'Now Shoot, if You Dare'
 ('Anglo-American Magazine.')

The man who gave me the facts was Mr. Haskins, an American sailor, who had sailed to a port in Chili. On going ashore to enjoy his day of liberty, he drank a little and became hilarious. One of the police officers, instead of warning him not to make a noise in the street, drew his sword, and knocked him down. On that, the American sailor got up and knocked the policeman down in return. He was arrested and tried and condemned to be shot in the morning of the following day. Mr. Loring, the American Consul, expostulated with the authorities that it would be monstrous to shoot the man for such an offence; but they paid no attention to him, so he thereupon made a formal protest in the name of the United States Government against the barbarous act. Mr. Haskins, the sailor, was in the morning brought out, pinioned, to be shot. . . . As the English Consul was preparing to hoist the Union Jack he saw the crowd in the field opposite, where the execution of the American sailor, of which he had heard, was to take place. Rushing up to the American Consul, he said: "Good God! Loring, you're not going to let them shoot that man!" "What can I do?" he said. "I have protested against it. I can do no more." Quick as thought the English Consul shouted, "Give me your flag!" and in a trice the Stars and Stripes was handed to the English representative. At once, taking his own Union Jack in his hand, he hastened across the field, elbowed his way through the crowd and the soldiery, and running up to the doomed man he folded the American flag around him and then laid the Union Jack over it. Standing a few paces back, he faced the officers and soldiers, and shouted defiantly: "Now, shoot, if you dare, through the heart of England and America." And they dared not do it, for they feared the consequences; so the man was at once released.

LIKE THE MILLENIUM

After the tortures Mr. Norton passed through to have the absolute release from suffering that South American Rheumatic Cure afforded him - it relieves in six hours.

"For three weeks I lay in bed suffering most terribly and utterly helpless from Inflammatory Rheumatism," says Mr. E. H. Norton, of Grimby, Ont. "When all that the doctors could do failed me, I was induced to try South American Rheumatic Cure. After taking one bottle I was not only able to leave my bed, but surprised my friends by walking down town. I think it a wonder." 36

William E. Curtis tells this story about Stanford White, the well-known architect of New York city: "A man with a deep weed on his hat came into Mr. McKim's office one day and said he would like a design for a monument for his wife, recently deceased. He was questioned as to the style of tomb that he preferred, but said he would leave it all to the designer. Stanford White, who was a genius in that line, made a beautiful sketch after the Gothic order, with graceful tracery and delicate lines, which he thought particularly suitable for a young woman. A few days later, however, the bereaved client rejected the design instantly, and said it would not do at all. He wanted something solid and substantial. Mr. White was disgusted; but architects have to do what their clients want, and he made another sketch, as heavy and ungraceful as an Egyptian pyramid. When the widower called again he looked at the plan carefully and asked how many tons of granite would be needed to carry it out. 'I should say about forty tons,' remarked Mr. White. 'I guess that will hold her down,' observed the stranger sadly, and ordered the monument erected over the grave of his wife at once."

Removing Extraordinary.

A stone house has just been moved from Newcastle to Sharon, both in Pennsylvania, U. S. A., a distance of twenty miles, the owner, Mr. Stevenson, having decided to move his house, which had cost him £20,000. A contractor undertook the job for £5,000. The polished hardwood fittings were carefully removed, and then the stone blocks were numbered, taken down, and loaded on cars. The house was re-erected at Sharon, and the total cost is set down at about £6,000.

Operating for Piles.

The Risk, Pain and Expense of an Operation Avoided by Using Dr. Chase's Ointment—A Minister's Experience.

Too many doctors seem to have a mania for using the knife, and recommend an operation for piles in scores of cases when Dr. Chase's Ointment would effect a thorough and lasting cure.

Rev. S. A. Duprau, Methodist minister, Consecon, Prince Edward County, Ont., states:—"I was troubled with itching and bleeding piles for years, and they ultimately attained to a very violent form. Large lumps or abscesses formed, so that it was with great difficulty and considerable pain that I was able to stool. At this severe crisis I purchased a box of Dr. Chase's Ointment, but I had little or no faith in it, as I had tried various remedies before and to no purpose.

