

The Torture of ECZEMA Prevented Sleep.

Mr. Paul Lariviere, Meadowville Station, Pictou Co., N.S., writes as follows: "I shall always praise Burdock Blood Bitters as the best remedy for skin diseases. I had been suffering from Salt Rheum or Eczema for the past five years and could not get any rest from the terrible burning and itching, which was worse at night and prevented me sleeping.

"Hearing of B.B.B. I thought I would try it, and after using one bottle I was so much relieved that I continued using it, taking six bottles in all, and am now completely cured."

It is a blessing that there is such a reliable remedy as B.B.B. for those tortured day and night with terrible skin diseases and who can get no relief from their misery.

Apply it externally and it takes out the fire and itch and aids in the healing process.

Take it internally and it purifies the blood of all those poisons which are the source of skin eruptions.

B.B.B. Cures Eczema and all Burning, Itching Skin Diseases.

What I Saw Across the Sea.

BY S. M. BOYER.
NO. 12.

In my last letter I gave an account of a visit to the royal stables. The old carriage was used by William IV. and rode in by Queen Victoria until the Prince Consort's death in 1861; since that time it has been put in mourning, repaired and used by Edward VII. Buckingham palace near by was built by William IV. and first occupied by Queen Victoria in 1837. We next visited the Albert memorial. This was designed by Sir Gilbert Scott. The height to the summit of the spire is 150 feet. On a platform reached on 4 sides by granite steps we reach a pedestal around which are 169 marble figures representing the chief musicians, painters, architects and sculptors of the time. At each angle of this massive pedestal are marble groups representing agriculture, commerce, industry and architecture. A statue 13 feet high represents the Prince seated and wearing the dress of a Knight of the Garter; around the canopy is this inscription: "Queen Victoria and her people to the memory of Albert Prince Consort as a tribute of their gratitude for a life devoted to the public good." From here we visit the Strand where the large wholesale houses are. Here we are introduced to a Mr. Sutherland, the agent of the firm of Manchester, Robertson & Allison, St. John, N. B., who kindly shows us through some of these immense establishments where business has been carried on for centuries. Paths are actually worn in the stone pavements. One has some idea of the dry goods business of London here. As we are here to see London we next visit the zoological gardens. Our London friends are our guides, and a day is well spent here; the grounds are open to visitors on all days of the week, and one shilling is charged for admittance. It is said to be the finest collection of birds and animals at the zoo of any part of the world. We next visit Westminster Abbey. A visit to London and not see the abbey would be incomplete. It is said Edward the confessor built a church in 1050 on the site of the present one; a few fragments still remain. Henry III. pulled it down in the 13th century in order to erect the present edifice. I can only give a faint description of this ancient edifice. It has been called England's pantheon. Her leading statesmen and warriors, her poets, artists and men of letters, and many who the nation holds dear are buried here. The most recent addition to the graves is that of the Right Hon. W. E. Gladstone (1898). In one of the chapels of the abbey we see the chairs of carved oak said to be 400 years old, and also the famous stone of scone beneath the chair on which every sovereign of England has sat when receiving the crown. One could spend weeks in this old church and find something of interest each day. We obtain tickets and visit the House of Parliament. The great fire of 1834 swept away the old House of Parliament. The existing structure was built in 1843. The site occupies eight acres, the entire length of the building is 900 feet and 300 in width, there are in it 1100 apartments and 100 stair cases, its corridors are more than three miles in length. The interior is as grand as the exterior; visitors can only be admitted on Saturdays when parliament is in session; admission can only be obtained by means of an order from one of the members. The House of Lords is divided from the House of Commons. In the royal galleries leading to the House of Lords on the walls are two frescoes each 45 feet long and 12 feet high, they represent the death of Nelson at the battle of Trafalgar, and the meeting of Wellington and Blucher after the battle of Waterloo. In the House of Lords is a superb hall 90 feet long and 45 feet to the ceiling. Sabbath morning having come we make arrangements to attend the Metropolitan tabernacle, Dr. Spurgeon's church, and thither we wend our way. Reaching the tabernacle at an early hour we are invited to a nine o'clock prayer service in one of the rooms of the vestry; an old lady met me at the door and invited me to a seat, and I enjoyed the service very much. At the close one of the deacons who led the service seeing I was a stranger shook me by the hand and invited me to the preaching service which at this time was held in the vestry, capable of seating 3,000 persons. I was somewhat disappointed to learn that Mr. Spurgeon, the pastor, was absent on a visit with his wife and bairns on the continent. However, the minister who supplied gave us a fine discourse. I was anxious to know what class of people made up this large congregation as the membership is I think something over three thousand. Appearances would indicate they were most of them from the ordinary walks of life. The old tabernacle was burned about two years ago and the present one is constructed on the old site. At this time workmen were employed finishing the auditorium. Near this part of the city is the Barnato Home for boys and girls. In visiting this home we are met at the entrance by a porter who conducts us to one of the offices. Our object made known one of the superintendents take us through the various departments and we are told the manner of conducting the institution. Some of my readers may know this institution was founded in 1865 by Dr. Barnato.

