Mothers.

Mothers are the queerest things! Member when John went away, All but mother cried and cried. When they said good-by that day. She just talked and seemed to be Not the slightest bit upset— Was the only one who smiled! Others' eyes are streaming wet.

But when John came back again On a furlough, safe and sound, With a medal for his deeds And without a single wound, While the rest of us hurraed, Laughed and joked and danced about, Mother kissed him, then she cried— Cried and cried like all girl out!

The Shortcomings of the Sunday-school.

If the principal work of each generation is the training of the next, the present-day Sunday school as an educational institution must be pronounced a failure. The great development of the pedagogical profession has not yet penetrated this department of ecclesiastics. While we cannot hope to have a satisfactory Sunday school until parents send their children with regularity and seriousness of purpose, neither can we expect parental co-operation until we offer instruction as intelligent as that of day schools. . . . Yet these are trivial factors compared with the religious concepts of the average teacher: perhaps a young miss, ignorant of the Bible and of ethical principles; perhaps a veteran, who can quote Scripture from Genesis to Revelation, while quite devoid of spiritual insight. . . .

Life on the Rail

Mr Geo Cummings, Barrie, Ont., one of the best known engineers on the G. T. R., writes: "For years I suffered from kidney disease brought on by railroad life. The doctors called it 'railroad kidney,' but could give me no permanent relief. A friend recommended Dr Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills saying they had cured him. A few boxes of this grand medicine cured me. . . ."

With an Eye to Business.

A well-known missionary had occasion to give a description of his foreign work to a large audience in a certain town. While speaking he took particular notice of a boy who was listening with rapt attention to every word the lecturer said.

As is usual in such addresses, he wound up with an earnest appeal for contributions, however small, and, thinking of his wide-mouthed listener, he added that even children might give their mite.

When the meeting was over the boy mounted the platform and, going forward to the lecturer, said:—

"Please, sir, I was very much interested in your lecture, and—and—"

Here he hesitated.

"Go on, my little man," said the missionary. "You want to help in the good work?"

"No, not that," was the boy's reply.

"What I want to know is, have you any foreign stamps to give away?"

Just as Good!

Perhaps! Don't you run the risk, though, but always buy the well-tested and sure-pop corn cure—Putnam's Painless Corn Extractor. Sure, safe, and painless. Putnam's removes corns painlessly in twenty-four hours. If your druggist does not sell it, send 25 cents to N. C. Polson & Co., Kingston, Ont., and they will send it to you post paid to any address in Canada or U. S. A.

Kisses Teachers if he Likes.

Albert R. Robinson, principal of the High and Manual Training School, was asked yesterday what he knew about the practice of kissing between principals, teachers and pupils in the public schools, and he seemed eager to speak on the subject.

"I can only speak for myself," he said, "I kiss the teachers in my school whenever I choose, and as long as they do not complain, I do not see that it is anybody's business.

"But," he was told, "you will have a committee of the Board of Education over to your school to investigate pretty soon, and then what will you do?"

"Do!" he said. "Do? Why, I will stand them all up in a row and kiss them right before the committee. This is my matter, and I defy anybody to interfere with it." So saying, Mr. Robinson turned on his heel, and walked away. Looking over his shoulder, he grinned and cried out: "There is not a woman teacher in my school."—Chicago paper.

If You Suffer Pains Don't Wait

a moment, go to the nearest drug store and get a bottle of Nerviline. Five times stronger than any other—it penetrates to the remotest fibres—soothes the irritated nerves and carries with it almost instantaneous relief. Good for pain on the outside, and if possible even better for all internal agonies. Nerviline is sold under guarantee. If you are not benefited your money cheerfully back. Druggists and medicine dealers sell it everywhere.

Jones:—"Are you serious in your attentions to Miss Hulke?"

Jones:—"Well, I guess so! Her father did me out of forty thousand on the Stock Exchange last month; and I'll get that back if I have to marry the whole family for it."

Painful, Fatal Kidney Disease

One of the most common symptoms of kidney disease is the smarting, scalding sensation when passing water, which is likely to come very frequently and at inconvenient times. Then there is the dull, heavy aching in the small of the back and down the limbs. When these pains are accompanied by deposits in the urine after it has stood for twenty-four hours, you may be sure that you are a victim of kidney disease, and should not lose a single day in securing the world's greatest kidney cure—Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills.

Don't imagine that you are experimenting when you use Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills. They are almost as well known as his great Recipe Book, have made some of the most surprising cures of kidney disease on record, and have come to be considered the only absolute cure for kidney disease. Ask your neighbors about them. Nearly everybody can tell of some remarkable cure by their use. One pill a dose; 25 cents a box, at all dealers', or Edman-son, Bates & Co., Toronto.

The "Old Man's Lament.

The bookkeeper had the grip And the office boy's had the grip, And both stayed a week in bed; The typewriter's had it, too, And the janitor's wife sends word That her husband's nearly dead.

The head clerk had the grip, The scrub lady's had the grip, And remained at home to rest; The teamster was off ten days, And the foreman's in bed because The doctor thinks it best.

The watchman has had the grip, And the fireman's had the grip— But I haven't had it yet! I'm the owner of this concern, And, therefore, the grip's a thing That I can't afford to get!

