That only one of the cows destroyed by Mr. Peabody was purchased in the town, the other having been raised by himself on his farm, and supposed to have contracted the disease from one of his own herd. It is absurd to claim that milk from the country is even as good as town milk, unless the vendors deliver their milk twice a day. Country people always claim that town cows do better because they are better fed and cared for.

Mr. Peabody is certainly to be commended in showing his desire to be honest with his customers, as also are those who are now following his example. With the united efforts of cattle owners there is no reason why the terrible disease should not be immediately stamped out. W. B. NICHOLSON.

A Tobique River Church.

To The Dispatch:—

DEAR SIR,—Permit me to make a statement regarding the Baptist meeting house up the Tobique River. It was begun after I called a meeting late last summer, the well built frame partly up, and on the 26th day of Sept. I took a carpenter Thomas Winchester of Benton there at noon and in just two months the house was finished ready for spring. It was dedicated Xmas day, three sermons being preached, first by J. W. S. Young, others by Rev. A. H. Hayward, the day and roads all that could be desired and $105.15 was paid and subscribed on that occasion. When subscriptions are all paid our house will be about $50 in debt a great work for so short a time. The house is in size (27 x 38) twenty-seven by thirty-eight well finished two coats of paint outside. A porch on the north corner extends into the main building some 6 feet square and a committee room to correspond on the opposite side with seats to seat 12 or 15 persons, cleats and hooks, looking glass, comb, brush, wisp, shelves for books, closet for oil can, etc, also cleats and 1 1/2 dozen hooks in the entry way, one of Connell's fine stoves in the middle with the pipe running length of house through the wall into a flue built altogether outside. The house is nicely sheathed, the walls nicely and tastefully painted, a beautiful pulpit with platform presenting a fine appearance. At one side a platform for the choir and organ one step high, the pulpit two. There are two beautiful lamp posts behind the pulpit with eight wall lamps with reflectors and a large lamp for center. Seating capacity 250. About 300 were present at the opening. Platform and isle carpeted. J. W. S. YOUNG.
