

Two severe cases that were completely cured by the Great Blood Purifier and Healer,

Suffered For over eleven years I suffered with Dyspepsia and tried everything I could think of, but was unable to get relief until I took Burdock Blood Bitters. I had only taken one bottle when I commenced to feel better, and after taking five or six bottles was entirely well, and have remained so ever since, and feel as though B. B. had saved my life.—Mrs. T. G. Joyce, Stanhope, P. Q.

Covered My little boy, aged with Sores, years, was a complete mass of sores, caused, the doctor said, by bad blood. His head and body were entirely covered with sores, and we could find no cure. Finally I got a bottle of Burdock Blood Bitters, and before one-half the bottle was gone he began to improve and by the time it was finished there was not a sore on him.

I used the B. B. as a wash as well as internally, and it seemed to give great relief as soon as it was put on.—Mrs. Philip Mitchell, St. Mary's, Ont.

A TELL-TRUTH EDITOR

He Give the Facts Concerning a Local Wedding.

A western editor, who believes in telling the truth, printed the following recently.

"Willie Shortlike and Annie Bloomers were married at the—church, last evening. The church was very prettily decorated with flowers and potted plants, borrowed promiscuously from over town from people who didn't want to lend them. The decorating was done under protest by some of the members of the church who was asked to do so by the bride, and couldn't well refuse. The ladies are of the opinion that if the couple were so bent on having a stylish wedding they should have been willing to have paid some one to chase all over the town for a day getting flowers together and then taking them home again.

"The bride wore a handsome Silverstein gown (made at home), and the groom was decked out in a $10 hand-me-down suit. The ushers wore cutaway coats, borrowed for the occasion. Sallie Potts was maid of honor, and the consensus of opinion was that she was two to one better than the bride. The young couple took the morning train for St. Louis, where they will spend more money in a few days than Willie can earn in three months.

"Willie says that now he's married he's going to settle down. Some of our merchants think it would have been better if he had settled up first. The groom gets a salary of $27 a month, which is about the allowance Annie has been used to for pin money. We wish, for Willie's sake, that the old saying that it takes no more to support two than one wasn't a lie. The bride sent us a shoe box full of a conglomeration of stuff supposed to be a cake. If this is a sample of Annie's cooking we feel sorry for Willie. Our janitor's dog fell heir to the cake, and now he's lying in the cold, cold ground. But this wedding is none of our funeral. If Willie and Annie are satisfied we've got no kick coming.—Indianapolis News.

A Good Cure.

THE GRODER DYSPEPSIA CO., LTD.
 ST. JOHN, N. B.

GENTLEMEN,—For over one year I suffered with what the four doctors I consulted in N. H., called dyspepsia. For hours at a time every day I suffered the most excruciating pains. The cramps would double me up so that I would have to groan. I would vomit up everything I ate for days at a time. I was terribly wasted and so weak that I could scarcely raise a teacup to my mouth. Nothing I could get would do me any permanent good. Finally a friend persuaded me to try Groder's Botanic Dyspepsia Syrup. I took four bottles and am now able to do a good day's work. It is six weeks since I finished the last bottle. I eat anything I ever was fond of and suffer no inconvenience. I send you this voluntary testimonial, hoping that you may use it and that some one who reads it may be benefitted by the use of Groder's Botanic Dyspepsia Syrup as I have been.

Yours truly,

Why French Succeeds.

LONDON, May 11.—An officer who has returned from the campaign, in talking over the situation, remarked that no soldier, unless he had experienced them, could imagine the conditions under which the fighting in South Africa takes place. The distances are so vast that both in manoeuvring and in action commanders used to the miniature battlefields on which officers learn their work in England are at first completely nonplussed. Men are killed at 2,000 yards by musketry fire without there being the slightest indication of the position from which they are being fired at. When artillery go into action they are even more heavily handicapped. One battery had six horses shot, two subalterns killed, and five men wounded before the direction from which this destruction was being dealt could be found, and then the momentary flash of a gun was the only object by which to judge position and distance. "French," said this officer, chatting on the subject of the officers in high commands, "has learned the real secret of success in having selected as his staff officers the best men available, and in leaving to them the detail work, and not trying to run the whole show by himself. At night, after a day's fighting, he returns to camp, puts his slippers on, sends for his staff and officers, tells them what his plans are for the next day, and goes to bed."

A Humanitarian.

Among the passengers in a well-filled parlor car coming from Cleveland to Detroit was a lumber salesman from this end of the route. He is tall, has a deep voice, piercing eyes, a strong face and the general appearance associated with a professional man. Near him sat a pale gentleman, who moaned, moved restlessly in his seat and was unmistakably sick.

"What's the matter?" abruptly asked the salesman.

"I feel very ill."

"Pshaw! You don't have to tell me that. Let me feel your pulse. I'm a doctor. Put out your tongue. Indigestion. I'll fix you in five minutes." He hurried to the water tank, poured out a big straw-colored dose and hurried back. "Swallow this."

"But it's whiskey. I never touch the stuff."

