

The Baby Sick?

Then probably it's a cold. Babies catch cold so easily and recover so slowly. Not slowly, however, when you use Vapo-Cresolene. Then a single night is all that is necessary for a cure. You just put Vapo-Cresolene in the vaporizer, light the lamp beneath, and place near the crib. While baby sleeps he breathes in the healing vapor. Cold loosens, inflamed membranes heal, and all trouble ceases. It's a perfect specific for whooping-cough and croup.

Vapo-Cresolene is sold by druggists everywhere. A Vapo-Cresolene outfit, including the Vaporizer and Lamp, which should last a life-time, and a bottle of Cresolene, complete, $1.50; extra supplies of Cresolene 25 cents and 50 cents. Illustrated booklet containing physicians' testimonials free upon request. Vapo-Cresolene Co., 150 Fulton St., New York, U.S.A.

THE NEW ARRIVAL.

They nuzzled wuz a baby ist
Es smart as ours—naw sir!
An' my paw—yes, an' my maw, thinks
A nufol lot uv her.

Sumbuddy foun' her, my paw sed,
In a ole holler tree;
An' they ist tho' they'd bring her home,
Es companee fer me.

Her teeth is all wored off—they are—
A-chewin' bark, paw sed;
An' they ain't hardly enny hair
A-tall upon her head.

She likes t' squall most enny time,
But when it's nite th' best;
Cuz then nobuddy in th' house
Kin git a bit uv rest.

Unless she is a better gurl—
Nen you ist bet she'll see—
Cuz she'll ist git put back into
Annother holler tree.

A Woodstocker Appreciated.

The following article appears in The Shoe & Leather Journal of Toronto, accompanied by a picture of Mr. Dickinson of this town:—"There is probably something peculiarly invigorating about the zephyrs floating in from old Atlantic's briny billows—something that causes the people down there to be up-to-date and on the hustle—well, never mind now what you are going to say, but, at least, all shoe and leather men will admit that the Maritimers are away ahead when it comes to making shoe-packs, larrigans and so forth.

There is one make of shoe-packs, however, which seems to have a cinch in certain sections, and it owes its origin to the inventive genius of a Nova Scotian and is manufactured entirely by a New Brunswicker.

The Henderson Patent Larrigan is manufactured by Chas. D. Dickinson, of Woodstock, N. B., who bought the patent rights from its inventor, Thos. Henderson, of Parrsboro, N. S. The name of Dickinson coupled to the leather trade is as well-known in Woodstock as were Noah's and the Ark on Mount Ararat.

Chas. D. Dickinson is a son of J. D. Dickinson, of J. D. Dickinson & Sons and up, to a few years ago, was a member of that firm which is now one of the best known sole leather manufacturing concerns in the Maritimes, and under the management of his brother. When he opened his factory a few years ago, he went into upper leather manufacture as well as that of shoe-packs, but of late has confined his attention solely to the latter having found his best expectations realized.

The business has increased steadily, and his output now reaches far to the westward.

Two Examples—One Shining.

Frances Hodgson Burnett was visiting in New England city, and her hostess, who did much home-missionary work, volunteered to take her to a home which was a shining example of what might be done on the most slender income by a woman who knew what good management meant. Who led the way to a wretched neighborhood. They stopped at a tiny tenement, which even outdoor showed the radiance of cleanliness. Mrs. Burnett's guide did not stop to knock; she walked in and led her guests unceremoniously through the few tidy, spotless rooms till they came to a kitchen, where a woman stood over a steaming washtub.

"This is one of the few model homes of the poor," explained the dispenser of charity; "the husband earns only seven dollars a week his wife makes a few extra dollars by washing, and there are five children to bring up on such an income. I discovered them in the dead of winter, when work was not to be found, nearly starving and frozen. This class would almost rather die than take charity." Mrs. Burnett says as long as she lives she can never forget the flush of shame and helpless misery which reddened the face of the mistress of that humble tenement. Such an incident emphasizes the need of human sympathy and fine feeling in the woman who dispenses public charity.—[Good Housekeeping.

A Unique Occasion.

