

Painners' Kidneys.

DOAN'S KIDNEY PILLS

The worst thing a painter has to contend with is the turpentine. The lead, of course, is bad too. But the turpentine cures the kidneys, inflames and weakens them, makes the painter's life a dangerous and troublesome one. When a painter's back aches, it is a sign for him to begin treating the kidneys.

Mr. J. Evanson, the well-known painter and decorator, 50 Oxford St., Toronto, writes: "About eight weeks ago I was suffering from excruciating pain in my back over the kidneys. It was so bad that my wife had to apply hot cloths till the doctor came and gave me morphine. He said the trouble was due to a stone passing from the kidney to the bladder. My water was loaded with a black dust deposit and scalded on passing. While in this condition I heard of Doan's Kidney Pills and started taking them. It was not long before I got relief from pain and have been improving in health ever since. My urine is now clear and does not smart me, and I feel better than in years."

The Horse Market. (Breeder's Gazette.)

The constant arrival of European buyers in the American horse market presages an aggressive fall campaign on their part. In all the leading western marts—Chicago, National Yards, Kansas City, Indianapolis and the like—the agents of European firms keep dropping quietly in day by day and take their stations in the buying ranks without flourish of trumpets, indeed with as little to do as possible. A fortnight ago no less than six such new buyers joined the old guard at National Yards and within that time possibly a dozen recruits have joined the seasoned army in Chicago.

In all the principal eastern cities the leading firms have orders for more high class carriage or coach horses than it is at all likely they will be able to buy in the year. The supply is woefully short and the grade not at all high. This ought to be as dull as almost any season of the year in the larger marts, yet prices in the auctions on harness horses not by any means "cracks" have reached $465 in Chicago, $310 in National Yards and $300 in Indianapolis. The chief operations of all these buyers, however, will not lie among the fancy horses suitable for use in light and heavy harness; such horses will make but a mere fraction of the total individual purchases of each separate buyer.

Competition will naturally be all the hotter when a really high class one does appear in the ring, but the general run of the better grades will gain most largely in value. Good export chunks, vanners or expressers and heavy drafters will, with slight fluctuations, no doubt this winter reach a level in value superior to any yet risen to in the history of the western horse trade. The prospects could not be more flattering than they are right now.

A Peculiar Development from the Negro Question.

Owners and captains of steamboats plying in the Chesapeake Bay and the Potomac River are, says the New York Post, in a quandary over the application of the Virginia separate coach law. This statute, which requires that separate but similar accommodations be provided for white and colored passengers, applies to steamboats as well as railroads. On the railroads the discrimination is readily made, by furnishing separate cars or by building a partition in the cars, but how to separate the races on a steamboat, and to give one race as good a place as the other, is a problem to which the Virginia lawmakers probably gave no thought, and which the steamboat men are disposed to turn over to the courts for settlement. The question raised for the courts to decide is this: "Can a steamboat company, running in Virginia waters, be punished for disobeying a law which, in the nature of the construction of steamboats of the most modern build, can not from a physical standpoint be obeyed?" This is not all. Steamboats on the Potomac touch alternately of a Maryland landing and a Virginia landing. On the Virginia side the law requires that the races be separated. On the Maryland side obedience must be shown to a law that no discrimination shall be made between any races or colors by a common carrier. Here is argument indeed for uniformity in legislation.

Starch Made From Potatoes.

Nearly sixteen thousand tons of potato starch are, says the Saturday Evening Post, turned out annually in the United States. The potatoes used for starch are the small and injured ones of the crop. Sixty bushels of them yield a barrel of starch. They are washed and reduced to a pulp by machine, and the pulp is carried by water into tanks, at the bottom of which the starch settles. The starch is then transferred by shovels to another receptacle, where it is stirred and beaten to a cream. After settling again, to remove all impurities, it needs only to be dried in order to be fit for commercial use. The drying is done in kilns, by steam coils, and, when the starch comes out, it is so white and beautiful as to resemble driven snow. The commercial starches in use today are made from maize, potatoes, rice, wheat, sage flour and tapioca flour. Rice starch commands the highest price, and maize starch is the cheapest. Wheat starch comes next in value to rice starch, and potato starch third on the list.

For the Relief of the Middle Aged.

Spectator in N. Y. Outlook: To the majority of young people, and even to some who are well along in the forties, any one who has passed the half-century milestone is thought of as old, and is likely to have patriarchal attentions and honors thrust unduly upon him—a thing most disquieting to many advanced somewhat in years, yet unwilling to be classified as aged before their time. It has occurred to the Spectator that a society should be organized for the prevention of calling any one old, or venerable, before he has reached—well, say, what years the Spectator will not presume to say, choosing to leave that important decision to a carefully selected committee, no one of whom, as all must agree, should be less than threescore and ten.