The Proper Treatment for Catarrh

Is a remedy that reaches all the affected parts. That remedy is Catarrhoxone, which is inhaled along with the air you breathe and permeates the most minute air cells in the lungs, throat, nasal passages and bronchial tubes, cleansing as if by fire. It is the pleasant, volatile effect of pure, healing, essential oils, and by virtue of its antiseptic properties kills the germs that cause the disease, allays any irritation or congestion of the mucous membrane, heals raw, sore spots, and never fails to effect a perfect cure. It is clean, convenient and pleasant to use. It contains no injurious ingredients that could harm even the weakest infant. The complete outfit, price $1.00, is guaranteed to cure, or your money back. Small size, 25c., at druggists or by mail. A trial sent for 10c. by N. C. Polson & Co., Kingston, Canada, or Hartford, Conn., U. S.

The Christian Endeavour.

Speaking of the Christian Endeavour movement the New York Christian Intelligence (Ref) says: "The question cannot but arise, What is to be its future? Will it as many a previous awakening of church activity, burn itself out, lose its vitality, or be wrecked by unwise leadership and diversion from the high ideals which have given it so strong hold upon the young. Thus far the firm hand of its founder—who builded better than he knew—has kept in safe and mainly wise lines the enthusiasm of youth, and despite here and there a failure made this organization a most helpful adjunct of the Church. However, the careful observer cannot fail to see tendencies in this wonderfully successful movement which need to be guarded against if its influence shall continue to be helpful. There is danger to the cause in the reaction that is sure to come when the impetus derived from rapid growth, imposing numbers, and mammoth conventions shall no longer be felt. An element of instruction must supplement enthusiasm if permanent results are to be gained. The experience of many churches with their Endeavor Societies proves the possibility of a breach between the Society and the Church. The tendency to put the Society first, and regard its meetings and methods superior in value and importance to the regular services, is natural, and when the leaven of pride and youthful confidence is injected the rightful relation of Church and Society is reversed, friction ensues, and injury rather than benefit is the result. A farther danger line is the preponderance of girls over boys, of women over men in the membership."

Blacks That Hold Till The Goods Are Worn Out.

THREE SPECIAL. Diamond Dye Blacks.

Black is the most useful of all colors, and is more worn today than ever before. Any color that is now faded and rusty can be dyed over a rich and deep black.

The three Blacks—Diamond Dye Fast Black for All Wool, Diamond Dye Fast Black for Cotton and Mixed Goods and Diamond Dye Fast Black for Silk and Feathers, are guaranteed not to fade or wash out. Diamond Dye Blacks maintain their full, rich shade till the goods are worn out. These wonderful Black dyes are simple and easy to use and no experience is needed to do good work with them; a child who can read the directions can dye successfully with Diamond Dyes.

When you decide to do your dyeing work at home, be sure and buy the Diamond Dyes. Beware of the cheap and adulterated dyes sold by some dealers for the sake of extra profit; their use means ruin of your material and garments.

Self Respect.

Self respect is the early form in which greatness appears. The man in the tavern maintains his opinions, though the whole crowd takes the other side; we are at once drawn to him. The porter or truckman refuses a reward for finding your purse, or for pulling you drowning from the river. Thereby, with the service, you have got a moral lift. You say of some new person, That man will go far,—for you see in his manners that the recognition of him by others is not necessary to him. He who rests on what he is has a destiny above destiny and can make mouths at fortune. If a man's centrality is incomprehensible to us, we may as well snub the sun. A sensible person will soon see the folly and wickedness of thinking to please. Sensible men are very rare. A sensible man does not brag, avoids introducing the names of his creditable companions, omits himself as habitually as another man obtrudes himself in the discourse, and is content with putting his fact or theme simply on its ground. You shall not tell me that your commercial house, your partners, or yourself are of importance; you shall not tell me that you have learned to know men; you shall make me feel that; your saying so unsays it. You shall not enumerate your brilliant acquaintances, nor tell me by their titles what books you have read. I am to infer that you keep good company by your better information and manners, and to infer your reading from the wealth and accuracy of your conversation.—From Emerson's Essay on Greatness.

Shakespearean Criticism.—"Feller name o' Shakspeare fooled our folks purty well las' week," said Mr. Medderrgrass. "He gave a show called Julius Cæsar down to the opeyhouse, an' blamed of the whole thing wasn't made up out o' pieces that's been spoke at the school exhibitions here for twenty year."—[Baltimore American.]

Nervous Dyspepsia.

In this age of nervous diseases, when people on all sides are falling victims to nervous prostration, paralysis, locomotor ataxia and other dreadful maladies, it is a comfort to know that you can turn to Dr. Chase's Nerve Food (pills) with absolute assurance that it will thoroughly build up and revitalize the feeble, wasted nerve cells.

Mr. Joseph Baroux, 22 McCull Street, Ottawa, Ont., writes: "I was nervous, had headaches and brain fog. I was restless at night and could not sleep. My appetite was poor, and I suffered from nervous dyspepsia. Little business cares worried and irritated me. After having used Dr. Chase's Nerve Food for about two months, I can frankly say that I feel like a new man."

"My appetite is good, I rest and sleep well, and this treatment has strengthened me wonderfully. Dr. Chase's Nerve Food is certainly the best treatment I ever used, and I say so because I want to give full credit where it is due."