"Drink it or you won't live ten miles, fast as we're going."

Down it went, and shortly the two were laughing and talking as though neither had ever felt a pain.

"Did I understand that you were a doctor?" timidly from a young matron who carried a kicking, howling olive branch in her arms.

"Yes, ma'am." And he never flinched. "Baby not well? Whew! What a temper!" as his keen eyes informed him that the youngster was a miniature Hercules. "He's sound as a dollar, madam. Must be a pin. If it's not, spank him."

She came back to report that his first diagnosis was the correct one and wanted to pay. So did the man, but the "doctor" waved them aside and acted indignantly. "When I'm away from home I only practise for the good of humanity. Need a second dose, my man?"—Detroit Free Press.

A Cheap Medicine Chest.

Mrs. D. Williams, Gooderham P. O., Ont., writes: "I have used Haygard's Yellow Oil for Burns, Scalds, Sprains, Bruises, Sore Throat and for Pains in the Stomach and Bowels, and it has always given relief. My mother says it is a regular medicine chest in itself."

Justifiable Failure to Punish.

As a sign of their disapproval of the conduct of those who attempted to hold meetings at which to denounce the British for declining to submit to the Eoers, the good people of Scarborough, situated on the east coast of England, indulged in much window-breaking and bad language. The ringleaders in this disturbance of the peace have since been tried and dismissed with a warning from the judge not to do it again, which impels the "Financial News" (London), to say:

"While rioting is always to be deprecated, and must needs be put down with firmness, we are nevertheless glad that the participants in the Scarborough disturbances have not been fined or imprisoned. There is such a thing as patriotism, and such a thing as human nature, and when enemies of the Queen vaunt their enmity in the Queen's country during war time, one must not be too severe upon outraged loyal subjects who show their disapproval forcibly. In the circumstances, we cannot see that the others have any right to claim the protection of the State which they are insulting."

We are also glad that the Scarborough subjects of Her Majesty are not to be punished for their strongly pronounced objections to hearing any Whipster Davis, or wandering Dutchman, express contempt for the cause our countrymen have fought and died for.—Insurance and Finance Chronicle, Montreal.

Do you Fear Heart Failure?

No death comes so suddenly and unexpectedly as that caused by heart failure, but the trouble has its beginning; months or perhaps years before when the blood became thin and watery and the nerves exhausted. Gradually the waste has become more rapid than the process of repair, the tissues of the heart have become diseased and finally some over exertion or nervous shock has caused the beating to cease and life to depart. Dr. Chase's Nerve Food prevents heart failure and all similar diseases by creating new, rich blood and nerve forces, and building up the system.

When Sir John Steel, the noted English sculptor, had the Duke of Wellington sitting to a statue he wanted to get him to look warlike. All his efforts were in vain, however, for Wellington seemed, judging by his face, never to have heard of Waterloo or Talavera. At last Sir John lost patience somewhat and this scene followed:

"As I am going to make this statue of your Grace, can you not tell me what you were doing before, say, the battle of Salamanca? Were you not galloping about the fields cheering on your men to deeds of valor by words and action?"

"Bah!" said the Duke, in evident scorn, "if you really want to model me as I was on the morning of Salamanca, then do me crawling along a ditch on my stomach, with a telescope in my hand."

CRAMPS AND COLIC.

Nothing gives such quick and effectual relief from these distressing complaints as Dr. Fowler's Extract of Wild Strawberry.

A duck which has laid several dozen eggs during the season, complained that while her working record was then better than the hen's, the latter had books and poems written in her honor, while no one had a word of praise for the duck. A wise old rooster standing by said: You lay an egg and then waddle off without saying a word, while that sister of mine never lays one without letting everyone in the neighborhood know about it. If you want to cut any ice around here, you must advertise."—Rural New Yorker.

Gives His Honest Opinion of Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills.

Mr. J. D. Robinson, a resident of Dundas, Ont., has found these pills to do all that is claimed for them and made the following statement of his case:

"Some time ago I obtained a box of Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills, and I can now without hesitation say that they have been beneficial in relieving me of an obstinate and long standing complaint affecting my heart and nerves.

"I was troubled with sleeplessness, dizziness, palpitation and neuralgia for such a long time that I had really given up hope of a cure. Now, that others may learn of the virtues of this remedy, I give my unsolicited testimony.

"My honest opinion is that there is no cure so good for heart and nerve troubles as Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills."
 Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills are 50c. a box or 3 for $1.25, at all druggists.

Strange Tales of Two Chums.

A remarkable story of two soldiers inspired at Bradford recently, says the Sheffield Daily Telegraph. James Balk and James Blakey, chums, who married companions, enlisted in the West Yorkshire Regiment together. They lived neighbors as "reserves," and volunteered at the same time for the front. Both fought at Paardeberg. Balk was reported killed, the supposed widow receiving a considerable amount of insurance and patriotic grants. Now letters show that Balk, though officially dead, is alive, and Mrs. Blakey is the real widow. Balk changed tunics with his dead comrade on the battlefield.
