He Gave It Up
"Do you make keys here?" asked the woman as she entered a locksmith's shop.
"Yes'm."
"Well, I want one."
"What sort of a key, ma'am?"
"One for the front door."
"Have you a duplicate?"
"No."
"Bring the lock?"
"No."
"What sort of a key is it?"
"I—I don't remember."
"But how am I to guess? There are about 40,000 different kinds of keys."
"H'm I didn't know that."
"It is a night key?"
"Yes, yes. That's it. It's a night key."
"But that's also very indefinite."
"Well, my husband sometimes comes home at midnight and unlocks the door with his pocket knife or button hook or anything else that comes handy, and you ought to know about what sort of a key would fit such a lock."
He studied it over a while but finally had to admit that he was up a tree.—Detroit Free Press

A Good Cure.
THE GRODER DYSPEPSIA CO.'S L'T'D.
ST. JOHN, N. B.
GENTLEMEN,—For over one year I suffered with the four doctors I consulted in N. H., called dyspepsia. For hours at a time every day I suffered the most excruciating pains. The cramps would double me up so that I would have to groan. I would vomit up everything I ate for days at a time. I was terribly wasted and so weak that I could scarcely raise a teaspoon to my mouth. Nothing I could get would do me any permanent good. Finally a friend persuaded me to try Groder's Botanic Dyspepsia Syrup. I took four bottles and am now able to do a good day's work. It is six weeks since I finished the last bottle. I eat anything I ever was fond of and suffer no inconvenience. I send you this voluntary testimonial, hoping that you may use it and that some one who reads it may be benefitted by the use of Groder's Botanic Dyspepsia Syrup as I have been.
Yours truly,
RICHARD JACKSON,

The Art of Flying.
"As to the inventors of flying machines," it has been said, "they must look mainly to posthumous glory as the reward of their labours; their contemporaries will know them as men who spent their fortunes and broke their necks." It may be hoped that this rather cynical statement is no longer entirely true. Yet the announcement of the sad death of Mr. Percy S. Pilcher, from an accident to his artificial wings on the 30th of September, was probably the first intimation that people at large had of his experiments. They are highly characteristic, however, of the new departure which has been taken by the man in the street seems to have been surprised to learn that flight is now actually possible, although students of aeronautics were less startled by Mr. Pilcher's partial success than grieved by his fate. As to that, one need only say here, that it affords a new illustration of the risky nature of the undertaking in which he persisted, and of the need for all possible precautions.

Otto Lilienthal, who also sealed his devotion to the conquest of the air with his life three years ago, frequently pointing out the necessity to do nothing rashly in a pursuit so hedged about with danger to the hasty. It was the irony of fate that he perished, as Mr. Pilcher seems to have done, through neglect of his own salutary advice. Lilienthal's wings gave way in a squall for lack of being kept in thorough repair. Mr. Pilcher fell a victim, it seems, to his aimable desire not to disappoint the crowds which had gathered to see him on the wing, although the day was most unsuitable for his adventure. Even with the greatest care, the search after means of human flight must be moderately dangerous, and no praise can be too high for the self-sacrificing courage of those who engage in it, like Lilienthal and Mr. Pilcher, at the price of their lives.—Fortnightly Review.

LANGUID WOMEN
Take the Help that South American Nervine Offers and be well, Strong and Happy.

Miss Lucinda Butcher, of Teeswater, Ont., had a very severe attack of malarial fever. It left her very weak, languid, and threatened with nervous prostration. South American Nervine was recommended to her and she tried it. After taking a few doses she felt great benefit. She continued taking it until six bottles were used, when, to use her own words, "I was completely restored to health. I can recommend it as a great remedy." For sale by Garden Bros.

The Ruling Passton.
The clergyman had finished and the organ was pealing forth the sonorous rapture of the Mendelssohn wedding march.
"One moment, George," said the radiant bride, and tacing the audience she raised her exquisitely bound though somewhat bulky prayer book in her daintily gloved hands and pointed it directly at the brilliant audience. There was a sharp click.
"All right, George," said the bride, "come

Surgical Operations as a Cure for Piles...

Are Painful, Expensive and Dangerous
—The Only Certain Cure is Dr. Chaso's Ointment.

Besides the acute misery produced by the itching and burning of piles, this horrible disease is the more dreaded because a surgical operation is commonly considered the only effective cure. Fortunately this is a mistaken idea, for physicians have learned to use Dr. Chaso's Ointment instead of applying the knife, not only because it is less expensive and less risky, but also because it is a more effective cure.

It frequently happens that after people have endured the torture of piles for years and submitted to operations, that they are finally cured by Dr. Chaso's Ointment, the only guaranteed cure.

Among persons operated on for piles and afterwards cured by Dr. Chaso's Ointment we would mention Rev. J. A. Baldwin, of Arkona, Ont., H. H. Sutherland, Truro, N.S., and W. D. Thornton, Calgary, N.W.T.

Dr. Chaso's Ointment truly works wonders for it positively cures the worst cases of blind, itching, bleeding and protruding piles and all itching skin diseases. 60c. a box at all dealers, or EDMANSON, BATES & Co., Toronto.

For bronchitis, croup, coughs, colds and asthma no remedy can be compared to Dr. Chaso's Syrup of Linseed and Turpentine. 12 along."

