Petty Theft.

On Monday morning July 23rd W. R. Gillen of Hartland wrote a letter to James White in Centreville enclosing the sum of forty-one dollars. He laid it on a shelf in his barber shop and as he was leaving town before the Post office would be open, he asked his brother John to mail and register it.

The letter lay there till about a quarter after twelve when John took it to the office.

When the letter reached Centreville there was no money in it. Mr. Whittaker of the postal service, St. John, immediately went to Hartland and proceeded to investigate.

He and Post Master Barnett drove to Centreville and when they returned to Hartland they took with them the letter that had so mysteriously shed its wealth.

When Mr. Gillen saw the letter again he examined the envelope carefully and though the address was almost a perfect imitation of his writing he became convinced that it really had not been written by him. It was clear to him that the letter had been tampered with between the time when he laid it on the shelf in the shop and the time when John took it to the office.

Suspicion pointed to one man and Mr. Gillen forthwith proceeded to interview the gentleman. The man was quite on his dignity at first, but on being threatened with the paralyzing hand of justice he owned up and disgorged the currency.

The culprit is not a Hartland man. This is the second serious offence committed by foreigners in Hartland in the last few weeks.

If this sort of thing keeps up the Hartland people will be in a position to press their claims to have the new gaol built in their town.
