From Pneumonia, Typhoid or Scarlet Fever, Diphtheria, La Grippe or any Serious Sickness

Require the Nerve Toning, Blood Enriching, Heart Sustaining Action of Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills.

It is well known that after any serious illness the heart and nerves are extremely weak and the blood greatly impoverished. For these conditions there is no remedy equals Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills. It restores all the vital forces of the body which disease has impaired and weakened.

Mr. T. Barnicot, Aylmer, Ont., says:—"About a year ago I had a severe attack of La Grippe which left my system in an exhausted condition. I could not regain strength and was very nervous and sleepless at night, and got up in the morning as tired as when I went to bed.

"I had no energy and was in a miserable state of health.

"Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills, which I got at Richard's Drug Store here, changed me from a condition of misery to good health. They built up my system, strengthened my nerves, restored brisk circulation of my blood, and made a new man of me.

"I heartily recommend them to any one suffering from the after effects of Grippe, or any other severe illness."

French Canada and the Empire.

(J. G. S. Cox, in the November Nineteenth Century.)

Whatever the precise nature of the settlement which must be effected in South Africa after the war, it is at least certain that the two races, Dutch and English, must go on living together side by side. It is interesting, therefore, to remember that a hundred and fifty years ago, in lower Canada, another people, also strangers in blood, passed under the British flag, and that their descendants today are among the most loyal of the subjects of the queen. At the time of the last census 85 per cent of its people were Catholics, and 80 per cent used French as their mother tongue. At the same time the loyalty of the Catholic province is loyalty with a difference, and that difference is apparent, whether we are considering the relation of Quebec to England, to France, or to the United States. Toward her great neighbor in the south of French Canada has no learning at all. She remembers the fate of Louisiana, and is content.

The difference of attitude toward Great Britain and France goes deeper, and in the future may have important consequences. The things may be put into a phrase by saying that French Canada is content to be as she is, and wants to leave well alone; while the rest of the seven sister provinces are inclined to look with favor upon any change which tends to tighten the ties of the empire, Quebec views the process with suspicion and distrust. In the eyes of many of her politicians imperial federation threatens to bring with it the doom of French Canada as a separate political entity. At present two millions of French Canadians, under the shelter of treaties guaranteed by Great Britain, can hold their own in a community of five millions; but once merged in a great federation of British states Quebec would disappear, overwhelmed by the surrounding mass of Anglo-Saxons. By far the greater part of the opposition to the sending of Canadian troops to South Africa was based on this fear that the government was committing itself to the first step toward imperial federation. Sir Wilfrid Laurier, in calling upon the whole country to support the action he had taken, showed very clearly his feeling that he had to appeal not to one race but to two. For the British Canadians the simple ties of blood were enough; their kinsfolk were fighting, and the impulse to go and help was strong. No appeal to the people of lower Canada was possible on that ground, but Sir Wilfrid Laurier showed that he knew his countrymen well when he appealed to them, on the ground of gratitude, to be faithful to the power that had been so faithful to them. The result was a triumph for the cause of Canadian solidarity. Indeed, there would probably have been no opposition at all but for the fear of what might follow, fear of federation, and the consequent overwhelming of the French element.

The general situation, then, may be summed up in the fewest words. The people of the French province are loyal to Canada with a passionate loyalty as to the only home they know; they are grateful to Great Britain for her faithful guardianship, and proud of her protection; they look forward neither to the establishment of a great French state on the St. Lawrence nor to annexation to the United States, but they view with deep distrust the prospect of constitutional changes within the empire which may diminish their relative importance and influence as a community.

Chronic Bronchitis

Rev. J. N. Van Natter, of Streator, Ill., writes:—"About one year ago I obtained from you six bottles of Dr. Chase's Syrup of Linseed and Turpentine. I gave away two and took the other four. I had been seriously afflicted with Chronic Bronchitis for ten years and could get no relief. A leading physician told me that it was only a question of time until it would wear me out, but thanks to this wonderful remedy of Dr. Chase I am now a strong man. 25 cents a bottle, all dealers."

The Death of Sir Arthur Sullivan.

