Harcourt on the Conservatives.

Sir William Vernon Harcourt, in addressing the Eighty Club recently, made the following humorous remarks:—

The say, "Oh, but we want an effective Opposition." We do not do much, perhaps, but we do what we can, to accommodate them (laughter and cheers); but the moment that we say a word which disapproves of their policy or their conduct they say, "Hold your peace; you are only encouraging the enemy." [Laughter and cheers.] Mr. St.

John Brodrick is a very old friend of mine, for whom I have a great esteem. But he is an unfortunate orator both inside and outside the House of Commons. He seems to me sometimes to forget that self-control which is highly desirable in a man in his situation, and the absence of which leads to that want of respect for himself which is necessary if you are to have respect for others. He has, though an excellent man, the defect of his qualities. I have known him a long time, and he has a very incurable habit of always saying the wrong thing on the wrong occasion to the wrong person. (Laughter.)

But I forgive him altogether for the testimony he bore to me. He said if I had not been a younger son that I should probably have been a Tory. I cannot be sufficiently grateful to Providence, who, from my earliest birth, saved me from that danger. (Loud laughter.) It is what you might call political predestination. The old Savoy song says that every child alive is born either a liberal or else a Conservative, and it appears that the elder sons are born conservatives and the younger sons become naturally liberals. That is the satisfactory condition of things, because by the law of nature we younger sons are in the Majority; and I hope I am addressing a great number of younger sons.
My brother, to whom I was greatly attached, was the elder and I was the younger son; and we naturally had different political ideas.
He one day said to me, "My dear fellow, you have no landed ideas." I said, "No, I have not; that is very natural. You have got the land, and why should I not have the ideas?" (Loud laughter.)

There was another incident, which pleased me very much, which he told me one day.
He said he had met in the Carlton Club a gentleman whom I knew a little. He was the elder brother of Mr. Gladstone—Sir John Gladstone—who was an excellent Tory, and he came up to my brother, with whom he was in sympathy, and he said, "Mr. Harcourt, you and I have two very troublesome brothers" (Laughter.) I accept the criticism of Mr.
Brodrick upon this subject. But it is a very interesting exemplification of what the Tories idea is of that which governs their political sympathies and their political conduct. A man becomes a Tory if he is an eldest son (laughter) because it is his interest to protect the pecuniary and other interests which he has at heart. If he has not this at heart, then he may become a Liberal.

A Remarkable Subscription Campaign.

The well-known magazine "Success," of New York, has just completed one of the most novel, and, in its results, extraordinary campaigns for subscriptions, ever undertaken by an American publication. About a year ago, it secured from some of the strongest periodicals in the country, unusually low prices for annual subscriptions, and, combining an annual subscription to "Success" with subscriptions to other magazines, it extensively advertised "Success Clubbing Offers" at large reductions from regular prices.
The result has more than justified the confidence of "Success" in the ability of the great American public to absorb periodical literature. Not only has it added over 150,- 000 subscriptions to its own list, but it has sent "The Review of Reviews," nearly 80,- 000 new subscriptions; the "Cosmopolitan," between 50,000 and 60,000; "McClure's," over 30,000, and other magazines many thousands each. This campaign has completely revolutionized prevailing ideas about circulation-getting, and "Success" will undoubtedly have some competition in this line next fall, but it has just completed contracts with the strongest and best magazines in the country for the subscription season just opening, and it is understood that the "Success" offers will be even more popular this year than last.

"Success," itself, is one of the clearest and most "up-to-date" magazines published. It is bright, cheerful and optimistic, and inspiration and life are in every page. In a thousand different ways, direct and indirect, it tells how to lay the foundations of true success in life,—how to climb the ladder of achievement. Its contributors include the best-known names in politics, religion, science, art, literature, and industry. Business men of the highest standing—men who will write for no other periodical,—are willing to give the readers of "Success" the benefits of their wide and valuable experience. The illustrations of "Success" are by the best artists in the country, and the inspiration of a lifetime has come through its columns to thousands of "Success" readers.

Hard to tell.—"I see your name in the papers a good deal," commented the old friend. "I suppose you are really in society now." "My wife thinks we are," replied the man who had become suddenly rich, "but sometimes I have my doubts." "How so?" "Well, when there's a swell charity enteitainment to be given, with boxes quoted at $200 and $300 or more, the evidence seems to indicate that we are very much in society but when some exclusive private function takes place there seems to be nothing but what you might call negative evidence. I think possibly it might be correct to say that our money is in society, but we are not."—

Information For The People.

The following program for Col Dent's visit to this Province in connection with the purchasing of horses for the Imperial Army has been arranged:

Fredericton, Tuesday and Wednesday, 20 and 21 August, J. A. Edwards, Esq., Queen Hotel, agent.

Woodstock, Thursday and Friday, 22 and 23 August, W. F. Glidden, Esq., Livery Stable Keeper, agent.

St. John, Saturday and Monday 24 and 26 August, J. B. Hamm, Esq., Livery Stable Keeper, agent.

Sussex, Tuesday and Wednesday, 27 and 28 August, Geo. H. Barnes, Esq., agent.

Moncton, Thursday and Friday, 29 and 30 August, Ferdinand Thibodeau, Esq., Riverside Hotel, agent.

Chatham, Saturday 31st August and Monday 2nd September, Chas. Sargeant, of Newcastle, agent.

Anyone having horses for sale answering the description which has already been published in Col Dent's letter of 13th July will please bring them to the agent's place of business at the nearest point, and on the dates set forth.

If enough horses are offered during this,
the first visit, of Col Dent to New Brunswick, it will no doubt lead to the establishment of a permanent purchasing station in this Province, thus creating an increased demand for horses, which will be of great benefit to breeders generally. It is to be hoped that persons gravitating horses for sale will make an effort to bring them to one of the points as outlined.

As regards prices, the Col says he is unable to fix positively, but probably between $80 and $100 for cobs and from $100 to $120 for cavalry and artillery.

L. P. FARRIS,
Commissioner for Agriculture.
Fredericton, August 12th, 1901.

THE REAL FAILURE.

They sing about the sorrows of the man who loses money.

On a race.
They joke about the way in which the smiling, once so sunny,

Leaves his face.
But he isn't to be pitied, tho his feelings may be sore, Unless he's lost his nerve and "isn't in it" any more.

The man who goes in politics and leaves his luck behind him.

For awhile,
When he retires to private life finds many things to grind him.

But he'll smile.
For perhaps a change will come and make him happy as of yore—Unless he is the man who isn't in it any more.

So let us be of cheer as on the weary way we're plodding, Tho it's long.

We may sometimes waken fortune, when she seems to be a nodding, By a song.

For the only real failure that it's proper to deplore
Is to own that you're the man who isn't in it any more.

In one of the dirty second-class carriages boots!"—[St. James's Gazette.

the rector, just returned from a holiday.
"Was it, sir?" responded the curate. "It wasn't mine. I've been too busy this week to write one, and I took it from a bundle in your handwriting out of the library."—[Tit-Bits.
