On Tuesday there were no less than seven at Bath and with other visitors they completely crowded Mr. Harriss' Hotel so that two so that two strangers who drove in about eight o'clock in the evening to put up for the night had to be turned away. Last Wednesday four men representing dry goods houses all struck Hartland together.

THE CAMP MEETING at Meductic opened on Sunday, June 2nd. The day was fine and warm and afforded an excellent opportunity to all who wished to attend the meeting. The large tent which is pitched on an attractive spot at the lower end of the village was crowded to overflowing. Fully five hundred persons were present. Quite a number of persons brought lunches and partook of them in the tent or on the grounds. Notwithstanding the large crowd the utmost good order prevailed in the tent and on the grounds. The singing was led by Evangelist H. E. Whitney who will be present and conduct the singing at all the services. A service will be held every week night and three on each Sabbath until the camp meeting closes Sunday evening June 16th.

He Went.

One of those gilded youths who "don't care to dance, old chappie; too much of a heastly bore," was recently taken down in a manner which hugely delighted the hearers. Airing himself in a London ballroom, he was pressed by his host to take part in the worship of Terpsichore, but for a long time resisted. At last, moved by the statement that his proposed partner was exceptionally pretty and an heiress withal, he relented. "Well, twot her out, deah boy," he drawled.

He was promptly led up to the expectant fair one, but unfortunately she had overheard his remark. The introduction took place, and the maiden, raising her pince nez surveyed him with a critical air for some score of seconds. Then, with a shrug and a perfect imitation of the youth's lisping drawl, she said:

"No, thanks, deah boy; twot him back agwin."—London Answers.

Industry.—"That young man is one of the most industrious people in the establishment remarked the proprietor. "I never see him when he is not working hard." "Yes," answered the manager. "He is always in a hurry to get through so that he can play golf."—Washington Star.