"Now, imagine how great and joyous was my surprise to find that just the one box cured me, so that the lumps disappeared, and also the external swelling. I feel like a different man to-day, and have not the least doubt that Dr. Chase's Ointment saved me from a very dangerous and painful operation and many years of suffering. You are at perfect liberty to use this testimonial as you see fit for the benefit of others similarly afflicted."

Milton E. Ailes was recently promoted to the assistant secretaryship of the United States Treasury, with a salary of $4,500 per annum. To those familiar with his ability in fiscal administration the stipend seems far from large; but to a certain old lady in Ohio the fact that the boy she used to know is now drawing that sum yearly will have all the force of a sensation. "This dear old friend," said Mr. Ailes, "knew me when I was a barefoot urchin, and it is well-nigh impossible for her to associate me with public office. Her world has been a small one, the boundaries of the county have marked her most adventurous travelling, and when I go home and call on her, my accounts of life in Washington, which I have to make exceedingly tame lest her wavering faith in my truthfulness be utterly destroyed, fill her with perplexity and apprehension for her country's future." Mr. Ailes paid this aged mentor a visit while he was private secretary to Secretary Gage. "Milton," said she, "tell me honestly, how much do you get in your position?" "Two thousand a year," he replied. The good old soul gasped and all but fainted. Recovering, she exclaimed: "Two thousand dollars! No wonder the United States isn't able to pay its national debt!"

may be muscular or rheumatic. The joints are hard to get at, and it requires a powerful, penetrating remedy to reach the affected parts. The pain is expelled as if by magic, for one drop of Nerviline equals in strength five drops of other remedies. You won't often call the doctor if Nerviline is in the house. Price 25 cents.

Lord Morris, formerly Lord Chief Justice of Ireland, who died a short time ago, was a bitter opponent of Mr. Gladstone. When somebody remarked to him that the "Grand Old Man" was a heaven-born genius, he replied: "It is earnestly to be trusted no accident will happen to put heaven again into an interesting condition."

 THE TWO FARMERS.

Once on a Time there were Two Farmers who wished to Sell their Farms.

To One came a Buyer who offered a Fair Price.

But the Farmer refused to Sell, saying he had heard rumors of a Railroad which was to be Built in his Vicinity, and he hoped The Corporation would buy his Farm at a Large Figure.

The Buyer therefore went Away, and as the Railroad never Materialized, the Farmer Sorely Regretted that he lost a Good Chance.

The Other Farmer Sold his Farm to the First Customer who came Along, although he Received but a Small Price for it. Soon Afterward a Railroad was Built right through the Same Farm, and The Railroad Company paid an Enormous Sum for the Land.

Charles derived little good from his visit to Sunday school yesterday. After dinner mamma missed a small pot of jam, and as she noticed some tell-tale evidences about Charles's mouth and hands, she asked him if he had seen or eaten the jam. Charles insisted that he had not even seen the jam. Papa thereupon was called in, and Charles was punished severely. Drawing Charles close to her, and wiping the tears from his eyes, mamma said: "When I was your age, my boy, I never told a falsehood." "How old were you before you began?" asked Charles, between sobs.—Albany "Journal."

Strange tales are told of the methods of the United States customs. A lady who had visited in London, on the way home on the Atlantic made the acquaintance of a most delightful man, to whom she confided the story of her triumphant bargains. "But what about the customs?" asked her friend. "Can you dodge them?" "Oh!" said the lady, "I always do it in a way that can't be found out. For instance, I roll up a glove in each of my stockings, see?" The pleasant acquaintance saw, and the consequence of his seeing was that the lady's stockings—as well as several other things—were carefully examined and surcharged when she reached New York. For that was the business of the pleasant acquaintance.

Mr. W. E. Berryman, Conductor on the C.P.R., St. Stephen, N.B., writes:—"I have been railroading for 23 years, and for ten years suffered from a severe case of Kidney Disease and Backache, a trouble common to railroad men. It used me all up to walk, and after walking up hill I would have to lie down to get relief, my back was so bad. I could not sleep more than half the night and then didn't seem to get any rest. I had used all sorts of medicines and was pretty badly discouraged when I heard of Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills. After using two boxes of this treatment I found it was helping me and five boxes have made a complete cure. I now rest and sleep well, my back is strong and the old trouble has entirely disappeared. Many people to whom I have recommended these pills have been cured. Anyone wishing further particulars write me."