It is not every man who, failing in business and making a compromise with his creditors, afterwards finds himself able to pay a hundred cents on the dollar of his old debt. Still fewer probably would be found willing to do so, even were they able. Yet this is exactly what Mr. E. F. R. Zoellner, of Mount Forest, Ontario, has done. Some years ago, this gentleman took over the Mount Forest Furniture Factory which, owing to the sickness of its then manager and other causes, was having a hard fight for existence. Mr. Zoellner made a heroic struggle against the adverse conditions under which he started, but in spite of all efforts he had in 1896 to make an assignment, paying his creditors a dividend of 35 cents on the dollar. According to our commercial code of morality of course, the matter ended there. But Mr. Zoellner was something more than a merely honest man, and he told his creditors that should he live, they would some day be paid every cent of his indebtedness in full. Now he has kept his word; and to commemorate this event, rare in the history of Canada, last Wednesday evening at the Arlington Hotel, Toronto, he tendered a complimentary banquet to his old creditors and business friends. Among those present were, Hon. J. Gibson, Attorney-General for Ontario; Mr. T. C. Irving, of Bradstreets; Mr. Snyder and Mr. Shaw, of the Canadian Furniture Manufacturers, limited; Mr. Halstead, ex mayor of Mount Forest, etc. Many speeches were delivered on the occasion and many highly complimentary things said about Mr. Zoellner. We in common with all who know the circumstances of the case, congratulate the business community of Canada on having produced such a conspicuous example of the combination of the opportunity with the man.—Monetary Times.

Consumption Is a Contagious Disease.

The Philadelphia Board of Health has declared consumption a contagious disease. Cases are not to be isolated, but the immediate friends of consumptives are asked to exercise the greatest care to prevent infection. An absolute safeguard against consumption is found in Catarrh-zone. It maintains an antiseptic condition of the body and prevents the development of the germ. No better proof of this can be offered than its striking influence upon the disease when fully established. It aids expectoration, soothes the cough, and by its antiseptic properties conduces to the comfort of the sufferer. Consumptives and their friends are strongly urged to use Catarrh-zone. It is a sure preventative, and those who use it are perfectly immune to consumption, diphtheria, etc. Supported and endorsed by the highest medical authorities everywhere. THE FARMER'S HORSE.

For All Around Work the Clydesdale Is a Fine Animal.

The good draft horse is the one for the farmer to raise. There is no comparison between the drafter and the trotter as the farmer's horse. When the farmer can afford to keep trotters as well as drafters, all well and good, but the drafters he must have. The Clydesdale is at home at any kind of work on the farm—plowing or harrowing, seeding or gathering the grain, is quite in his element hauling heavy loads to market, always commands a ready sale, and if he is a few seconds longer in running to town than his trotting brother he gets there all the same. An authority on the subject says:

"It takes a larger and better horse to be a drafter now than it did some years ago. Good draft horses are all built on the same plan. They have size, width and quality, good constitution, and so on, but they differ marvelously for all that.

"Really high class drafters have a certain amount of range. The little, close to the ground chunk, the Dutchman's horse, so called, is not the horse to make a high class drafter. No one wants a leggy horse, but if the depth of rib and flank are right, if width, substance and quality are right, the horse that is far enough off the ground to move himself properly is the one to raise. He will have a prouder, more masculine carriage and set to the head, and his presence will be more impressive than if he approaches the deformed stage in his shortness of limb. The draft horse, the upstanding chap, is the one to buy.

The Governor's Wife a Prisoner.—Mrs. Z. A. Van Loven is the wife of the governor of the county jail, Napanee, Ont., and was a great sufferer from rheumatism. When the best doctors in the community and "specialists" failed to help her, she buried her scepticism of proprietary remedies and purchased South American Rheumatic Cure. 4 bottles cured her.—42

Table Linen.

It is almost as essential that table and bed linen shall be properly hung out as that they shall be well washed. If they are allowed to dry out of shape, stretching and pulling them straight wears them much more than use. Hang tablecloths and sheets evenly across the line, end down. The warp threads are much stronger than the woof. If stretched habitually lengthwise, the things will split along the fold. Indeed, everything washable lasts longer if hung to dry so that the weight while wet comes mainly on the long way threads.

Those who have used Laxa-Liver Pills say they have no equal for relieving and curing Constipation, Sick Headache, Biliousness, Dyspepsia, Coated Tongue, Foul Breath, Heart Burn, Water Brash or any disease or disorder of the stomach, liver or bowels.

Mrs. George Williams, Fairfield Plains, Ont., writes as follows: "As there are so many other medicines offered for sale in substitution for Laxa-Liver Pills I am particular to get the genuine, as they far surpass anything else for regulating the bowels and correcting stomach disorders."

Laxa-Liver Pills are purely vegetable; neither gripe, weaken nor sicken, are easy to take and prompt to act.

A Little Tale From the Persian.

There was once a young man who loved a beautiful maiden, but he was poor.

One day he asked her to be his wife, and she answered:

"I love you. Still I do not wish to be a poor man's wife. Go and get money and then return and we will live happily ever after."

The young man went away and ere long began to sway the markets. He made millions and still more millions, and the maiden waited.

When the young man had ten millions, he wanted to outshine one who had fifty millions and when that wish was gratified he longed for a hundred millions, then he yearned for two hundred millions, and at last he set a billion up as the amount he wished to accumulate.

When one day in those parts, a certain old maid lay dying, she said:

"There's no use expecting a hog to keep his mind on any thing else after he gets his feet in the trough."—Chicago Times Herald.