Sir Arthur Sullivan, who died in London on Thursday of last week, was probably the most widely known and most popular English-speaking musical composer of the time. He was born in London in 1842, and was the son of an Irish military bandmaster. He showed at an early age a marked talent for music, and before he was ten years of age it is said he had learned to play with creditable skill every wind instrument in his father's band. He became a choir-boy, studying harmony and composition during his term of service. He afterwards studied in Germany, but was never reconciled to or much influenced by the spirit of the modern German school of music. One of his fellow-students at Leipzig was the Norwegian Edward Grieg—a far greater genius than Sullivan. Grieg's songs will last beyond the time when Sir Arthur's "Lost Chord" is forgotten; but the "Lost Chord" has doubtless been sung twenty-five times while Grieg's "The Old Mother" or his "Young Birch-Tree" has been sung once. Sir Arthur Sullivan has written many popular songs, and some church music that has been widely sung—such as his setting of the hymn "Onward, Christian Soldiers," but his fame and popularity rest upon his operettas, of which he brought out successfully more than a dozen. Of these, "Pinafore," which ran for seven hundred nights in England at its first production, had an enormous popular success twenty years ago, and "Patience" and "The Mikado" were almost equally as well liked by the play-going public. "The Yeomen of the Guard" is undoubtedly his best work musically, as it was the most serious dramatic work of his famous colleague, W. S. Gilbert; it is said to have been the composer's own favorite among his operettas. Oxford and Cambridge both conferred on him the degree of Mus. Doc., and he was undoubtedly the most eminent and most highly honored musician in England. This may fairly be said, without any disparagement of his great gifts, to be an indication of the fact, often noted by students of music, that the Anglo-Saxon has so far developed little genius for the creation of the higher forms of music. Certainly in Germany, and perhaps in France, Russia, and Italy, Sir Arthur, while achieving great popular reputation, would have been ranked by the cognoscenti as a minor composer.—New York Outlook.

Catarth Philanthropy.

Which means, do good as well as get good. This is how it operates.—Pearl Lake Mill, Que., August, 1900, "Enclosed find $6.00, send six outfits to friends" as follows—"A short time ago I wrote you for an outfit for Mr. Liberge, he would not now part with it for twice its value. I secured one in Montreal, having been informed of your remedy by my father—it has acted wonderfully in Nasal Catarth of long standing. Signed, Thos. Sissons.

Mr. Sissons says a great deal more but when a man sends for six outfits of Catarthozone that means more than a bushel of words. Such action stands for conviction that he has discovered a remedy of superlative value. Druggists all sell Catarthozone, ask them to show it to you, ask them to let you try it. We will send it to you for $1.00 or a sample for 10 cents. N. C. Polson & Co., Kingston, Ont., Hartford, Conn.

Deer in Maine.

(Gardiner Reporter-Journal.)

It looks as though the law permitting the shooting of deer in September by those who buy a license for that purpose would be repealed this winter, or at least an effort will be made to have it repealed. The sportsmen are against it and claim that under the permit to shoot one deer there are as many shot as the hunter chooses, and as the permit is given at a time when it is very easy to get deer, the plan results in a decrease in their numbers. The results of the shooting this fall, a less number than last fall having been shot, is quoted as making an additional liability to fires in the woods at a time when the woods are dryer than usual. They are to ask for the repeal of the law, and if they the and sportsmen both want it repealed the chances are that it will be.

Political Education for Girls.

At the distribution of prizes to the students at the High School for Girls, Tunbridge Wells, by the Marchioness Camden, on Monday the head mistress created considerable amusement by relating the answers some of the girls had made regarding political matters. On being asked for a definition of a Conservative one girl wrote:—"Conservatives think that the poor should be kept down in their places; if not where are our servants to come from? If you give them the slightest liberty they take a great liberty." Another said the cabinet included Lord Salisbury, Lord Beaconsfield and Mr. Labouchere. Questioned as to what she knew of Octavia Hill, a third said:—"Octavia Hill was taken from the Boers by the British after great bravery."

Could Scarcely Walk

Mr. George Thompson, a leading merchant of Blenheim, Ont., states:—"I was troubled with itching piles for fifteen years, and at times they were so bad I could scarcely walk. I tried a great many remedies, but never found anything like Dr. Chase's Ointment. After the third application I obtained relief, and was completely cured by using one box." Ask your neighbors about Dr. Chase's Ointment, the only absolute cure for piles.

PROBATE COURT, COUNTY OF CARLETON, PROVINCE OF NEW BRUNSWICK.

To the Sheriff of the County of Carleton, or any Constable within the said County—Greeting:—

Whereas Gertrude H. Jones Administratrix of the Personal Estate and effects which were of Randolph K. Jones, late of the Town of Woodstock in the County of Carleton, deceased, hath by her petition bearing date the sixteenth day of November A. D. 1900 made it appear to this court that the personal estate of the said deceased which has come into her hands is insufficient for the payment of the debts owing by the said deceased, and hath prayed that a license may be granted to her to sell such parts of the Real Estate of the said deceased as may be meet and necessary for the payment of the said debts.

You are required therefore to cite the heirs at law and next of kin of the said Randolph K. Jones, deceased, and the creditors of and all other persons interested in the said Estate to appear before me at a Court of Probate to be held at my office in the Town of Woodstock in the County of Carleton, at or about, on THURSDAY, the THIRTEENTH day of DECEMBER next at the hour of ten of the clock in the forenoon, to show cause (if any there be) why license should not be granted to the said administratrix to sell the Real Estate of the said deceased as prayed for.

Given under my hand and the Seal of the said Probate Court this sixteenth day of November, A. D. 1900.

STEPHEN B. APPLEBY,
Judge of Probate, Pro Hac Vice.
DENIS B. GALLAGHER,