Ventilate the Hair.

A woman who will make the habit of brushing and combing the hair at night and vigorously rubbing the scalp, rubbing till the blood tingles, may be sure, if she inaugurates this habit before her hair has begun to fall, that her hair will keep its color and youthful quality. Even falling hair will often be brought back to vigor by such treatment. A good deal is said in the favor of brushing the hair. Brushing cleans the hair itself, but it does not invigorate the scalp, as does combing, and neither is half so good as vigorous rubbing. When one begins she will find it takes a lot of rubbing to make the head tingle, but in a few weeks the first rub will start the blood. That tells its own story, for where the circulation is sluggish, there deterioration of vitality has begun. Where the blood runs freely, there life renews itself.

It is good to let the hair hang loosely at night, especially if one sleeps in a room in which outside air circulates freely. The roots need air. Twice a week braid the hair into little braids all over the head. Hair thus treated will keep a glossy look, yet not hang together, and it will turn back prettily in a pompadour with better effect than if the curling irons had been used. Besides, curling irons are ruinous to the health of hair.

DO NOT EXPERIMENT WITH MEDICINES THAT HAVE NO ESTABLISHED MERIT OR REPUTATION.

PAINE'S CELERY COMPOUND NEVER FAILS TO CURE THE SICK.

In matters pertaining to health and life men and women cannot afford to experiment foolishly. This is especially true in regard to the use of medicines that have no established merit or reputation.

When the physical powers are impaired, when you are weak, nervous, irritable, despondent, sleepless, or weighed down with dull, tired feelings so common at this season, it is wise and prudent to use the medicine that has given health, vim, and activity to thousands of weak and diseased people in the past.

This safe, certain health-giving medicine is Paine's Celery Compound so freely prescribed by our best physicians from day to day. The indorsements of Paine's Celery Compound, apart from those in the ordinary walks of life, are clergymen, lawyers, judges, members of parliament and bankers, many of whom it has rescued from suffering and death.

If you seek health and vigor, place your faith in Paine's Celery Compound, and when you purchase be sure to get the right article. See that the bottle and box has the name "PAINE'S," and the Seal of Celery; this is the only genuine make—the kind that "makes the people well."

American Rush.

The never-ending hurry of American mercantile life is described by Dr. Watson ("Ian Maclaren") in a recent article on Americans.

"No man in New York," he says, "goes slow if he has the chance of going fast; no man stops to talk if he can talk walking; no man walks if he can ride in a trolley-car; no man goes in trolley-car if he can get a convenient steam car, and by-and-by no one will go in a steam-car if he can be shot through a pneumatic tube.

"No one writes with his own hand if he can dictate to a stenographer; no one dictates if he can telegraph; no one telegraphs if he can telephone, and by-and-by when the spirit of American invention has brought wireless telegraphy into thorough condition, a man will simply sit with his mouth at one hole and his ear at another, and do business with the ends of the earth in a few seconds, which the same machine will copy and preserve in letter-books and ledgers.

"It is the American's regret that at the present he can do nothing with his feet, while he is listening at the telephone, but doubtless some employment will be found for them in the coming age.

"My Heart was Thumping my Life out," is the way Mrs. R. H. Wright, of Brockville, Ont., describes her sufferings from smothering, fluttering and palpitation. After trying many remedies without benefit, six bottles of Dr. Agnew's Cure for the Heart restored her to perfect health. The first dose gave almost instant relief, and in a day suffering ceased altogether.—51

A man left his umbrella in the stand in an hotel recently with a card bearing the following inscription attached to it:—

This umbrella belongs to a man who can deal a blow of 250 lb. weight. I shall be back in ten minutes."

On returning to seek his property he found in its place a card thus inscribed:—

"This card was left here by a man who can run twelve miles an hour. I shall not be back!"

Don't Despair

Even if you are troubled with Backache and not able to attend to your household duties. If you have not used Doan's Pills you can be absolutely cured by them.

PROOF FROM ONE OF MANY.

MONTREAL, Que., Jan. 26th, 1901.
DOAN'S KIDNEY PILLS CO., Toronto, Ont.
Dear Sirs,—I have been suffering for 12 years from kidney trouble. I had terrible backache and was troubled with dizziness. My urine was scanty, highly colored and contained a thick sticky sediment. I consulted physicians without any success and almost gave up in despair. At last I saw Doan's Pills advertised, so I procured two boxes of them and they gave me a complete cure and I can attend to my household duties without trouble. I can recommend Doan's Pills and must say that they should be tried by all who suffer from kidney trouble.
