Business Men's Backs.

Too much rush and bustle, work and worry fall to the lot of the average business man. Kidneys can't stand it; they fail to filter the poisons from the blood properly. The Cup Race Farce.

(Boston Advertiser.)

The news that Sir Thomas Lipton ha challenged again for the America's cup is probably the beginning of another farce which will be carried out in the name of fair and decent sport. As a matter of fact there is a good deal that is unfair about the cup races, which are rather a travesty on true sport. Yachtsmen in this section are beginning to appreciate the fact, and to become intensely disgusted with the existing condition o

Primarily the cup races have become the amusement of millionaries. None others need apply. A man who challengers for or defends the cup can count upon spending $200,000 anyway, and circumstances may run his bills up to more than twice that amount. What a contrast between this state of things and the time when the America was first sent across the ocean by a party of yachtsmen who went into the venture for the sake of sport Is not the time near at hand when the privilege of defending the America's cup will go to the man who will bid highest for it? Apparently even now we are not far from that condition of things.

There is a worse feature about the cup races, in that the spirit of the deed of gift has been impudently violated. It was provided that the challenging vessel should sail across the Atlantic, this provision being meant to insure that only seaworthy boats should compete for the cup. The British have been kept rigidly to this contract. What of the Americans? Since the day of the Viligant, has there been one cup defender that even an experienced yachtsman would dare to take fifty miles from land in a hard blow? Would any sensible man agree to cross the Alantic in the Columbia unless attended by a steamer for rescue purposes?

Before the days of the Defender the Americans kept up to their side of the implied contract. The Burgess boats were well built and are as good today as they were when they started in the trial races. Yachts built on Burgess models have been sent to the fishing banks with perfect safety. The delicate racing machines which are now chosen to defend the cups are the fastest yachts afloat; but they can be floated with safety only in sheltered waters It is neither sports. manlike nor even decent to compel British yatchtsmen to bring over their sturdily built | the road to travel. yachts to compete with these delicate racing machines. Let both sides have fair play!

If racing machines are to compete for the cup, let both sides have them. If the cup is a prize for ocean-cruising yachts, let it be decided so, and enforce the decision. As matters stand, the New York Yacht Club for years has been putting up a huge bunco game upon British challengers. In doing so they have disgraced the fame of American sport. They have degraded what was once the greatest yacht race of modern times into a confidence game in which the British can never stand any chance of winning and any American millionaire can purchase a victory merely by signing a check.

The Twentieth Century Magazine.

A new century brings new conditions and new methods of meeting them. Fifty years ago the average American was content to get his news once a week. Now he demands it twice a day, with relays hourly when things are happening in Africa and China.

The Curtis Publishing Company bought THE SATURDAY EVENING POST because it believed that the public which demands its newspaper twice a day, would want a popular literary magazine once a week, provided it adjusted itself to the new conditions and rightly gauged the demand of the twentieth century. And that demand, it felt, would be for a magazine of the best quality that money and brains could make, sold at as low could produce it.

To improve the quality and at the same time lower the price of a publication, two things are necessary—a great circulation and the best machinery that human ingenuity can devise. The first has been achieved, for THE SATURDAY EVENING POST has a weekly cleanly. circulation of a quarter of a million, and new subscriptions are coming in at the rate of a thousand a day. Again, its ten new presses have just been installed in its new eightstory-building, which, together with its old facilities, give it the largest and most complete periodical plant in the world.

This addition to the equipment of The Curtis Publishing Company, with the auxiliary machinery specially designed for THE SATUR-DAY EVENING POST, the whole involving an outlay of half a million dollars, will enable it to lessen the mechanical cost of the magazine and to print the edition of 500,000 weekly toward which it is rapidly growing. And this cheapening of cost and increase of circulation will permit the publishers to make permanent the price which, under old conditions, they were able to put out only as a special and limited offer-a year's subscription to THE SATURDAY EVENING POST, fifty-two numbers, including the regular monthly double numbers and the special holiday issues, for one dollar.

About Paper "Hanging."

