Sir Redvers Buller.

Sir Redvers Buller, like so many of Britain's great warriors, is a Devonian by birth. His family, however, was originally a Cornish one. In the 'Story of His Life and Campaigns,' Mr. Walter Jerrold tells how cleverly Sir Redvers exploited his Cornish descent when at a fix at the mouth of the St. Lawrence on his way to Canada. The vessel was delayed by fogs, and as provisions ran short, Buller went ashore to an islet where stores were kept for shipwrecked sailors. The woman in charge refused to give him supplies: 'No,' she said firmly, 'the supplies be for they who'm shipwrecked, not for such as you.'

'But this is a government depot, and we are servants of the Crown,' insisted Buller.

'Can't help it, you'm not shipwrecked,' came the reply.

The young officer caught the slightest suggestive intonation in the woman's last remark and so at once said, speaking with Cornish accent:

'What! not for dear O'd One and All, and I a Buller?'

'What! be yew from Cornwall, en' a Buller? Take every there is in the place; you'm hearty welcome.'

A Good Cure.

THE GRODER DYSPEPSIA CO.'S L.T.D.

ST. JOHN, N. B.

GENTLEMEN,—For over one year I suffered with what the four doctors I consulted in N. H., called dyspepsia. For hours at a time every day I suffered the most excruciating pains. The cramps would double me up so that I would have to groan. I would vomit up everything I ate for days at a time. I was terribly wasted and so weak that I could scarcely raise a teacup to my mouth. Nothing I could get would do me any permanent good. Finally a friend persuaded me to try Groder's Botanic Dyspepsia Syrup. I took four bottles and am now able to do a good day's work. It is six weeks since I finished the last bottle. I eat anything I ever was fond of and suffer no inconvenience. I send you this voluntary testimonial, hoping that you may use it and that some one who reads it may be benefited by the use of Groder's Botanic Dyspepsia Syrup as I have been.

Yours truly,

A Warning To Money-Makers.

I am no pessimist and I do not pretend to be a prophet. But an experience of a quarter of a century in this field of observation and investigation has made it clear that waves of prosperity and adversity recur with remarkable regularity. We have had a year, and a half or perhaps two years, of advancing prices. It is always the record that this advance culminates somewhat abruptly, and that the decline is far more rapid than the advance. Such an experience we have had in the past in the business world, and we are to have it again, and therefore weeks ago I advised my readers in every line of trade to make their purchases on a conservative basis, not to overload their shelves with goods of any description, and not to store away in their safe-deposit boxes too many stocks at prevailing high prices. That warning I repeat at this time, and those who bear it in mind will assuredly profit by it before the year is out.—Jasper, in 'Leslie's Weekly.'

A Day With the Queen.

Queen Victoria is an early riser and sits up late. When she first awakes in the morning a cup of cocoa is brought to her by her dressing maid. After rising she has an ordinary English breakfast at 9 o'clock, and at 11 or a little later she takes a "second breakfast," after the German fashion, consisting of a cup of bouillon or an egg beaten up in a glass of wine. Her best meal is her luncheon, which she takes at 2. Tea then follows at 4.30, and dinner ends the day's repasts at 8.45. Not a single day passes but Her Majesty partakes of the good roast beef of old England in some form or other. It is said to be due to her regular habits and her temperate appetite that she has kept her mind in perfect balance. She has never been known to make foolish or useless remarks, but is always known to make wise ones. As to drink, the Queen has never been narrow-minded or bigoted, but a Highlander tells a story of how she once reproved him by signs. The Celt was taking part in a long, tedious and very dry march, and was closely following the Queen's carriage, but when they got to a bend in the road the Highlander could stand it no longer and raised to his lips a flask of good old Scotch whiskey. The Queen, who had very sharp eyes, saw the act and shook her finger at the man by way of reproof. The next year the same attendant marched behind the Queen, who, remembering his face, raised her hand as if tossing off a glass of whiskey, then shook her head and smiled.

A severe cold settled on my throat and lungs so that I could hardly speak. After other remedies failed I tried Dr. Wood's Norway Pine Syrup and one bottle of it completely cured me.

