Nerve Food

If you have neuralgia, Scott's Emulsion of Cod Liver Oil will feed the nerve that is crying for food—it is hungry—and set your whole body going again, in a way to satisfy nerve and brain from your usual food.

That is cure.
If you are nervous and irritable, you may only need more fat to cushion your nerves—you are probably thin—and Scott's Emulsion of Cod Liver Oil will give you the fat, to begin with.
Cure, so far as it goes. Full cure is getting the fat, you need from usual food, and Scott's Emulsion will help you to that.
If you have not tried it, send for free sample, its agreeable taste will surprise you.

She Wouldn't Pay.
"I shall have to ask you for a ticket for that boy, ma'am."
"I guess not."
"He's too old to travel free. He occupies a whole seat, and the car's crowded. There are people standing up."
"That's all right."
"I haven't any time to argue the matter, ma'am. You'll have to pay for that boy."
"I never paid for him yet, and I'm not going to begin it now."
"You've got to begin doing it sometime. If you haven't had to put up any fare for him you're mighty lucky, or else you don't do much traveling."
"That's all right."

THE WAR IN SOUTH AFRICA.

Cape Town, Sept. 9.—Sir Redvers Buller continues his advance. He crossed the Mauchberg, ten miles east of Lydenburg, and came into action with the Boers.

The occupation of Lydenburg, which took place last Thursday, is regarded as making one of the last stages of the war. The Boers now talk of trekking in German territory.

Lord Methuen is marching on Lichtenburg from Mafeking.

It is said that papers seized at Pretoria show that the Netherlands Railway Company in many ways actively assisted the Boers. It converted its workshops into arsenals and provided the Transvaal forces with horseshoes.

Pretoria, Thursday, Sept. 6.—A small garrison of Canadian Mounted troops at Pan Station, East of Middleburg, beat off a body of Boers who attacked the place with three guns on Sept. 5. The repulse of the Boers is considered very creditable to the garrison at the station.

LONDON Sept 10.—The war office has received a report from Lord Roberts saying Gen Buller Sept 8 attacked and captured the Boer position at Spitskooop. He adds that the Boers retreated over a narrow causeway, losing heavily. The British had 13 men killed and 25 wounded.

Off For Camp Sussex.

The Brighton Engineers left on the five o'clock train on Monday evening for Camp Sussex. The officers of the company are as follows:—

- CAPT. THATCHER.
- MAJOR TOMPKINS.
- LT. APPLEBY.
- SERGT. MAJOR MELVILLE.
- Q. M. SERGT. TOMPKINS.
- COL. SERGT. CAMPBELL.

Woodstock contributed thirteen men to the strength of the company, as follows:—

- FRED McLEAN.
- HAL DRYSDALE.
- FRED MUNRO.
- ALF. FLEWELLING.
- A. CAMPBELL.
- B. HULL.
- B. CORBETT.
- ROY SNOW.
- WM. HAMILTON.
- ARTHUR DICKINSON.
- ED. BOUTREAU, sr.
- ED. BOUTREAU, jr.

The company will go into camp this year with only about half its regulation strength.

The 10th Field Battery entrained on Tuesday morning at the lower station. The men and horses looked slick and trim. Major Dibblee was in command with the following officers:—Capt. Carvell, Lieuts. Fields and Grey, Sergt. Major Toms, Sergeants Drysdale, R. N. Jones, H. W. Kimball, Thos. McCafferty, Chas. Britton and Frank Wallace. The strength of the Battery is 102 officers and men, 50 horses and six guns.

How Military Secrets are Discovered.

It may seem strange to the average Briton (says a writer in 'The Regiment') that there are in this country at the present moment some hundreds of spies belonging to foreign countries all in receipt of large salaries, in return for which they find out as many of our military secrets as possible, and promptly inform their governments of what they discover. Now, it takes a tolerably sharp man to be able to penetrate any of the secrets that the War Office holds, but it has been done before now. The foreign spy finds two great difficulties besetting him. He has not only to find out such secret information, but to do so in a manner that will not cause him to be suspected.

It is extremely difficult for a foreigner to obtain a berth of any importance in an office where he would be brought face to face with military secrets. The police are fully aware that a small party of spies is watching Woolwich Arsenal today, ready to pick up any crumbs, as it were, that fall from the rich man's table. The War Office is watched by as many more of all nationalities, who work alone, but with the one object of finding out what we would hide. They succeed sometimes, it is true, but it is said to the credit of the authorities that such occasions are very rare indeed.

Foreign governments are spied upon to precisely the same extent, and an instance of a spy's method of working may be cited. A few years ago an Italian invented a piece of mechanism which, when fitted inside a magazine rifle, accelerated the firing and lessened the recoil. He parted with it to his government soon afterwards, and received in exchange a handsome cheque. The Italian government, of course, sought to utilize the invention without foreign powers being any the wiser. Preparations were made for manufacturing the patent in large quantities, and drawings were made to be handed over to several firms. A talented French spy in some inexplicable manner got wind of the affair, entered the employ of the Italian government as a draughtsman, and made copies of the drawings, which he sent to Paris. For a long time the Italians were none the wiser, but when they found the French were using the same invention in the magazine rifle the secret leaked out, but, of course, the spy had made himself scarce.