Will They Stick to it?

A letter from Truro N. S., to the St. John Telegraph says:—A young women's Temperance Union has been formed for the first time in this town, with about 40 members. It is stated that one of the pledges these young ladies will incorporate in their by-laws is that they will not associate with, nor walk on the street with, nor in any way countenance any young man who persists in using liquor or tobacco, or who is known to use profane language. This will be a severe test for many young men of the town, if really put into effect, and those who prefer a bottle to their young lady friends will require to be dealt with in the most forcible manner possible both for their own good and for the sake of reputation. This may work two ways and bring to the front some of the nobby young men who have not cleared themselves sufficiently of their school days bashfulness to give their young lady friends the attention they merit for when such a by-law comes into action the young man who is constantly found keeping his own company, may be stamped a "wine bibber."

Did Nero Burn Rome.

The archaeologists of Italy are in the throes of a great discussion. Among the documents in the Forum have been discovered certain writings tending to cast considerable doubt on the generally accepted statement that Nero set fire to Rome and fiddled as he watched it burn. It now appears from many evidences that the fire was started by the Christians, probably by some with revolutionary tendencies. It is shown by various documents that the fire originated close to Nero's own palace and that the suburb inhabited by the poor Christians escaped the conflagration.

WORKMEN SENT BACK.

A Toronto Violation of the Alien Labor Act.

Toronto, Oct. 10.—Edward Williams, the alien labor officer of the dominion government today ordered the deportation before Saturday noon, of five United States workmen engaged in the interior decoration of the residence of a prominent citizen. The contract had been let to a Cleveland, Ohio, firm, who sub-let the contract to another Cleveland. The latter pleaded ignorance of the Canadian law forbidding the importation of alien workmen. These are the first deportations made from Toronto under the alien labor act and others are likely to follow.

The success of smokeless powder in modern warfare has been such as to prompt a man of an inventive turn of mind to manufacture a powder which is said to be also noiseless. It is the invention of a German workman, who has studied the chemistry of explosives in the States. He has already given a private exhibition of the practicability of his discovery with considerable success. A shell loaded with his powder was fired at a target fifty yards away, and the only sound indicating the explosion was the falling of the plunger of the shell. Bohnengal, which is the name of the inventor, has not, it is said, yet sold the secret of the process, but is still in treaty with different governments for its purchase.

In the Clutch Of Consumption.

Don't neglect that persistent hacking cough till you find yourself in the clutch of Consumption. It's an easy matter to stop it now by taking

DR. WOOD'S NORWAY PINE SYRUP.

This pleasant remedy heals and soothes the lungs and bronchial tubes, and cures lingering and chronic coughs when other remedies fail.

Mr. W. P. Cann, writing from Morpeth, Ont., says: "I honestly believe I would have died of consumption only for Dr. Wood's Norway Pine Syrup. I have used it for years and consider it has no equal for severe colds and throat troubles."

What the Baby Said.

They had been discussing the earliest age at which children of tender years first babble incoherent words. The doctor had been silent until, by common accord, every one looked to him to finish the discussion.

"I remember a curious case," he began dreamily, "which you may believe or not, as you please. I was called in to see a poor child of some 4 months and found it past all aid.

"Cannot you do anything for it, doctor?" the mother asked, and I replied, 'Absolutely nothing.' You will hardly credit the fact that the child looked up in my face and said 'absolutely nothing.' It sounds incredible, I know, but it is a fact."

He rose then and walked away, while the smoking crowd wondered.

Then one saw it and began reading, and then another muttered something severe, but the doctor had gone.

The Creed of a Pessimist.

Here is a characteristic epitome of a pessimist's creed. It is to be hoped that not many readers hold with it:

- What is creation? A failure.
- What is life? A bore.
- What is man? A fraud.
- What is woman? Both a fraud and bore.
- What is beauty? A deception.
- What is love? A disease.
- What is marriage? A mistake.
- What is a wife? A trial.
- What is a child? A nuisance.
- What is good? Hypocrisy.
- What is evil? Detection.
- What is wisdom? Selfishness.
- What is happiness? A delusion.
- What is friendship? Humbug.
- What generosity? Imbecility.
- What is money? Everything.

I might have known better than to trust my money to that broker.

'Why so? Are appearances against him? No, confound him! It's his disappearance.'
