BUY AT HOME.

Our readers cannot too often be reminded of the fact that they are doing an injury to their town and county when they send their money away to other towns and cities for the purchase of things that often they could buy to quite as good advantage at home.

The merchants of our community are often much abused, for when customers have money to spend they send to the department stores, but when they want credit they come to him.

No doubt this bad habit of buying abroad would in a great measure be overcome if the local merchants would take the energetic means of bringing their goods to the notice of possible customers, as are taken by the managers of the larger city stores.

UNCLE SAM'S SPOTTERS.

Especially the Man in Europe Who Looks Out for Smugglers.

"Uncle Sam's large and well organized secret service," says S. H. Adams in Ainslee's, "is made up mostly of men who come properly under the head of detectives with police powers, but it has its class of bona fide spotters, whose entire duty it is to ingratiate themselves with persons suspected of having designs to evade the custom house duties and to warn the baggage inspectors at this end of the impending swindle.

"In cleverness, address and adaptability the secret service spotter is easily at the head of his profession and even ranks with the trained experts of the European diplomatic corps. It is essential that he should be a man of the world, for he must associate with all kinds of people on equal terms.

"There is always a number of these agents in Paris, because of the great American trade there. They live at the fashionable hotels and live the life apparently of flaneurs and boulevardiers. In all lines of trade that concern dutiable goods they are experts, and no large purchase by an American in Paris is unknown to them.

"Many a time some man who has made a heavy purchase of diamonds or laces and so disposed them that he felt sure of being able to get them through the port undiscovered has been passed on the dock by a chance acquaintance of the voyage over who, unseen, presses a little note into the hand of the customs inspector. That note tells all that the wily smuggler would wish to keep secret, and his baggage is mercilessly ransacked until the hidden articles are brought to light.

Marks of the Merchant.

Did you ever notice the queer little letters on the outside of the boxes in the shops and wonder what they meant? For instance, when the girl at the glove counter handed you the tan sizes, did you not note on the edge of the box a legend something like this, "Ti-Gee," or something on that order? To be sure you have.

Those marks mean something. They say to the clerk or to the chief of the store: "I was bought for 75 cents, and I am selling for $1. Look at me, and observe my proper price," or words to that effect.

Ten letters are required to carry out the

The Pastor's Pity.—A prominent pastor of a Durham, Ont., church writes: "I suffered intensely from inflammatory Rheumatism. Just one bottle of South American Rheumatic Cure healed me. I pity those who suffer so much and do not know how near they are to a cure. I feel like proclaiming it from the house-tops."

plan—that is, a letter for each numeral from 1 to 0. The terms most in use are "gas fixture," "black horse," "misfortune," "importance," "Blackstone," "fish tackle," "cash profit," "so friendly," "gainful job," "joiners' tax," "brown sugar," "now, be sharp," "elucidator" and "of industry."

Each of these words or phrases contains ten letters and only ten letters, and there is no letter repeated. Suppose the private mark to be "brown sugar" and the article tagged a cut glass decanter. There is apt to be some such combination as this on it, "War—Nsr."

In case two letters come together, it is frequently the practice to avoid repetitions by using some other letter which does not appear in the key word. For instance, if it were desired to express $4.77 in the "brown sugar" marking "wuu" would be the ordinary way, but to keep from repeating a "blind" letter, say x, is introduced, and the sign therefore would be "wux." — New York Herald.

The Canadian Order of Foresters.

This purely Canadian fraternal, benevolent and insurance society was organized in 1879 and now has a membership of upwards of 40,000, distributed in every province of the Dominion, to which its operations are confined. The society gives insurance to its members in policies of $500, $1,000, $1,500 or $2,000, the latter sum being the limit on any life. The premiums, payable monthly in advance, are as follows:

Table with 4 columns: Between the ages of, On $500, On $1,000, On $1,500, On $2,000. Rows for age groups 18-25, 25-30, 30-35, 35-40, 40-45.