Baron Almater

32913,

THE fashionably bred Wilkes-Mambriano Patchen Stallion, Standard Bred, Rule 1, American Trotting Register No. 15, with the Double Wilkes cross, three crosses of Mambriano Patchen and double cross of the great brood mare Alma Mater, with 8 in the 2.30 list—5 producing sons and 3 producing daughters, being sired by Baron Alexander 2833, who was defeated by the late one-year-old brother to Alfonso, with 11 in the 2.30 list at 9 years of age, son of Baron Wilkes 2.18, and Alma Mater; dam, RACHEL, dam of Blackbird 2.24, at 5 yrs., and a full sister to Raven 2.19 and Edna Cook 2.12, by Alcantara 2.23, son of George Wilkes and Alma Mater; granddam, Rachel B. 2.28, by Allie West 2.25—was the champion 5 year old stallion of his time and considered the best son of Almont. BARON ALMATER is a young horse, his oldest colts were only 3 years old last season, and in October last one of his colts trialed a mile in 2.18 and sold for $1500.00, and another trialed a mile in 2.22 and sold for $750.00, and a pair of his colts took first prize at Long Island horse show last fall and sold for $1300.00, for a gentleman's double hitch.—BARON ALMATER has got no record, for the reason he never started in a race or started for record, but has gone a mile in his work in 2.23 as a 4 year old. But he is going to be limited to 40 mares this season and started in the fall for a record. BARON ALMATER has got the double cross of the blood that produced the two champion pacers of 1899, Searchlight 2.03, and Lady of the Manor 2.04, have the Alcayone-Alcantara cross, which Baron Almater gets direct from his dam, so has Coney 2.07, the fastest and most successful of the green pacers out last season, having won 5 races. A combination of blood which in one sea-on has two champions and carries three green pacers and a green trotter below the 2.10 list is worth anything, and you can get this winning combination from Baron Almater.

BARON ALMATER is a horse of rich breeding, for he has the golden double cross of Wilkes from two of the best sons of that great progenitor of extreme speed. Baron Wilkes is admittedly the most popular stallion of the day, and well he may be—for look at the race horses he sires, and the speed that is coming from his sons and daughters. Popular as Baron Wilkes is—Alcantara being an older horse, has a much larger list of winners, and more speed producing sons and daughters. These stallions tie for honors, as the champion sires of 2.12 performers, both having the same number; but Alcantara leads all stallions as the sire of 2.15 race horses. Baron Wilkes is the paternal sire of Alcantara, the maternal grandsire of Baron Almater; and Baron Almater's sire is from the dam of Alcantara. There can be no stronger combination of blood lines than these.

It is well known that the great "nick" for the Mambriano Patchen mares was George Wilkes. These mares have more speed producing stallions sired by other stallions than by Wilkes. But the sons of George Wilkes from Mambriano Patchen mares have sired more 2.15 speed than the others have in 2.30. The Wilkes-Mambriano Patchen union is more fruitful of 2.10 speed than all other lines of blood combined. George Wilkes has 176 descendants in 2.10 and Mambriano Patchen 145. Baron Almater has the three best lines from Mambriano Patchen, including a double cross of Alma Mater, his most successful daughter, and one of the most famous of speed perpetrators.

This magnificent inheritance is further strengthened by the blood of Allie West, through his performing and great speed producing daughter, Rachel B. 2.28, the granddam of Baron Almater, Allie West 2.25 was the champion 5 years old stallion of his time and considered the best son of Almont. But in his sixth year. The few foals he left were highly prized, and their speed producing descendants are valued more and more—especially by Kentucky breeders. Baron Almater has the best line from Allie West 2.25.

Back of this Baron Almater has a cross to William's Mambriano, who sired the dam of that sterling race horse, and sire of game trotters, Santa Claus 2.17; Ericsson, sire of William's Mambriano, was the champion 4 year old trotter of 1860 and sired the dam of Moquette 2.10 champion 4 years trotter of 1882.

Alcantara it will be remembered was the fastest 4 year old of 1880; and George Wilkes the champion trotting stallion from 1868 to 1871.

