The Conversation Club.

In a suburban town, a Conversation Club has brightened winter village-life for a company of a dozen young women. The club meets on the second and forth Wednesdays of each month at the different homes of its members in alphabetical turn. Realizing that talk is at its freest around a feasting board, the sessions of the club take place in the dining-room through the courses of a simple luncheon, the giving of which is, on the part of each hostess, the payment of her membership dues. Each member is chairman of a meeting, the duty never devolving upon the hostess of the day. The chairman announces at the meeting previous to the one for which she is responsible the topic for discussion at the next, having a committee of three members besides herself to act as leaders in the discussion. It is, however, a fixed rule of the club that every member shall participate in every discussion. The subjects are left entirely in the hands of the committee of the day, and may be the latest current topic, or prehistoric, as it elects. With the coffee and finger-bowls, a single recent book is talked over, one member of the day's committee acting as critic, i. e., the opinions of the members having been heard, she gives the view taken by two or three of the most prominent professional critics. Members must read the book, but not any criticism till after the meeting. The club has flourished through several winters, with no diminution of interest.

An Honorable Medicine

That appeals to the best judgment of the best people is Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills, the greatest prescription of Dr. A. W. Chase, the famous Recipe Book author. By acting directly and specifically on the liver, kidneys and bowels, this popular family medicine thoroughly cures liver complaint, biliousness, kidney disease, constipation and the accompanying pains and aches. Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills act promptly and naturally. One pill a dose, 25 cents a box.

Routing His Enemies.

One very dark night, as Mr. A. passed the last lamp and entered upon the field road that extended from the boundary of the busy town of Millby to one of its rural suburbs, he decided to wait for company before proceeding any farther, as only a few weeks earlier a daring outrage had been committed in the loneliest part of the route.

Very shortly a Mr. B. approached the spot, and he, noticing a half-obscured figure loitering a short distance ahead, at once became uneasy, and came to a standstill in order to watch A.'s movement from the opposite side of the way; each thus becoming an object of suspicion to the other.

Only a short time had been passed in this fashion when he should advance towards the spot but the redoubtable Mr. C., a gentleman who had freely boasted of the way he would treat that garrotter if he were lucky enough to get the chance. When Mr. C. saw what he took to be a brace of villains lying in wait for him he likewise came to a dead stop.

"Now then, there! What are you fellows after?" he cried.

Messrs. A. and B., hearing C.'s well-known voice, eagerly but siently advanced out of the semi-darkness, each meaning to reassure him as regards himself and to warn him of the other. C., however, regarded their mysterious advance as a menace, and promptly fled. His two friends, of course, recognised each other, and on following him up, found him informing the guardians of the peace that a gang of ruffians had just waylaid him, and that his escape was entirely owing to his strength and agility.

Messrs. A. and B. resolved not to enlighten C. at once as to the true facts, and for weeks kept him in ignorance, meanwhile enjoying to the full C.'s oft-repeated vision of the affair, in which his own valour figured so conspicuously.

Limping, Limping

From corns? No necessity for that. Putnam's Painless Corn Extractor removes all corns, large or small, in about twenty-four hours. This is reliable information, your druggist will substantiate it if you ask him. Be sure and get Putnam's, it causes no pain.

"Success" Subjects For Debate.

"Success" for March furnishes the following suggestions for debates to aspiring young orators and the members of lyceums and clubs:-

Resolved, That carelessness is a greater hindrance to commercial success than laziness.

Resolved, That early marriage hinders a young man's success.

Resolved, That success is more dependent upon ability than opportunity.

Resolved, That the present system of teaching in our public schools is not such as to give the average pupil a knowledge of the real principles of successful living.

Bentley's Liniment in a little sugar will quickly relieve a cold, sore throat, or hoarseness.

"Your narrative is too highly-coloured," remarked the editor, returning the bulky manuscript.

"In what way?" inquired the disappointed author.

"Why," replied the editor, "in the very first chapter you make the old man turn purple with rage, the villain turn green with envy, the hero turn white with anger, the heroine turn red with blushes, and coachman turn blue with cold."

A Minister's Experience.

So far as is known there is no other treatment for piles so wonderfully prompt and effective as Dr. Chase's Ointment. This preparation has never yet been known to fail to cure piles. It stops the itching at once, and positively and thoroughly cures piles of every form.

Rev. J. A. Baldwin, Baptist Minister, Arkona, Ont., writes: "For over twenty years I was a great sufferer from itching and protruding piles. I used many remedies and underwent three very painful surgical operations, all without obtaining any permanent benefit. When about to give up in despair, I was told to use Dr. Chase's Ointment, and did so, finding relief at once. I used three boxes, and am almost entirely cured. The itching is all gone. I have advised others to use it, believing it would cure them, as it has me."

The March "New" Lippincott.

