No Cure for ... Bright's Disease

In its advanced stages The Reason Why-Danger Provented by the Timely Use of Dr. A. W. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills.

To understand Bright's Disease is to know that in its advanced stages it is past the reach of human aid. The cells of the kidneys undergo a wasting change, which leaves them dead so far as performing their functions is concerned. Just think of having the kidneys dead. Think of the poisons left in the system when these organs could no longer perform zheir duties as filters of the blood

It would be difficult to conceive of anything more dreadful, and yet this is the goal to which every case of neglected kidney disease must lead. When the back aches, when urinating is difficult or too frequent, when there are deposits in the urine after standing for 24 hours, there is no time to lose in procuring Dr.

Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills. It is not claimed that they will cure Bright's Disease in its last stages. They are an absolute cure for kidney disease, and so long as the kidneys are not entirely wasted away they will give new strength and vigor and enable them to resume their duties of filtering the blood.

Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills will stop backache and headache in short order by removing the cause, and will positively prevent Bright's Disease. One pill a dose, 25c. a box. At all dealers, or Edmanson, Bates & Co.,

A few weeks ago I touched on the question of bribery in elections, and intimated that the indications are that it is on the increase rather than on the decrease. I don't think anyone can seriously doubt this. It does not speak much for our free educational system, as the young voter is quite as willing to take a consideration for his vote, as the old voter. Prof. Goldwin Smith recently addressed a large gathering of farmers in Ontario. He dealt with this evil, and said that it was a great pity that such a condition of affairs existed, as it meant the ruin of every country sooner or later. Surely such words from such a learned source should have their effect. What is the use of talking of our freedom, when we have only the shadow while believing or pretending to believe we have the substance. If monied men or corporations can come into a constituency and buy it up, why call ourselves free men? Such being the case we are simply under a 20th century system of slavery. It is not very fashionable to read in Woodstock, but if our people would study history, they would see, with Prof. Goldwin Smith, whither we are drifting. If a millionaire were to offer for election in Carleton County, and his opponent were a poor man, with ever so good a cause, which would be elected? Would anyone have any doubt of the millionaire's success

It was stated during the meeting of the county council, that no one could be an auditor who had any other contract with the council. This is very proper, no doubt. We all know that no one can sit as a member of parliament and have any contract with the government, and why should this principle not extend downward to our smaller legislative bodies. For instance, is it quite proper that town councillors shall tender for contracts with the town? Yet this is done as we are very well aware. It would certainly appear better, if councillors names did not apordered paid by the town council are ordered paid to town councillors. Either this is a thoroughly proper principle, or the rule that prevails in parliament is unnecessary and unfair to members. It is not the amount of the contract, it is the principle that is in-

Just an Ordinary Coin.

"Say,' said the street car conductor to a mild-mannered man who was deeply engrossed in his newspaper. "Say young fellow, I don't want this quarter. I can't use it." The mild man continued to hold out his hand for his change, but paid no other attention to the conductor.

"See here!" yelled the conductor, getting red in the face, "you can't pass no quarter like that on me. It's slick; I can't take it for more than 20 cents."

The mild man looked up and said: "I'm sorry, because you gave me that very quarter yourself last night, and I've been laying for you since. Well, give it here." He took the quarter and gave the conductor a nickel. As he took the quarter from the conductor he suddenly dropped his paper and gave a

A hungry-eyed man in the corner who had overheard the conversation, jumped and said to the conductor:

"Isn't that the very quarter I gave you yesterday morning? I missed that quarter. It was a pocket piece and valuable coin. I remember now that I gave it to you. I demand it!" he said, looking fiercely at the mild man. "If you are a gentleman you will give it to me.

"It isn't yours. You never gave it to me. My wife gave me that coin by a mistake; it's part of a collection that's been in the family since 1827!" yelled the conductor.

"I tell you it's mine!" said the hungryeyed man. Thus they wrangled and quarrelled all the way down town.

WILD

Crows Make War on Sparrows.

A flock of crows is doing in Baltimore the work of exterminating the sparrows, recently attempted in Boston parks by the employees of the Public Works Department, and is doing it better. This war on the pugnacious little English immigrant in Baltimore was begun a year ago by three crows, who forced the sparrows tenanting the corners in the building of the Peabody Institute to evacuate. This year the evicting force numbers fifteen crows, who daily come up from an adjoining country and, beginning at the Peabody Institute, gradually work their way northward. They destroy the eggs and nests of the sparrows, and within a few months have pushed the birds quite a distance toward the suburbs. The methodical way and determination of these crows, Prof. Uhler, of the institute says, is remarkable, and the work they have done is of great benefit to the trees in the squares and parks in the city The Peabody buildings are now entirely free from sparrows, and it is a rare thing to find one farther down town than North avenue, except in the western section of the city.

Rudyard Kippling at the Zoo.

An American traveller who spent some time with Rudyard Kipling in London recently, tell this story: 'One afternoon' we went together to the Zoo, and, while strolling about, our ears were assailed by the most melancholy sound 1 have ever heard, a complaining, fretting, lamenting sound proceding from the elephant house.

"What's the matter in there?" asked Mr. Kipling of the keeper.

"A sick elephant, sir; he cries all the time; we don't know what to do with him,' was the answer.

