Dear Sirs,—Some time ago my daughter, aged 19 years, was troubled with bad headaches and loss of appetite.

She was tired and listless most of the time, and was losing flesh.

Her system got badly run down, so hearing your Heart and Nerve Pills highly spoken of I procured a box, and by the time she had used them she had gained 9½ lbs. in weight and is now in perfect health.

Yours truly,
MRS. P. H. CURTIS.

MODERN FABLES ON

RESTING IN THE COUNTRY.

BY GEORGE ADE.

Once there was a Man who had an Aunt Hester. She was a fine manager around the House and a Good Soul. She did Things for other People, whether they wanted them done or not. Aunt Hester lived in a Town known as Pinksburg, because Julius Pink built the first frame House there. You have to hunt on the Map for quite a while before you find Pinksburg. So do most of the Trans.

Aunt Hester wrote to Nevvy, who was named Albert, and said while he was on his Vacation he ought to run down and spend a Week in Pinksburg. She said the crops were looking quite Peart since the Rain and the Roads were good and if he arrived in time they might drive over to the Bartholomew county Fair at Higginsville.

Albert took kindly to the suggestion. He was ready for an Absolute Change. He wanted to get out where there was nothing happening and put his feet upon something and sit there all Day steeped in a vegetating Silence. Pinksburg seemed to fill the Bill. As he remembered it, the Town had more Silence to the Square Inch than anything outside of a Quaker Meeting.

He was tired of the hot, blinding Asphalt and endless rumbling of Cabs, the sullen roar of Elevated Trains, the clarion Whoop of the Newsboy selling the fake Extra, the garish Display on the Bill-boards and the endless Parade of Sappy Individuals in Noisy Skirts and $1.95 Panamas.

He knew that Pinksburg would be the other Extreme. During the Dog Days the Main Street of Pinksburg is a Study in Still Life. The deathly Stillness is undisturbed save by the creak of the Wind Pump back of Peter's Livery and Feed Stable or the occasional Gasp of the Sody Fountain in McIlwaine's One-Price Drug Store. Old Mr. Peavey, the Furniture Man, sits under an awning in front of his Place of Business, which is distinguished by Yellow Plush and a Hot smell of Varnish. Mr. Peavey has allowed his Galluses to ease down over his Arms. He is reading an Editorial in the Paper that he has been taking ever since the Days of Horace Greeley. It say in the Editorial that the American People are travelling at too rapid a Gait and under too much Nervous Tension. It advises them to take more Rest. Mr. Peavey agrees with the Editorial. He has been Resting since 1870.

Now and then a stoop shouldered Person is seen to move slowly through the Heat Waves. He is on his way to the Post office to get a Circular from a House that sells a Silver-Plated Revolver for $1.80.

In wanting to get out of the Hurly-Burly, Albert seemed to display tall Judgement in selecting Pinksburg. He knew that out there he could hear the Birds sing and there would be no Trolleys whizzing past. He figured that he would get a Hammock and rig it up into a secluded corner of the Front Yard and lie there looking up through the lace-work of Foliage and reading a funny Weekly until it put him to Sleep.

Aunt Hester told other Plans. As soon as she learned that Al was coming she notified all her Blood Relations to begin to Hump themselves to give him a Good Time. So they began laying out Work for him. They seemed that he had come to Pinksburg looking for Excitement.

When he arrived they put him in a Spare Bed Room. It was the first time the Shutters had ever been opened since Uncle Burton died. There was some Wax Flowers on the Wall, also a picture of Charles Wesley. The Bed had a Feather Tick and a Silk Quilt with over 2,000 Pieces and tall, rigid Shams that Albert had to lift off and stand in the Corner. It seemed an Outrage to Muss Up such a Work of Art.

From the Moment Al got brushed up, his Kin were just as Busy as could be, trying to Entertain him. The first thing they did to show that he was welcome was to make him Fat.

