WOODSTOCK, N. B., NOV. 15, 1899.

UNITED STATES APPRECIATION.

It is quite remarkable to notice the friendly sentiment of the United States newspapers, as a general rule to the British Empire in this present war. The Porland Argus appreciates the course the colonies are pursuing in going to the aid of the motherland. That journal writes: "Great Britain notes with satisfaction that the critical situation in South Africa has stimulated the war enthusiasm of her colonies all over the world. Canada has offered a second contingent to the imperial government. Australia is raising additional companies and will send 10,000 troops if needed. Even the Newfoundland government is considering a proposal to form half the colonial police into a company for service in the Transvaal, and uniting it with the Dominion's second regiment. When it comes to the tug of war "Greater Britain" is seen to be something more than a mere phrase."

THE BLESSINGS OF WAR.

The horrors of war have been sounded by about every poet. Kipling is said to have remarked, not in verse, but in plain, every day English that, there are worse things than war. Prima facie, as the lawyers say, it is difficult to see what the poet is driving at. What can be worse than all the evil passions of man let loose, the dying groans of hundreds, the anguish of bereaved women and children, and the hundred and one horrors which surround the battle field.

Still the eternal plan is incomprehensible, we see only through a veil, darkly, and to taste the "lesser death" as the poet from whom we have quoted, says, is not the worst thing that can befall man. The poet of Israel sang years ago, amid songs never equalled since,

"Be not thou afraid though one be made rich; or if the glory of his house be increased: For he shall carry nothing away with him when he dieth, neither shall his pomp follow him."

Thus, in times of war all men come to a level. Lord and commoner go alike to battle, and the bullets of the enemy make no nice discrimination. The rich man with everything before him in life most pleasant, finds a grave beside the pauper who has enlisted as a means of livelihood. More than this, war, makes us forget our smaller troubles. The little petty strifes of our political contest, dwarf into insignificance beside the battles in which empires are made and lost. Men are drawn together, as by a common danger. We find that we are friends and not enemies. On the battle field deeds of heroism are shown; which make us dispute the saying of the immortal Burke, that the days of chivalry are over. The hearts of those—so many just, now torn by the news of the death of those nearest and dearest to them, become in time chastened by this very suffering that seems to deprive them of all interest in life. Gold must be chastened by fire, and so the soul by pain. Men's minds are aroused from the everyday sordid thought of accumulating wealth. They become occupied with greater affairs. All over the empire this is the case today.

Then, the war has another good aspect. It enables the young man to have an excuse to be out a little late at night to "get a paper," and some of the middle aged are not above taking advantage of so excellent a reason, to get an hour's extension of furlough. There are no doubt worse things than war, although the silent sentry around Ladysmith or Mafeking may wonder what they are.

A pet so tiny that it can be carried in a woman's muff is the "pocket monkey." This little creature has a face the size of a ten-cent piece, with small, even teeth, which he displays when uttering the soft, birdlike sound called forth by excitement or fear. His body is only a few inches long, but his plump tail is long, and he curls it around his neck when sleeping.

How to Get Plump and Rosy.

Nature Meant every woman to be plump, rosy and well developed, and if she has become pale, weak and nervous, Dr. A. W. Chase's Nerve Food will restore and revitalize the wasted nerve cells, make the blood rich and pure and give new vigor and elasticity to the whole body. For ills peculiar to women there is no remedy so successful as this great food cure of Dr. A. W. Chase. At all dealers

NO EXPRESSION IN EYE.

It is the Eyelid that Does the Business, Says an Oculist.

There are no expressive eyes. The expression of the eye is really in the lid. The eye itself, independent of its surroundings, has no more expression than a glass marble. A prominent oculist makes this daring statement, and he defends his position with emphasis. "The eyes have no expression whatever," he says. "How do you explain the fact that the eyes of one person are more expressive than those of another? I am asked. They are not. The difference consists in certain nervous contractions of the lids peculiar to the individual.

"Observe for yourself, and you will see that I am right. We will say that I am greatly interested in something, and my attention is suddenly called from it by an unexpected interruption. My upper eyelid raises itself just a little, but the eye proper does not change an iota in appearance. If the interruption is but momentary, the elevation of the lid will be but momentary. If the surprise caused by an interruption is continued the lid may be raised even a little more, and, in fact, the whole of the forehead, including the eyebrows, is raised and wrinkled. But the eye remains the same.

"When a person is excited such the same emotions are gone through," continued the doctor. "His eyes are open wide, in case of intense excitement, to their greatest extent, but the forehead is not wrinkled, and the ball of the eye is as expressive as a bit of glass. No more.