A new novel by Maurice Thompson, the first since "Alice of Old Vincennes," appears—complete—in the March "New" Lippincott Magazine. This is a delightful, straightforward love-story in Mr. Thompson's sweetest vein. As in "Alice of Old Vincennes," he selected his native State, Indiana, for a background, though some of the most significant incidents occur in picturesque New Orleans and during a trip on the lovely, languid waters of Bayou Teche. Three vivid characters in the story compel more than a word in passing, while even the side-lights are distinctly original. Frederick Breyton, a young New York millionaire, who yearns for "something different," makes a bicycle trip through the West. When he reaches the little town of Hawford, Indiana, he finds what fate had in store for him. No girl has yet made a lasting impression on the fine young fellow, who is a bit of a poet, and when he meets Rosalynde Banderet his heart is ready for the germ of love. This is unfortunate, because the girl is engaged to Alfred Rayle, an impoverished artist, a cripple, whose divine eyes and marvellous magnetism make him a rival not to be lightly considered. The author's skill in dealing with the situation is magnificent. He gives free rein to his imagination, and the result is an idyllic, delightful plot which must be read, it cannot be guessed.

Interviewer—Alderman Swelhed, I have come to get your views proposed change in the curriculum of the grammar school.

Alderman Swelhed—Curriculum! What's that? I'm ag'in it, whatever it is.

Alderman Swelhed, reading the report of the interviewer next morning: "Our distinguished townsman, Mr. M. T. Swelhed, was found at his charming home, surrounded by abundant indication of ripe scholarship and sturdy common sense. In reply to our reporter's question he said:

"I do not desire to force my opinions upon the public, but this I will say, that I have given to this question long and studious attention, incidentally examining into the curricula of institutions of learning both at home and abroad, and, although I find in the existing course of study not a few matters for condemnation, still, upon the whole I cannot say that I should advise any radical change until I have further time to examine into the subject."

A WIDESPREAD TROUBLE IN SPRING TIME.

Paine's Celery Compound The Only Remedy That Cures and Saves Life.

One of the most prevalent and fatal of troubles at this season is Kidney disease.

It comes on as silently as a cat steals upon its prey, and too often wrecks life before the victims are fully aware of their danger.

Do not disregard the early symptoms of Kidney disease, some of which are backache, constipation, indigestion with headache, and a constant call to make water which has abundant sediment of a brickly color.

The prompt and honest use of Paine's Celery Compound will quickly banish every symptom of disordered Kidneys. The great medicine has cured and given a new life to thousands in the past; it will do the same good work for all sufferers today.

Mr. M. Maher, Hairdresser, St. John's, Nfld., says:

"I suffered terribly for two years from Kidney trouble and Dyspepsia. I was completely rundown and could not eat or sleep. One of the ablest city doctors attended me, but no good results followed his work. Happily, a friend advised me to use Paine's Celery Compound. I procured a supply, and the first dose relieved me. I have used eight bottles, and now sleep well, appetite is good, and I am as strong as ever before. I recommend Paine's Celery Compound to all."

Revolution in Cheesemaking.

Superintendent Henry of the United States Agricultural-Experiment Station today announced that Professors Russell and Babcock of that department had made a discovery which would revolutionize cheesemaking. Their discovery is that bacteria have nothing to do with cheese-curing, but that a fluid called galactase, which is secreted by the cow with the milk, cures the cheese, and that cheese cures better at a low temperature than at medium temperatures. The cheesemaking world has always believed that medium temperatures were necessary for the proper curing of cheese, because the bacteria, which were considered necessary for the proper curing, would not live at low temperatures. The discoverers of galactase declare that the bacteria are unnecessary, and, if anything, harmful, and low temperature will kill them, and at the same time allow the galactase to do its work better.—[Madison (Wis.) Correspondence, February 5, Chicago Record.

Fools Use Washes and Snuffs.

Wise people use Catarrhzone, why? Snuffs reach only a limited area, washes are limited in their application also. Catarrhzone reaches every air cell, the entire mucous surface of the throat, lungs and nasal passages. It requires little wisdom to see that this is the only way that Catarrh, Bronchitis and Asthma can be reached. Catarrhzone is simply wonderful. A new size, 25c., and any druggist will enable you to try it. N. C. Poison & Co., Kingston, Ont., and Hartford, Conn.

Would Have Her Money's Worth.

An elderly lady called on a photographer to have a cabinet portrait taken. When the artist removed the plate he told her she need not sit any longer. On coming out from the dark room he found her still bolt upright in the chair, with that look of petrified despair on her face peculiar to the photographer's pose.

"You needn't sit any longer," said the frightened artist.

"What is that?" she hoarsely whispered, without changing a muscle.

"I say you needn't sit there now; I have finished," he explained.

"Ain't I to pay you three-and-sixpence?" she interrogated, in the same tone, with her eyes strained on the mark.

"Yes."

"Well, then, do you mean to say I'm to give you three-and-sixpence for only five minutes in the chair? I'll have a full ten minutes for the money, an' that's little enough in all conscience." And she had it.

When it Hurts To Cough

The cough that hurts, the cough that gets tight in the chest is daily setting deeper and deeper into the bronchial tubes and is making directly for the lungs, to become pneumonia, inflammation of the lungs or consumption.

Such coughs are sometimes referred to as "graveyard coughs," because they usually bring their victim to that last resting place.

Dr. Chase's Syrup of Linseed and Turpentine has long been known as mother's favorite remedy for croup, bronchitis, coughs and colds. It gains in popularity every day and now has by far the largest sale of any similar preparation.

It loosens the tightness in the chest, allays the inflammation, cures the cold and prevents pneumonia, consumption and other lung troubles. 25 cents, all dealers, or Edmanson, Bates & Co., Toronto.
