

Professional Men.

It's the constant strain and worry under which the professional man labors, the irregularity of habits and loss of rest that makes him peculiarly susceptible to kidney troubles. First it's backache, then urinary difficulties, then—unless it's attended to—Bright's Disease and—death.

DOAN'S KIDNEY PILLS

Strengthen and invigorate the kidneys—never fail to give quick relief and cure the most obstinate cases.

Rev. M. P. Campbell, pastor of the Baptist Church, Essex, Ont., says: "From my personal use of Doan's Kidney Pills, which I got at Sharon's drug store, I can say they are a most excellent remedy for kidney troubles, and I recommend them to sufferers from such complaints."

Colonial Flunkeyism and Mock Militarism in Australia.

Of course, there are some people, men and women alike, who consider themselves better than others, because they are in more affluent circumstances than their neighbors, and it not infrequently happens that persons of this description are amongst the most vulgar in the community. Like beggars mounted, they ride their horses to death, and render themselves contemptible in many ways. As a rule, they had very humble beginnings, but opulence turns their heads, and, like all upstarts, they are invariably found "putting on side," as the colonial saying goes, and making themselves generally ridiculous. This self-assertiveness on the part of some colonials who have acquired wealth renders them very objectionable, and the most intolerable specimen of colonial you can possibly meet with is the woman who has graduated from the wash tub or the kitchen to a big mansion in a fashionable suburb, and lolls about in her well-cushioned landau, and has a liveried footman to open the carriage door when she drives out to do some shopping or to call at Government House, as the case may be. Women of this description are by no means few all over the colonies, and they only earn for themselves the contempt of others who are familiar with their antecedents. There is no form of aristocracy so objectionable as the aristocracy of wealth, and the nouveaux riches of the colonies are the most contemptible creatures one can possibly encounter at the Antipodes. Sometimes the fluctuations of fortune inseparable from colonial life put a sudden stop to their arrogance and pride and assumption of superiority, without education or refinement to sustain them, in the roles of purse-proud parvenus. It has been generally found that those who have made a sudden transition from poverty to wealth become intensely conservative in their ideas. They will worship anyone with a title, and all the political influence which wealth gives them, to secure titles for themselves. The author has frequently heard Australian democracy jibed at, because titles were apparently so highly appreciated out there; but the fact of the matter is that the mass of the Australian people do not care a snap of the fingers for titles, and have a very poor opinion of those who accept them. Therefore, it is not right to blame Australian democracy, or to declare that it belies its profession, because a few would dearly like to have titles conferred upon them, and are constantly laying themselves out for the supposed "distinction." Its indiscriminate bestowal has brought the institution more into contempt than otherwise, and little wonder it is that "be-knighted Australia" has formed the subject of so much ridicule amongst those who consider that titles are altogether out of place on that democratic continent."

have seen Imperial service is the great tendency of colonial volunteer officers to prefix "captain" or "major" or "colonel" to their names in their ordinary civilian life. America is always cited as the country where every one you meet is a captain or a colonel, but, after being in the United States, the author can truly say that in the Australian colonies and New Zealand, in proportion to their population, one will hear more people captained and majored and colonized than anywhere else on the earth's surface. Men who have never smelt powder, whose daily life is behind a counter or in an office, make no scruple of eternally calling themselves captains and majors, if that is their rank in a volunteer corps; and it is really sickening to find ex-linen drapers and the like, when they get into parliament, insist on these volunteer prefixes being placed before their names in the official records. People at a distance, who don't know them, naturally conclude that they are retired captains and majors of the Imperial army, whereas they were ex-drapers and other civilians pure and simple. This is a practice which the Australian democracy should put down by heaping torrents of ridicule upon it. In New Zealand the democracy is of a sort too spurious to do anything in that way.—From "Australia, Old and New," by T. Grattan Grey.

A Flourishing Institution.

Over twenty-one years ago the Canadian Order of Foresters began doing business in the Province of Ontario, and in later years it has been enlarging its operations until now it has branches in every Province in the Dominion, having at the present time upwards of 43,000 members. During those years upwards of $2,450,000 has been paid to the members and their dependents, and at the end of August last it had over $1,082,000 of a reserve fund in its insurance department. The fees payable by policy holders from which this surplus has been saved, after paying all death claims, are as follows, payable monthly in advance:

Between the ages of	On $500	On $1,000	On $1,500	On $2,000
18 to 25	.35	.60	.90	$1.20
25 to 30	.40	.65	.98	1.30
30 to 35	.45	.70	$1.05	1.40
35 to 40	.50	.85	1.28	1.70
40 to 45	.55	$1.00	1.50	2.00

All the money received from the monthly insurance fees is placed into the Insurance Fund, and no portion of this fund or the interest accruing therefrom can be used for any purpose whatever other than the liquidation in of death claim certificates. Not a fraction can be used for managing expenses.

The surplus funds are all invested in the Dominion of Canada in the best class of securities, or on deposit in the best monetary institutions in Canada.

The operations of the society being confined to Canada, the death rate is very low, being for 1899 only 4.43 per 1,000 of the membership, in 1900 only 4.88, and the average death rate since the organization of the society only 4.93 per annum per 1,000 of the membership.