"Observe the face of one who laughs. You will see that the lower eyelid has no muscle of its own, and it is only by the contraction of the adjacent muscle in smiling or laughing that it is made to move. That is why there are many wrinkles about the eyes of merry persons.

"The expression of deep thoughtfulness is produced by the dropping of the upper lid. The lids of some persons fall so low that the pupil of the eye itself is the same. If the meditation is over a subject that worries the thinker the expression is again quite different. The eyelids contract and the eyebrows are lowered and drawn together. This is true of a reflective mood.

"As to emotional moods, there is the expression of anger, for instance. The eyes, instead of closing, are open wider than they are normally, but the brows are closely knit.

"In expressing sadness the entire upper eyelid comes about half way down and the folds of the skin collect there, giving the lid a thick, heavy appearance."

THE PRESIDENT'S STORY.

A Slave to Chronic Catarrh for Years—Specialists Failed—Dr. Agnew's Catarrhal Powder (Simplest of all) Cured Him.

D. T. Sample, President of Sample's Installation Company, Washington, Pa., writes: "For years I was afflicted with chronic catarrh. Remedies and treatment of specialists only gave me temporary relief until I was introduced to use Dr. Agnew's Catarrh Powder. It has proved the one good thing in my case. In almost an instant after I had made the first application I had relief, and a little perseverance in its use entirely rid me of this offensive malady. I would be glad to personally recommend it to any and everybody." For Sale by Garden Bros.

Who's Blinks?

There is a telephone in their residence, and as it is used principally by Mrs. Blinks and her friends, it is, perhaps, natural that it should be identified solely with Mrs. Blinks, and that Mr. Blinks—well, Mr. Blinks answered when the bell rang a few nights ago, and this is the conversation that took place:

"Hallo!"
 "Well?"
 "Is this Mrs. Blinks?"
 "No."
 "I mean, is this Mrs. Blinks' telephone?"
 "No, it's the company's."
 "Well, is this Mrs. Blinks' house?"
 "I don't know. I'm beginning to think that perhaps it is."
 "What?"
 "Yes; I think it is. Everyone seems to think it is anyhow."
 "Is Mrs. Blinks' daughter there?"
 "No."
 "Well, who is this?"
 "Oh, this is only Mrs. Blinks' husband, the father of Mrs. Blinks' daughter, the man who lives in Mrs. Blinks' house, and occasionally drives Mrs. Blinks' horses. She got him with the house, you know."
 "Oh, she did?"
 "Yes, she did."
 "Rough on Mrs. Blinks, isn't it?"
 That telephone will probably be taken out of the house.

SMOTHERING SENSATION.

A Kingston Lady's Experience with Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills in Relieving this Distressing Condition.

"I have suffered for some years with a smothering sensation caused by heart disease. The severity of the pains in my heart caused me much suffering. I was also very nervous and my whole system was run down and debilitated.

"Hearing that Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills were a specific for these troubles, I thought I would try them, and got a box at McLeod's Drug Store. They afforded me great relief, having toned up my system and removed the distressing symptoms from which I suffered. I can heartily recommend these wonderful pills to all sufferers from heart trouble."

C. M. SHERWOOD & BRO. WOODSTOCK.

I am a farmer located near Stony Brook, one of the most malarious districts in this State, and was bothered with malaria for years, at times so I could not work, and was always very constipated as well. For years I had malaria so bad in the spring, when engaged in plowing, that I could do nothing but shake. I must have taken about a barrel of quinine pills besides dozens of other remedies, but never obtained any permanent benefit. Last fall, in peach time, I had a most serious attack of chills and then commenced to take Ripans Tabules, upon a friend's advice, and the first box made me all right and I have never been without them since. I take one Tabule each morning and night and sometimes when I feel more than usually exhausted I take three in a day. They have kept my stomach sweet, my bowels regular and I have not had the least touch of malaria nor splitting headache since I commenced using them. I know also that I sleep better and wake up more refreshed than formerly. I don't know how many complaints Ripans Tabules will help, but I do know they will cure any one in the condition I was and I would not be without them at any price. I honestly consider them the cheapest-priced medicine in the world, as they are also the most beneficial and the most convenient to take. I am twenty-seven years of age and have worked hard all my life, the same as most farmers, both early and late and in all kinds of weather, and I have never enjoyed such good health as I have since last fall; in fact, my neighbors have all remarked my improved condition and have said, 'Say, John, what are you doing to look so healthy?'

WANTED.—A case of bad health that R.I.P.A.N'S will not benefit. They banish pain and prolong life. One gives relief. Note the word R.I.P.A.N'S on the package and accept no substitute.
