Your Teeth.

Without good teeth there cannot be good mastication.

Without thorough mastication there cannot be perfect digestion, and poor health results.

Hence the paramount importance of sound teeth.

Clean teeth do not decay.

The importance of a sound first set of teeth is as great to a child as a sound second set is to the adult.

Children should be taught to use the tooth-brush early.

Food left on the teeth ferments, and the acid formed produces decay.

Decay leads in time to pain and the total destruction of the tooth.

The substance of the following rules should therefore be impressed constantly upon all children:

1. The teeth should be cleansed at least once daily.

2. The best time to clean the teeth is after the last meal.

3. A small toothbrush with stiff bristles should be used, brushing up and down and across and inside and outside and in between the teeth.

4. A simple tooth powder or a little soap and some precipitated chalk taken up on the brush may be used if the teeth are dirty or stained.

5. It is a good practice to rinse the mouth out after every meal.

6. All rough usage of the teeth, such as cracking nuts, biting thread, etc., should be avoided, but proper use of the teeth in chewing is good for them.

When decay occurs, it should be attended to long before any pain results. It is stopping of a small cavity that is of the greatest service.

What Is Life to You?

If you are a victim of piles, as one person in every four is, you suffer keenly from one of the most torturing ailments known to man, and may well wonder if life is really worth living. Certain relief and ultimate cure is awaiting you by means of Dr. Chase's Ointment. It has never failed to cure piles. Painlessly and naturally it allays the inflammation, heals the ulcers and thoroughly cures this wretched disease.

He Set Them Up.

Four or five young fellows had been given a good trip down the coast and back by a man who owned a nice yacht and, after having enjoyed themselves as never before, they decided that one of the least things they could do was to make their good friend a present. They bought him a barometer with a clock dial face, and, invading his yacht one fine morning when they knew he was aboard, they presented the barometer with a free flowing speech from one of their number. The owner of the yacht looked at the open face of the barometer a minute silently. His reply of acceptance, which was expected, did not come. There was clearly something the matter.

"Well, boys," he said gravely, "I never should have suspected this of you."

At first they thought he was fooling; then they thought he wasn't.

"That's about the boldest thing I ever knew," he went on.

"Why, what—" began the spokesman for the young men. "I didn't—we didn't, etc., etc."

"That's the broadest hint I ever got," added the owner of the yacht. "Look at it!"

"What's the matter with it?"

Again the recipient of the gift pointed to the dial and said:

"Very dry, eh? Well, I suppose I'll have to set 'em up if it's as bad as all that."

Plutocracy.

We are told that it is proposed to open a confidential agency in London for the marriage of American heiresses to European titles the number of American women who long to sell themselves for social rank being, we are assured, amusing. Such effrontery seems incredible. Yet the traffic is already so unblushing that its notoriety can scarcely be increased. At the same time we learn that an American millionaire, professor of large railway interests in one city and real estate in another, who has for ten years been living as a sybarite in Europe, to escape payment of personal taxes, abdured his country and declares himself a subject of King Edward. When such are the characteristics of plutocracy, even those who are most convinced of the impracticability of Socialism in his antagonism to the plutocrat. "Property," said Mr. Chamberlain, in the day of her socialistic radicalism, "must pay a ransom required of it, if it is conscientious and wise, will be the performance of its social duties. If it behaves as American shoddy is behaving, the ransom some day will be heavy—Bystander in Toronto Sun.

With Constipation

Come a Host of Ills.

To Get Well and Keep Well Regulate the Bowels by Using Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills.

You cannot avoid disease if you neglect to regulate the bowels and allow the liver and kidneys to become torpid, sluggish and inactive. Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills are the most valuable family medicine that one can conceive of because they invigorate and regulate the excretory and filtering organs as no other preparation was ever known to do.

Mr. Geo. Benner, Wlarton, Ont. writes:—"I don't like to have my name put in public print, but I feel it a duty to my fellow-men to recommend Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills. For about four years I was troubled with chronic constipation and weakness of the kidneys. My condition was serious when I began to use Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills, and I verily believe that they have saved my life. I am now well and feel like a new man."

More people use Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills than any other Canadian medicine. They are popular because they cure when other remedies fail. Ask your neighbor about them. One pill a dose, 25 cents a box, all dealers or Edmanson Bates & Co., Toronto.

A Boy's Essay on Water.

A very original essay on water is quoted by a contemporary. One or two of the writer's ideas upon the subject are strikingly novel. For instant he divides all water into four sub-headings—rain water, soda water, holy water, and brine. "Water," he continues, "is used for a good many things. Sailors use water to go to sea on. Water is a good thing to fire at boys with a squirt gun and to catch fishes in." But the strangest of all uses for water is this: "Nobody he says 'could be saved from drowning if there wasn't water to pull them out of.' This reminds one of the boy's essay on pins, in the course of which he said that pins had saved many lives by people not swallowing them.

The Mother of Thirty Seven.

The individual birth record must surely go to the wife of a farmer near Salzburg, in Austria. She has presented her loving, if astonished, husband with twins eight times in succession. As if this were not enough she "went one better," and for three times brought forth triplets. Then there was a retrogression, the woman lapsing into twins for four times in succession, and afterwards completely ruined her reputation by giving birth to singles on four occasions. All these made up the respectable total of thirty-seven.

Didn't Have a Chance.

Sylvester—I wonder if he thought twice before he married her.
Featherstone—It isn't likely. She was a widow.—August "Smart Set."

Sergeant: "You want to be enrolled for active service? Married, you say? I don't think we should care to deprive your wife of her husband."

Applicant: "Married! It's because I am married I want to join. I need a change of fighting."