BARON ALMATER'S inheritance is rich as the richest and strong as the strongest both in performing and producing blood. For further details call and get fabulous pedigree and the speed table in circular.

This horse is Wilkes on both sides.

This fashionably bred Stallion will make the season of 1900 at owner's Livery Stable Woodstock, N. B. Service Fee, $20.00.

"It's the devil for any one to tell me a secret, for it is sure to come out in print."—HAZLITT.

At an examination in the police court of this town, recently, a youth of sixteen was one of the witnesses. He could not sign his own name. Is not this something of a reflection on our public school system? Should not some pressure have been brought to bear on the parents of that youth to make him go to school at least long enough to learn to read and write. He did not live in the back woods. He lived in a well-known settlement in this famous county of Carleton. His parents or relatives have no doubt paid their share of school taxes, and he has had no more benefit from it, than he would have had a hundred years ago. Nay, he is in a worse position. A hundred years ago, there were many who could neither read nor write. Now he is an exception, and in the name of goodness, what chance has the boy in the fight of life. Is it a wonder that his first public appearance should be in the police court in connection with a criminal case. Our county is studded with churches and schools. Has it many such examples to show us as this stripling of 16?

It seems to me that the young mind as well as the young body, should be guarded against ill. Dime novels and the like are bad for the young. A youth killed his father in Toronto last week, probably unintentionally, although he deliberately pointed a pistol at him. In the examination, he said he had been reading sensational stories, in which, no doubt, revolvers, Indians, oaths and blood were predominant. Surely, such works are dangerous, and there is no need for a boy to be driven to read them. There are many good writers whose works will interest the boy, and at the same time do him good. While on this train I wish to say something of the effect of the theatre or play on the young. I have attended a good many of these things, good, bad and indifferent, but in all cases, the moral of the play has been good. The scoundrel is almost always punished and the hero and heroine rewarded. The danger, then to young people, if there be any, is not a moral, so much as an intellectual danger. The melo-drama is exciting. The tension to the nerves, even of the older people is quite severe, and to little people must be trying in the extreme. They become violently excited, and it is an excitement that is bad for them. When the play is a comedy it is good for young and old. Bless the man who makes us all laugh, but as for the melodrama do not inflict it on the young, and if possible, spare the old.

The Duke's Answer.

Concerning the Duke of Norfolk, who has resigned his post as Postmaster-General to go to the front in South Africa, an amusing story is told. When a very small boy he went on a visit with his mother, who was then the Countess of Arundel and Surrey. Asked who he was, he replied: "I am not 'your grace,' and I am not 'my Lord,' and I am not 'a fool,' but I'm a boy."

A Royal Swordsman.

The young King of Spain is an expert in the use of the sword, which has always been his favorite pastime. When quite little wooden swords were made for him, with which he would fence with his playmates, young noblemen of the proudest blood of Spain. He is now one of the most expert swordsmen of Europe.

"I shall never speak to him again," she declared.

"Why not?" her chum asked.

"When we were at that concert the other night I told him if he didn't take me out of the crowd I would faint and he would have to carry me away!"

"Yes?"

"Well, you'd have thought his life depended on getting me out of there in a hurry!"

FOUL BREATH
...FROM CATARRH

Tells of the Decay of the Mucous Lining of the Nose and Throat...

No symptom of catarrh causes more annoyance than foul breath. This offensive odor comes from the ulceration of the membranes and is an indication of the decay which is taking place in the linings of the nose and throat. To the victim of catarrh as well as to his associates this foulness of the breath is disgusting.

To counteract bad breath and to eradicate catarrh from the system no treatment is more successful than Dr. Chase's Catarrh Cure, the only remedy that can be relied upon to entirely cure chronic catarrh.

Dr. Chase's Catarrh Cure is sent direct to the diseased parts by the improved blower which accompanies each box, heals the ulcers, clears the air passages, relieves the pressure which causes headache, stops the decay which causes foul breath, and absolutely cures catarrh and prevents consumption. 25c. a box, blower free, at all dealers, or Edmanson, Bates & Co., Toronto.