Being a Pale Person of Bilious Temperament and Sedentary Habits, he was accustomed to a Morning Repast of a few Berries, an Egg and a small cup of Coffee, mostly Milk. At 1 o'clock he would have his Luncheon, consisting of a Lettuce Sandwich and a Tumbler of Iced tea. Then in the Evening he would Dine heartily on Consomme and a Sweetbread.

When he sprang the Canary Bird Appetite on his husky Cousins they gave him the Hoopere and told him to eat something that would stick to his Ribs. They were good Feeders themselves and they told Al that if he didn't keep up with them, they would feel Insulted. So for Breakfast he had Steak, Ham and Eggs, Whortleberry Pie, Fried Potatoes, and Waffles. At Noon he would be urged to go against the yellow-legged Chicken, the Roasting Ears, Wax Beans, Preserves and four kinds of Cake. Along in the middle of the Afternoon, Cousin Dave would cut a Melon so that Al could stay his Stomach until Supper-Time. In the Evening they would have a little Pick-Up of Hot Biscuit, Liver and Bacon and Short-Cake.

In 48 hours he was Foundered, but he had to keep on Eating. He knew that the Family had a Contempt for any one who Pecked at the Vittles and Nibbled a little.

The stuffing was only one Item in the Programme. They took him Horseback Riding and he came back feeling as if he had been sitting on an Oil-Stove. Cousin Dave chased him around through the Country to look at the Stand of Corn and other Crops. Al didn't know the difference between Buckwheat and Red Clover. They climbed Barb-Wire Fences and tramped under the boiling Sun to look at the Yearlings and. Colts. Out of Politeness, Al simulated a keen interest, but when he stopped in front of a broad, buxom Heifer and looked at it critically, it was all Bluff. He didn't know whether the Animal was an Early Rose or a Rambo.

He was taken around and introduced to everybody in Town and everybody wanted to know if Things was lively in the City and he said they was and then the Conversation would lag.

After two days he began to peel from Sun-Burn and he had a Heavy Feeling right under the Pocket of his Neglige Shirt.

The Climax of Aunt Hester's week of Entertainment came with a Party. When a Man escapes from the Turmoil of the Metropolis and wants absolute Repose nothing helps so much as a Party given especially in his Honor, not.

Aunt Hester wants to prove to him that they had plenty of Local Talent in Pinksburg. So she packed the Parlor and Felicia Fulgraves, who had taken lessons in St. Louis, fought the Piano to a Finish. The Piece she played was called "The Battle of Prague," and those who never before realized the Horrors of War had it brought right home to them when they heard Felish try to break the Instrument.

After that the Prescription Clerk in McIlwaine's One-Price Drug Store gave something by James Whitcomb Riley. Everybody in Pinksburg said he was as good as Riley. After he got through Albert applauded sufficiently to show that he was Appreciative, but not enough to induce him to give another selection.

Then there was the Girl who would be on the Stage, only her People were opposed to it. She had played "Leah the Forsaken" for the Benefit of the Republican Fife and Drum Corps. The only way to keep her from Reciting was to Chloroform her. She let down her Back Hair and did a Mad Scene.

Albert felt himself going off his Dip when the Male Quartette sang "Larboard Watch." After these Revels came Ice Cream and Cake.

Next day when he pulled out they told him to let them know a little sooner the next time he came and they would be better fixed to give him a Lively Time. And he went back to the Roaring City to take Dyspepsia Tablets and Rest Up.

MORAL.—Look out for the Relatives who are Fond of you.

To Have Beautiful Skin.

Every one who would have a clear, soft, velvety skin free from pimples, blackheads, redness and disgusting eruptions must use Dr. Chase's Ointment. It is a true food for the skin, does not clog the pores as do powders, and insures permanent benefit. There is not a single itching, burning skin disease of men, women and children that Dr. Chase's Ointment will not cure. Mothers find it invaluable for Baby Eczema, scald head and chafing on the little ones.