A Sick and Funeral benefit department is also conducted by the order, which is an optional feature, in which upwards of 22,000 of the members are enrolled. The benefits are $3.00 per week for the first two weeks illness, and $5.00 per week for the following ten weeks, altogether $56.00 in any one year, and a funeral benefit of $30.00. In case of continued illness $56.00 is paid each year.

The fees for the same, payable monthly in advance, are as follows:

Between 18 and 25 years	25 cents
" 25 and 30 years	30 cents
" 30 and 35 years	35 cents
" 35 and 40 years	40 cents
" 40 and 45 years	45 cents

All physically and morally qualified males, between the ages of 18 and 45 years, who are not debarred on account of occupation, are accepted for membership.

Being very fat, the King of Portugal is forbidden by his physicians to eat much meat. He calmly disobeys the doctor, however, and is especially fond of beef, of which he eats great quantities. When he visited England a few years ago he was stopping at Lord Salisbury's country seat, where also King Edward was a guest. One day at dinner King Carlos was asked what had impressed him most during his short stay in England. He replied thoughtfully, "Well, I think English roast beef is very delightful." "Oh," laughed King Edward, "surely something else has impressed you as well?" "Ah," was the reply, "of course, the English boiled beet also is delightful."

English Control of Russian Industries.

U. S. Consul Mahin reports from Reichenburg, under date of August 8, 1901, that English companies are taking a very important part in the management of Russian industries. According to a late Russian publication forty-five different British corporations are thus engaged, mainly in Southern Russia. Of these sixteen operate in the petroleum industry, eight in coal, iron, and steel production, twelve are developing mines yielding metals and precious stones, while the remaining nine are engaged in textile industries, bicycle making, and constructing water works and mills of different kinds.

A Modern Fable.

BY GEORGE ADE.

A farm lad wanted to escape the drudgery, so he went up to the city, and after he had been there for fifteen years he had a nice position. He stood on his feet from eight to six every day cracking up dress goods, and after he paid his board and room rent there was nothing left of his salary except the crust.

After many years he went back to visit his brother who had remained on the farm. He found Jed in a hammock reading a stock report.

"Why are you not working?" asked the commercial brother.

"What is there to do?" asked Jed "The windmill is pumping water for the stock, grinding up the chop-feed and working the churn. I finished my fall plowing yesterday.

"Plowing is hard work," said the city salesman sympathetically.

"Oh, I don't know," replied Jed. "I use a riding plow with a white umbrella over me and a cushion on the seat. You may not know it but the farmer is getting too strong to work. You can't make him use a walking plow any more. He plants his corn with a check-row machine, lifts his hay with a patent fork, cuts his grain with a self binder that has a bundle carrier attached, and then puts it through a steam thrasher that cuts the bands, does the feeding, measures the grain, and dumps it into the wagon and stacks the straw. I suppose about next year they'll have some daddinged attachment that will go up to the bank and cash the grain tickets.

"The lowly agriculturalist now has his telephone and daily rural delivery, and a rubber-tire buggy, and when he meets an ordinary dry goods salesman such as you he just cracks his $2 red whip and drives right over him. Don't you come out here pitying the poor farmers! We've got everything you have in the city, except the noise. I'm going to put golf links in the west 40 next year. Then as soon as they give away an automobile with one hundred tobacco tags and somebody gets up a corn shucker, that will do the work, I'll be fixed."

A "HEROE'S" TONIC

For soldier or civilian South American Nerve proves itself the greatest of system tonics, nerve healers and blood cleansers.

A battle-scarred veteran just home from the war in South Africa, who was all run down and weak, the aftermath of that dread yeldt fever, says: "I found South American Nerve a remarkable medicine and heartily recommend it to everybody in need of a good tonic." It's a tonic ready for all "run down" people. One bottle gives great relief. A few bottles never fail to cure.

"Johnny," said a teacher to a grocer's six-year-old son, "a lie can be acted as well as told. Now, if your father were to put sand in his sugar and sell it, he would be acting a lie and doing wrong."

"That's what mother told him," said Johnny, impetuously, "and he said he didn't care."

How a Sprain Does Hurt!

But it isn't the pain alone that is dreaded, just think of the loss of time and wages. Sprains without number have been cured by rubbing Polson's Nerviline well into the pores of the skin surrounding the joint. No matter whether it is a sprained wrist, ankle, knee or back, just try Nerviline on it, and see how quickly it will cure. There is only one liniment that can be depended upon to cure sprains, strains and swellings, and that is Polson's Nerviline. Large bottle 25 cents. Sold by Garden Bros.

There is a curious combination tree in West Stockbridge, Mass. It is primarily a maple, which measures, 1 foot from the ground, 12 feet 3 inches in circumference. Fifteen feet from the ground there are one or two birch limbs growing, and higher up are currant and raspberry bushes, which bear fruit each year.

Gentlemen: I write this testimonial from a sense of duty, having tested the wonderful effect of your Asthmalene, for the cure of Asthma. My wife has been afflicted with spasmodic asthma for the past 12 years. Having exhausted my own skill as well as many others, I chanced to see your sign upon your windows on 130th street, New York, I at once obtained a bottle of Asthmalene. My wife commenced taking it about the first of November. I very soon noticed a radical improvement. After using one bottle her Asthma has disappeared and she is entirely free from all symptoms. I feel that I can consistently recommend the medicine to all who are afflicted with this distressing disease.
Yours respectfully,