"Johnny," said his mother, "I want you to leave off using that vulgar language."

"Why, mother," replied Johnny, "Shakespeare said what I just said."

"Then you must not associate with him," said the good woman. "He's not a fit companion for you."

Henry J. Byron, the famous English playwright of a score of years ago, remarked on one occasion: "A play is like a cigar. If it's good, everybody wants a box; if it's bad, all the puffing in the world won't make it go."

NINE BOILS.

FOUR RUNNING SORES.

The T. Milburn Co., Limited,
Toronto, Ont.

Some time ago my blood got out of order and nine large boils appeared on my neck, besides numerous small ones on my shoulders and arms. Four running sores appeared on my foot and leg and I was in a terrible state. A friend advised Burdock Blood Bitters, so I procured three bottles. After finishing the first bottle the boils started to disappear and the sores to heal up. After taking the third bottle there was not a boil or sore to be seen. Besides this, the headaches from which I suffered left me and I improved so much that I am now strong and robust again.

TAMING A PIANIST.

The Effective Trick That was Once Played on Franz Liszt.

The famous pianist and composer Franz Liszt was once made the victim of a good practical joke.

It happened in Rome at the house of a certain princess who had invited a number of guests to meet Liszt and assured them that they should have an opportunity of enjoying his playing. The princess was well acquainted with two of Liszt's peculiarities. He was so passionately fond of playing that it was difficult for him to keep his fingers away from the keys; but nevertheless, like many other pianists he expected to be urgently entreated and coaxed before he would condescend to perform.

On this occasion his hostess was determined to make him play without a word of entreaty. It was agreed by the whole company not only that Liszt should not be asked to play, but that the subject of the music should not be mentioned. The piano was even closed and locked and the key hidden. Liszt came and soon saw that he was not to conquer. His usual triumphant expression vanished as he perceived that for once he was not apparently regarded as the lion of the hour.

Not a word was spoken of music, and Liszt became visibly uneasy in mind. As the evening grew on he grew more and more excited. That his fingers was itching with the desire to play was obvious to all, but nobody helped him out. At last when he could stand the strain no longer, he took advantage of a lull in the conversation, seated himself unbidden at the piano and attempted to raise the lid.

The laughter and applause that followed the unsuccessful attempt showed Liszt that he was the victim of a conspiracy. But his love for playing was too strong for his resentment. The key was brought and Liszt played, to the delight of his enraptured audience.

Something Like a Climate.

Two commercial travellers, one from Atherstone and one from New York, were discussing the weather in their respective countries. The Englishman said that English weather had one great fault—its sudden changes.

"A person may take a walk some day," he said, "attired in a light summer suit, and still feel quite warm. Next day he needs an overcoat."

"That's nothing," said the American; "my two friends, Johnson and Jones, were once having an argument. There were eight or nine inches of snow on the ground. The argument got heated, and Johnson picked up a snowball and threw it at Jones from a distance of not more than five yards. During the transit of that snowball, believe me or not, as you like, the weather suddenly changed and became hot and summer-like, and Jones, instead of being hit with a snowball, was—er—scalded with hot water."

Woman is as Old as She Looks

It is not age but disease, weakness and ill-health that makes women look old, care-worn and wrinkled. You cannot look your best unless you feel well, strong and vigorous, with pure, rich blood and steady nerves. Dr. Chase's Nerve Food makes good looks because it makes good health, restores the healthful glow to the complexion, rounds out the form and gives elasticity to every motion of the body.

New Kind of Loan.

William H. Rogers, cashier of the Nassau Bank, and one of the best-known men in banking circles in New York, says the New York "Times," tells the story of a customer who came to the bank and said he had just declined to make a "Kathleen Mavourneen" loan. In his long experience in banking Mr. Rogers had heard of many varieties of loans, but never one of this genus. So he asked what kind of a loan "Kathleen Mavourneen" loan was.

"One of the sort that 'may be for years and may be forever.'"

Valuable Man.

"I say," said the business man to the detective, "some fellow has been representing himself as a collector of ours. He has been taking in more money than any two of the men we have, and I want him collared as quickly as you can."

"All right; I'll have him in jail in less than a week."

"Great Scott, man! I don't want to put him in jail; I want to engage him."

Agnes: "What nonsense! When a man goes down the street in a last year's hat and baggy trousers, what idiot would think he was single?"

Few People Escape

The Torture of Piles

And Dr. Chase's Ointment is the Only Positive and Guaranteed Cure for This Wretched Disease.

There is usually very little satisfaction in consulting a physician regarding a case of piles. In nine cases out of ten he will recommend a surgical operation, forgetting, it may be, the risk, suffering and physical as well as financial expense which this treatment entails. For this reason very many people are going about in misery with piles, believing that they cannot be cured except by means of the surgeon's knife.

It is to such persons that this advertisement will bring good news of great value. Dr. Chase's Ointment has never failed to cure piles and it is really the only preparation that can be relied upon to cure every form of this frightfully common ailment.

It seems strange that anyone should suffer the wretched uneasiness and acute torture of burning, itching piles when it is so easy to procure Dr. Chase's Ointment. Nearly every dealer in medicine keeps Dr. Chase's Ointment, and you can apply it at home without any inconvenience. If you prefer send 60 cents to Edmanson Bates & Co., Toronto, and a box will be sent postpaid to your address. Ask your neighbor or druggist about this remarkable remedy.

A ticket collector on a railway got leave to go and get married, and was given a pass over the line. On the way back he showed to the new collector his marriage certificate by mistake for his pass. He studied it carefully, and then said, "Eh, mon, you've got a ticket for a lang, wearisome journey, but no on the Caledonian Railway."