And they marched down the aisle she showed him that the supposed prayer book wasn't a prayer book at all. It was a camera.

"It's my own idea, George," she whispered.

To the Electors of Carleton County.

GENTLEMEN—
Having accepted the nomination tendered me by the Liberal-Conservative party I am a candidate for the vacancy in the representation of the County of Carleton for the Provincial Legislature. I am opposed to the general policy of the present government, believing that much of their legislation has been unwise and that their administration has lacked prudence and economy. I am in favor of the most stringent efforts to make the expenditure of the province come within the income. To continue to increase the debt of the province and to increase the annual interest charge means the imposition of new taxes upon the already overburdened tax payers of the province. I approve of the principle of fostering the farming and dairying interests. Their importance demands more consideration than has been given them in the past. I will heartily support all measures which will tend to increase the prosperity of our province and more especially the County of Carleton regardless of whether those measures are brought forward by the government or opposition. I solicit your support and pledge myself, if elected, to devote my best services to the interests of the whole people without restriction as to party.

Soliciting your support in the contest, I remain, gentlemen,
Your obedient servant,
JAMES KIDD FLEMMING.

"It's the devil for any one to tell me a secret, for it is sure to come out in print."—HAZLITT.

A correspondent in the Toronto World has an interesting story to tell of how a woman used a hat pin on a burglar. It will well bear repeating here:—An American lady, Mrs. Byrne by name, returned home on that "night of nights" to find two burglars in possession of her rooms, both briskly engaged in collecting her valuables. Mrs. Byrne was naturally a little upset at the unusual proceeding, and in the first moment of fright gave utterance to a scream, though flight was far from her mind. The screams alarmed the gentry of the cunning tools which are an "open sesame" to other people's property, and they attempted to escape. One of them, however, in his precipitate retreat—he had, by the way, a goodly collection of Mrs. Byrne's silver—tripped over a portiere and fell flat on the floor. It was at this moment that Mrs. Byrne rose to the occasion and showed her presence of mind. Seizing a chair the lady planted it upon the person of the burglar, and promptly sat upon it. The burglar naturally tried to make his escape, but the legs of the chair were short and pinned him in; moreover the lady's not too ethereal weight pressed him down, so that he could only wriggle about. In order to keep hold of the thief and to quiet his struggle, Mrs. Byrne had recourse to her hat pin, which answered admirably. At every wriggle of her victim she prodded him with a scream—in which the burglar no doubt joined—their combined efforts at last rousing the neighbors, who joined forces, to hold the wretch for the police. It is said that the man went gladly to the cells, so relieved was he to escape further application of the hat pin at the hands of the enemy. He is not the first man who would rather face a revolver or a justice dispensing magistrate rather than a woman's hat pin. More than one teasing brother has fled before its point when all else had failed to rout him. Mrs. Byrne is to be congratulated upon her effective use of the instrument. All we have to do now is to run a few hat pins through the mattress when we retire at night, and when Mr. Burglar approaches, we shall be fully armed for the attack. Who says that the hat pin must give?

The fellows who are running this election don't know what to make of it all, anyway. Hitherto, nothing has called forth enthusiasm as an election. The snap of the whip brought the party fellows right into line. But, bless my soul, last week it was nothing but contingent. A man was asked what he thought of election, and he replied he had no time to think of it he was interested in the lads for the front. Nomination Day came and many people around town had to be reminded that such an event was coming off. Great issues drowns small issues, and when the "Empire is in danger" it is a poor time to sound the party clarion. Politics is two-thirds a game of grab and the public knows it, by this time.

THE IMP.
A DRUGGIST'S FAITH.

What's Most Called For Must Be the Best Remedy.
A druggist's testimony of the popularity of a remedy is the strongest kind of a proof that it will do what it promises. Paul Livingood, druggist, of Allentown, Pa., says: "Dr. Agnew's remedies have sold away beyond my expectations. You can quote me for saying that Dr. Agnew's Catarrhal Powder is the best seller for catarrh I have in the store. Many of my customers praise it highly." It is a great remedy and has a continental reputation.—For sale by Garden Bros.

Another Victim.
"My father," said the sweet young thing, "is a goldbug. Are you?"
"No," replied the young man. "I belong to the melanoeste picipes class."
"Good gracious," she exclaimed, "what's that?"
"That," he hastened to explain, with the aid of a practical illustration, "is the scientific name of the kissing bug."—Chicago News.

GREAT LOSS OF LIFE
from Bright's Disease

A dreadfully fatal disease which is prevented and cured by Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills

Bright's disease is a further development of kidney disease, and has for its most common symptoms backache and urinary troubles. It is so insidious in its beginnings as to frequently escape detection, and with the single exception of consumption is the most fatal disease to man.

Bright's disease is a wasting away of tissues of the kidneys, and in its later stages cannot possibly be cured. So long, however, as the kidneys are not in an actual state of decay, Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills will restore the diseased parts and positively cure the disease.

Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills are an ideal remedy for all kidney ailments, act naturally and directly on the kidneys, promptly and positively cure Bright's disease, diabetes, dropsy, rheumatism, and the serious complications of kidneys, liver and bowels. One pill a dose.