'Mr. Kipling hurried away from me in the direction of the lament, which was growing louder and more painful. I followed and saw him go cp close to the cage where stood an elephant with sadly drooped ears and trunk. He was crying actual tears at the same time that he mourned his lot most

'In another moment Mr. Kipling was right up at the bars, and I heard him speak to the sick beasts in a language that may have been elephantese, but certainly was not English. Instantly the whining stopped, the ears were lifted, and the monster turned his sleepy little suffering eyes upon his visitor and put out his trunk. Mr. Kipling began to caress it, still speaking in the same soothing tone, and in words unintelligible to me at least.

'After a few minutes the beast began to answer in a much lowered tone of voice, and evidently recounted his woes. Possibly elephants, "enjoying poor health," like to confide their symptoms to sympathizing listeners as much as do some human individuals. Certain it was that Mr. Kipling and that elephant carried on a conversation, with the result that the elephant found his spirits cheered and improved. The whine went out of his voice, he forgot that he was much to be pitied, he bagan to exchange experiences with his friend, and he was qurte unconscious, as was Mr. Kipling, of the amused and interested crowd collecting about the cage.

'At last, with a start, Mr. Kipling found himself and his elephant the observed of all observers, and beat a hasty retreat, leaving behind him a very different creature from the one he had found.

"Dosen't that beat anything you ever saw?" ejaculated a compatriot of mine, as the elephant triumpeted a loud and cheerful good-bye to the back of his vanishing visitor, and I agreed with him that it did.

"What language were you talking to that elephant?" I asked when I overtook my "Language! What do you mean?" he answered with a laugh. "Are you a Mowgli?" I persisted, "and can you talk to all the beasts in their own tongue?" But he only smiled in reply.'-'The Baptist Union.'

Mr. Brown's Opinion of Compound Paine's Celery

It is everywhere admitted that the people who testify to the health giving and restoring virtues of Paine's Celery Compound are men and women who are respected and well known in the towns and cities where they

The high standing of Paine's Celery Com pound with the most prominent medical men, and its world wide popularity, is due to the fact that the great medicine accomplishes just what it promises. It saves life after all other medicines fail; it cures when doctors pronounce the patient incurable. Mr. John H. Brown, Truro, N. S., writes

"I am truly thankful for the good results I have obtained from the use of your Paine's Celery Compound. For a long time I have been a sufferer from general debility and indigestion and have made use of many medi cines, but none have given me the grand results, as far as improved health is concerned, as has your wonderful Paine's Celery Compound. It has done wonders for me, and though I am 65 years old I have been able to do light work for the past six months, and have not lost a day. I give your medicine all the credit for my restoration.'

Stutters Only When Talking. A 1emarkable case of stuttering was received for treatment at the Chicago school of psychology recently. The applicant for a cure came in and had an interview with Dr. Herbert A. Parkyn. The latter questioned him as follows:

"Have you stammered a long time?" "Yu-yu-yu-yes, sir."
"Has it affected your general health?"

"Nun-nun-nun-no, sir."

"Does it make you nervous?"

"Nun-nun-not vuv-vuv-very." "Do you stammer all the time?"

"Nun-nun-nun-no, sir; only whu-whu-whu-when I t-t-t talk, sir."

NELLIE CROW, dam of REED WILKES (4 yrs) 2.251; Albany Boy 2.23.

REED WILKES was bred by T. L. Crow, Nicholasville, Ky. Is a dark bay horse with a few white hairs in forehead, and coronet white; 153 hands high; weighs 1,150 lbs. In point of individuality, speed or breeding he ranks well among the produce of his famous sire, with an ideal conformation, best quality of legs and feet, coat that would grace a thoroughbred, disposition perfect, gait that could in no way be improved, and a horse of superb style, that transmits his qualities. He is certain to become a sire whose blood will be in demand at an early date.

His sire, Red Wilkes, sire of Ralph Wilkes, 2064, and grandsire of John R. Gentry 2 033, the fastest stallion in the world, is by the records by far the greatest son of George Wilkes, as he has more 2 30 and more 2 20 performers than any other son, and he is also sire of more 2 30 and more 2 20 performers than any other living horse of his NELLIE CROW, his dam, is a grandly bred mare, combining the three great brood mare strains-Mambrino Chief, Pilot Jr. and Clay, supported by the stout thoroughbred blood of Gray Eagle, Webster and Imp. Envoy. She produced four foals-REED WILKES (4 yrs) 2 251, and Albany Boy 2 23; the other two were fillies and never trained, but kept for breeding. Nellie Crow trotted in 2.40 nearly twenty years ago, as a two-year-old, over a country half mile track, and her owner says if she could have been put in the hands of some of the trainers of today her record would have been 2.10 or better.

REED WILKES' record, which was obtained at four years of age, is far from a limit of his speed, as he has trotted a trial in $2.16\frac{1}{2}$. Geo. H. Bailey, State Veterinarian, said that he saw him when he made his four-year-old record at Lexington, Ky., in a stake-race against the best four-year-olds in the country, and that the last heat he could have made below 2.20 had be been driven for it.

REED WILKES for the season of 1899, will stand at Briggs' Stables, Briggs' Mills, Oakville, Carleton Co. On Saturdays he will be. at Gilman's Stable, Woodstock.

Service fee $8 to iusure, $1 cash down. $6 by the season. Single service $4, cas wn. Mares at owners' risk. All mares hone n for service fee of horse. All mares disposed of will be consid red in foal. T. S. BRIGGS, Owner.