Wall paper does not hang, and yet the person whose business it is to paste it up is called a paper hanger. The reason is simple. Long before the introduction of wall papers, Arras, a town in France, was famous for its tapestries, called "arras." These were used as wall coverings, and the men who were employed to put them up were called hangers. | wheel."

THE PROPERTY OF THE PROPERTY OF THE PARTY OF

A generons Act.

The following is taken from "The Republic" the prominent Roman Catholic weekly newspaper of Boston. Thomas Hamlin, a well-known railway engineer of this city (Detriot), in the employ of the Grand Trunk railway, met with a frightful accident while in the performance of his duty last Friday morning at Durand, Mich., says the Michigan Catholic.

Mr. Hamlin was fatally injured in a collision which occurred at about 1.30 A. M. After being extricated from beneath his wrecked engine it was seen that he was in a dying condition, and as he implored those about him to call a priest, and there being no Catholic clergyman residing in the place, some kind hearted person hastily summoned Methodist minister, Rev. Mr. Roedel of Durand. Mr. Roedel hastened immediately to the scene of the accident. Mr. Hamlin saw at once that he was not a priest, and courteously declining his proffered services, the injured man asked him to send for a priest. The nearest priest, Rev. George O. Sullivan, resided at Gaines, which was six miles distant, and there was no way of reaching him except by driving across the country. The brave engineer was every moment growing weaker and weaker, and the attempt to reach Father O'Sulivan and convey him back to Durand before the man had breathed his last was deemed hopeless. However Rev. Mr. Roedel (God reward him for his noble act) hurried to his own home, hitched up his horse and drove over to Gaines and returned as fast as his horse could be driven to Durand with the priest.

Poor Hamlin died just five minutes before Father O'Sulivan arrived. Rev. Mr. Roedel's part in the sad tragedy is worthy of the highest praise, and Christians of all denominations cannot but admire his noble charity and generosity.

A Family Necessity

Mr. J. Wright, of 126 McPherson avenue, Toronto says:—"I am always glad to say a good word for Dr. Chase's Syrup of Linseed and Turpentine. It has been in use in our familes for two years, and we have never found it fail to cure coughs, colds, and chest trouble. It is our regular stand-by." Dr Chase's Syrup of Linseed and Turpentine is a Family necessity in the houses of Canada and the United States. 25 cents a bottle. Family size 60

When the Prince of Wales was attacked with that illness which envoked world-wide sympathy for him, the services of Sir William Jenner were, for some reason, not available, and Dr. Gull, then on the rising wave of his great eminence, was sent for. The Duke of Edinburgh, on arriving in hot haste to see his stricken brother, was somewhat concerned to find a medical man in attendance who was a stranger to him. He proceeded to put to Guli a host of questions with regard to the illustrious patient, his condition, treatment and prospect of recovery. Dr. Gull, in that somewhat heavy, ponderous manner which those who knew him well will remember, walked over to the writing table, drew a sheet of paper towards him and proceeded to inscribe in his remark able caligraphy-which was, like his manner, somewhat ponderous-certain words. He then handed the paper solemly to the sailor prince' who read the familiar warning: "You are requested not to speak to the man at the

The New Lippincott For November 1900.

The "New Lippincott" Magazine for November opens, as usual, with a Complete Novel. The one presented this month maintains the always high standard. It possesses the charm of uncommon scene and quaint characterization. It is entitled "Madame Noel," and the author is George H. Picard, who is especially liked for his books "A Mission Flower" and "A Matter of Taste."

The short fiction of the November "New Lippincott" is plentiful and varied in theme. "The Beat that Failed" is by Albert Payson Terhune, who, by the way, is a son of "Marion Harland." It is a newspaper story beginning just at the hour of going to press; and the incident related is most exciting and realistic. Stewart Edward White contributes a tale called "The Race," which in his own words is "blood and thundery, but true." But it has a tender side to it. Clinton Scollard shows he is an adept in prose as well as verse by a clever sketch called "The Passing of a Poet," a study in cavalier times.