After paying upwards of one million and three-quarters in death claims, the Order had a surplus in the insurance department of $1,001,000 at the end of January last, all of which is invested in gilt-edged securities in Canada, or is on deposit in the best monetary institutions of the country.

The Sick and Funeral Benefit Branch is a very popular department and upwards of 22,000 of the members of the society are participating in this feature of the order. The benefits are $3.00 per week for the first two weeks of illness, and $5.00 per week for the following ten weeks, altogether $56.00 during any one year, besides a funeral benefit of $30.00. In case of continued illness, $56 is paid each year in sick benefits. The fees, monthly in advance, are as follows:

Table with 2 columns: Between 18 and 25 years, 25 and 30 years, 30 and 35 years, 35 and 40 years, 40 and 45 years. Corresponding rates in cents.

During the year 1900 over $63,000 were paid out in sick and funeral benefits, and $195,000 in death benefits. All physically and morally qualified males, between the ages of 18 and 45 years, who are not disqualified on account of occupation, are accepted for membership.

For further particulars enquire of any of the officers or members of the Order, or address,

The Club Could Not be in Debt.

At the beginning of the football season a member of Parliament, well known for his generosity to junior football clubs, received a letter from three lads in the district, informing him that they had started a football club and had elected him president, concluding with the hope that he would send them a subscription, and signed themselves respectively as captain, secretary, and treasurer.

The M. P., in accordance with his invariable custom sent the boys a sovereign and thought no more about the subject. Imagine his surprise, then, on receiving a second letter a fortnight or so after the first, worded as follows:—

"DEAR SIR,—We are sorry to tell you we could not keep our club going, as we could not get a ground, but we thought you would not want your pound back, so we took a trip to Manchester with it. We went to Bellevue Gardens and the theatre, and enjoyed ourselves very much, but the expense for the three came to 1s. 6d. over your sovereign, so will you please send the eightpence by return post, so that our club will not wind up in debt?"

Couldn't Estimate its Value!

—Dr. Agnew's Cure for the Heart never fails. It relieves in 30 minutes, it cures. It is a beacon-light to lead you back to health. W. H. Musselman, of G. A. R., Weisport, Pa., says: "Two bottles of Dr. Agnew's Cure for the Heart entirely cured me of palpitation and smothering spells. Its value cannot be estimated."—139 Sold by Garden Bros.

Pedantic old gentleman (to restaurant waiter): "I believe it is improper to speak disrespectfully of one's elders!"

Restaurant Waiter: "So I've heard, sir."

Pedantic old Gentleman: "Then I will be silent concerning this fowl you have just brought me."

An Hotel Composed of Trees.

The most remarkable hotel in the world is in California, on the road between Santa Cruz and San Jose. It is a well known fact that California possesses the largest trees in the world; and a shrewd hotel-keeper has conceived the idea of using a group of these mammoths, thus saving himself the cost of building or rent. The hollow trunk of one tree, whose circumference is about twenty-two yards, is arranged as a reception-room, and the surrounding garden, sheltered by a thick roof of spreading branches, serves as dining-room and smoking-room.

Nerviline Cures Pain.

This is the testimony of sufferers in every part of the Dominion. Mr. Benjamin Dillon, of Leeds, Ont., states, "I am not in the habit of puffing up proprietary medicines, but I feel it my duty to add to the testimony as to the marvellous value of Nerviline as a remedy for pain. Nothing I think equals it as a universal remedy and householders ought to feel it as much a necessity as bread itself." Sold by dealers in medicine everywhere.

Customer: "Upon my word, your chef is a genius! This menu is most delightful. How can he prepare so many new dishes?"

Waiter: "Well, sometimes, sir, he just changes the names of the old ones."

Mr. H. A. Peters, the popular commercial traveller of Moncton, writes, Sept. 1, 1900: "Have used Bentley's Linctum for a lame horse. Can highly recommend it."

Mr. Suet, the actor, one evening arrived at the stage entrance of Drury Lane Theatre very wet, having encountered a heavy storm, when a brother artist addressed him said, "I am afraid you are very wet, Suet," and he answered, "Call me not Suet. I'm dripping."
