Fever, Diphtheria, La Grippe or any Serious Sickness

Require the Nerve Toning, Blood Enriching, Heart Sustaining Action of Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills.

It is well known that after any serious illness the heart and nerves are extremely weak and the blood greatly impoverished. For these conditions there is no remedy equals Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills. It restores all the vital forces of the body which disease has impaired and weakened. Mr. T. Barnicot, Aylmer, Ont., says:— "About a year ago I had a severe attack of La Grippe which left my system in an exhausted condition. I could not regain strength and was very nervous and sleepless at night, and got up in the morning as tired as when I went to bed. "I had no energy and was in a miserable state of health. "Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills, which I got at Richard's Drug Store here, changed me from a condition of misery to good health. They built up my system, strengthened my nerves, restored brisk circulation of my blood, and made a new man of me. "I heartily recommend them to any one suffering from the after effects of Grippe, or any other severe illness."

What I Saw Across the Sea.

BY S. M. BOYER.
NO. 3.

In my last letter I called the attention of my readers to a historical spot along the river pointing to a bright patch of red on a low rock near to the daub of paint you see a heavy ring. This is where the great boom of timber and chains was constructed across the river by King James and his men. This boom for months withstood all the efforts of King William's men to pass it. The English ships lay in Culmore bay laden with provisions for the starving but dauntless Protestants within the city walls. At last after months of misery and starvation Captain Browning of the Mountjoy succeeded in breaking the boom and saved the city. Our voyage is now over and the steamer draws alongside the quay of the city of Derry; we are glad to get our feet once more on terra firma. As we step from off the steamer we feel the rolling gait of the sailor as we have now been ten days at sea. Our baggage is taken to the custom house and carefully examined. The principle inquiry is to know if we have any tobacco, cigars, or seditious literature. Having gone through this ordeal we take a conveyance to our hotel which is situated near the wall. Arriving at 5 p. m. we arrange with the landlady for our rooms, and, by the way, let me advise all intending travellers to this country to be careful in making your bargains at the hotels, as everything you expect must be stated; light, soap, towels, water and service, or you will find a lot of extras in your bill when you come to settle. I rather think it is best to pay in advance. It would seem they have a way of charging by the piece. I went into a barber shop to get shaved and they made a charge of so many pennies to shave the face and another to shave the back of the neck and when this was done this still more to comb your hair. I thought when they were through you are never too old to learn. The barber wanted to brush my hat but I began to think I would have to save some pennies to use elsewhere and politely declined the offer. Most travellers pay dearly to learn and now we enter mildly on the tipping business of which I shall write at some length hereafter. We had our first experience on board the steamer and being new in the business they worked us for all they were worth. After you get through with them all you are relieved of some English silver. After taking our dinner at six o'clock we take a walk through the city being too late for an evening service. Soon we hear music and singing and find a religious service going on in one of the public squares of the city; we are at once interested and draw near to hear what is said. After a short discourse by the minister several persons took part in the service. I remember distinctly the remarks one man made or a part of them. "Time was once when we dare not worship God in the open as now but had to flee to the mountains to worship with guards; thank God, said he, 'things have now changed.' The service reminded one of home as the same hymns were sung at the close. I shook hands with the clergyman who told me he had been to Canada. Monday morning we start out to see the old city. Our first walk is on the old walls. A description of the walls might interest some of my readers. It is broad enough to drive a four horse team and coach on, one mile in circumference, and varies from 30 to 50 feet in height, I think there are 12 gates. As I started out on the wall about 9 a. m. a lad came up to me and asked for a penny to buy a bun, I was just then more interested in looking at the wall than anything else and did not pay much attention to him. After he had followed a while I told him I did not know as I had any pennies. He kept pretty close to me and after a while he drew a little nearer and said "Mr. would you mind looking," this brought the pennies and off he started. I had not gone far when an old man came up and said "Mr. would you believe I have eat nothing since Saturday." I dropped some pennies in his hand and he was soon out of sight. A short walk brings us to the ancient cathedral of St. Colombo on the wall. The berger here conducts us through this old church which has such a history. As we enter the vestibule we are shown the bomb thrown over the wall by King James' army. It is placed on a stone pedestal. The bomb itself is a large round hollow stone. When thrown into the city it contained a message from King James demanding a surrender. The berger told us it was now nearly filled with names of visitors written on slips of paper. In this church are many interesting relics, the front part of the organ is made of wood taken from the Spanish Armada and flagstaffs captured from the French. The flags have long since crumbled to dust. All who have read the history of the siege know that the trouble arose over King James' endeavour to subvert the Protestant religion and restore Catholicism. History tells us the inhabitants were reduced to such fearful extremities at the siege that the blood of a horse sold at two pence a quart, a rat brought a shilling or the price of two mice, a dog brought six shillings and a plump cat 4s. 6d. The story goes that a fat man became so terrified lest his ample dimensions should excite the covetousness of his leaner starving brethren that he hid himself in a cellar. So many fell by disease and starvation that there was no room or earth to bury them. When all the horses, cows and dogs had been eaten relief came. The Mountjoy succeeded in reaching the city. We were shown the graves of the thirteen Apprentice Boys. As we pass along the wall we see the old cannon used in the siege. I noticed the dates on several, 1690. Having made the circuit of the wall we return to our hotel. To think of what these walls have witnessed, where else in these realms can we point to a place whose inhabitants have successfully stood a couple of sieges, and of whom it has been written that their bravery changed the fortunes of a nation and wrecked the hopes of a falling dynasty. The place teems with relics of the past. The old grey walls themselves are as perfect as when from their ramparts defiance was hurled in the face of the Royalist in 1688. In the afternoon there was a celebration of the opening of the gates after the siege. The Orangemen from different parts of the country meet here annually on this date to celebrate that event. About 2,000 marched around the walls with their banners and headed by bands playing. In my next I will finish my account of what I saw in Ireland.