Grandad's Query.

A commercial traveller who does a great deal of driving about the country delights in telling about an old-time Boniface who runs a country hotel within a day's drive of Derby. "Sharp as a tack," declares the bagman. "Always as smooth as oil until someone wants to make a run upon him, and then he can get his own back harder, faster, and in fewer words than I ever heard any other man do. I saw a man come in one day from Derby. He is all right at home, but was feeling 'chippy' that day, and opened up on the old landlord by saying: 'Hello, grandad! Get your frame in circulation! Don't sit round here like a bump on a log! I want accommodation for man and beast.'"

"Where's the man?" asked the landlord, in a flash.

With Pipe and Book.

With pipe and book at close of day,
Oh, what is sweeter, mortal, say?
It matters not what book on knee,
Old Isaac or the Odyssey,
It matters not meerschaum or clay,
And though one's eyes will dream astray,
And lips forget to sue or sway,
It is enough to merely be
With pipe and book.
What though our modern skies be grey,
As bards aver I will not pray
For "soothing death" to succor me,
But ask this much, Oh Fate, of thee—
A little longer here to stay
With pipe and book.

—RICHARD LE GALLIENNE.

Slow but Inexorable Justice.

In October last Pietro Giacconi and Marie Bonelli were tried at Rome on a charge of sextuple murder by poisoning committed thirty one years ago. In our own country Eugene Aram were hanged for the murder of Clarke fourteen years after the offence. A man named Horne was executed for the murder of his child in the eighteenth century no less than thirty five years after the offence. There is also the well-known case of Gov. Wall, who was executed in 1802 for a murdered committed in 1782. Sherward was hanged at Norwich for the murder of his wife after a lapse of twenty years. But Sir Fitzjames Stephen recalls what is the most remarkable case of all. He prosecuted as counsel for the Crown, in 1863, a man who was charged with stealing a leaf from a parish register sixty years before—that is, in 1803. In this case the prisoner was acquitted.—[Tit-Bits.

Your Nerves are Weak.

You sleep badly, appetite variable. You eat but gain no strength. Morning tiredness makes you wish it were night. When night comes refreshing sleep is hard to obtain. You're run down, your blood is thin and watery, your nerves have grown weak, the thought of effort wearies you. You need Ferrozone: it makes blood—red, strong blood. An appetite? You'll eat everything and digest it too. Strength? That's what plenty of food gives. Ferrozone gives hope, vigor, vim endurance. Use Ferrozone and get strong. Sold by Garden Bros.

Why She is Popular.

Looking at people and speaking pleasantly, although she may feel disturbed.

Taking no notice of accidents which happen to others, unless she can give aid.

Never refusing a gift when it evidently comes from the heart and is bestowed with pleasure.

Making no unnecessary allusion to any subject which is known to be disagreeable to another.

Dressing suitably, with consideration for the feelings and the wardrobes of those about you.

Writing letters to those who have benefited her in any way, or to whom she may give help or cheer.

Showing herself happy when she is enjoying herself, remembering it is a pleasure to others to make her happy.—Great Thoughts.

Exotic Comfort.

The following story is told by a traveller about one of the local railways in Ireland:

We were bounding along, he said, at the rate of about seven miles an hour, and the whole train was shaking terribly. I expected every moment to see my bones protruding through my skin. Passengers were rolling from one end of the carriage to the other. I held on firmly to the arms of the seat. Presently we settled down a bit quieter—at least, I could keep my hat on and my teeth didn't chatter.

There was a quiet-looking man opposite me. I looked up with a ghastly smile, wishing to appear cheerful, and said:

"We are going a little smoother, I see."

"Yes," he said, "we're off the line now."

—London Spare Moments.

A little girl sat upon the floor crying. After a while she stopped and seemed buried in thought. Looking up suddenly she said:

"Mother, what was I crying about?"

"Because I would not let you go out and see the shop windows."