PAINE'S CELERY
COMPOUND

The Only Banisher of Disease and True Life-Giver

Afflicted Women.

The Wondrous Medicine That Cures When All Others Fail.

Thankful and grateful women throughout Canada take pleasure in recommending Paine's Celery Compound to their afflicted sisters. The marvelous medicine promptly gives that health and strength that all wearied, nervous, despondent and brokendown women so much need.

Jessie M. Ross, Quyon, Que., writes as follows:

"It affords me much pleasure to testify to the great good that Paine's Celery Compound has done for me. I was completely rundown in health and a victim of female weakness, and after using three bottles of the great Compound I was completely cured. It is the best blood purifier I know of, and I recommend it to all who suffer as I did."

The End Surprised Him.

Always read a letter to the end, and hear a story to the end, before you are too much elated or depressed.

A popular physician was much pleased with a certain aerate water, and by his assiduous recommendation procured for it a celebrity it justly deserved. The doctor acted solely in the interests of humanity generally, and expected no return.

To his surprise there came one morning an effusive letter from the company, stating that his recommendations had done them so much good that they "ventured to send him a hundred—"

Here the page came to an end. "This will never do," said the doctor. "It is very kind, but I could not think of accepting anything."

Here he turned the page, and found the sentence ran:—

"—of our circulars for distribution."

To Nervous Women

Mrs D W Cronsberry, of 108 Richmond Street, Toronto, says:— "My daughter's nerves were so exhausted and she was so weak and debilitated that she had to give up work, and was almost a victim of nervous prostration. Dr Chase's Nerve Food proved an excellent remedy in restoring her to health and strength. After having used four boxes she is at work again healthy and happy. 50 cts a box, at all dealers.

She—I visit this romantic spot every year. He—Indeed! Are your stays long! She—Sir! ! !—"Pick-Me-Up."
