WILLIAM A. HAYWARD

High Sheriff of Carleton County.

William A. Hayward has received the appointment of High Sheriff of Carleton County. His appointment has not yet been gazetted but probably will be this week.

Mr. Hayward was born at Rockland in this county in 1844. He is a son of the late William Hayward. He has always lived in this county where in his business relations he has expended hundreds of thousands of dollars. He conducted an extensive lumbering business for twenty years and for the past twenty-five years has been buying sheep and lambs for the American market. In both of these branches of business together he has paid out an average of $20,000 a year for the past twenty-five years.

In 1865 Mr. Hayward married Miss Amelia J. Brown, daughter of C. D. Brown, Rockland. Mr. and Mrs. Hayward have two daughters and five sons living: Mrs. Curtis, wife of Dr. Curtis, Hartland, and Miss Hayward the youngest of the family who lives at home; Frank, Clarence, George, William and Amos, the first four of whom are married. All of Mr. Hayward's sons are farmers living on their own farms, within a mile of their father. Mr. Hayward's only brother is the Rev. A. H. Hayward the well known Baptist preacher of Florenceville. He has two sisters, Mrs. Pagett and Mrs. James Belyea, both of Windsor in this county.

Mr. Hayward was a member of the County Council for three years. He has always taken an active interest in politics and has been an invaluable member of the liberal party all his life. His name has frequently been mentioned as a possible candidate for political honours, but Mr. Hayward has always refused to be a candidate for anything that would take him farther from home than the County Council.

The new sheriff has yet to get his first introduction to law and the lawyers. He has never sued nor been sued, nor has he ever been a witness in a suit. He was on a jury only once in his life.

Fishermen will be glad to know that Mr. Hayward is an enthusiastic angler.

Johnston-Jackson.

A quiet social event took place last Wednesday afternoon at 2.30, at the residence of the brides mother, Broadway, when Miss Annie Bell Jackson was united in Marriage to William A. Johnston, a popular fireman of the C. P. R. Only a few of the immediate relatives and friends were present. The bride was prettily arranged in white. The ceremony was performed by the Rev. J. W. Clark. After the wedding Mr. and Mrs. Johnston left for Montreal on the express. They returned home on Monday. They will occupy the Charles Burpee house on Richmond street, which is being fitted up for them.

A Party From Fredericton.

W. A. B. McLellan of the Bank of British North America, S. W. Babbitt, of the Receiver General's office, H. S. Murray of the Royal Bank of Canada and S. H. Stirling, all of Fredericton are spending a week in Woodstock at the Aberdeen hotel. On Monday evening Mr. McLellan's birthday, his three companions from Fredericton and T. G. Farris of St. John and Mr. Carroll of Calais, presented him with a handsome briar pipe. A number of Woodstock men were present. A very pleasant evening was spent.

Reid-Lawrence.

At Upper Knoxford on Wednesday last, April 17th, Edner Reid and Miss Mary Lawrence were united in marriage by the Rev. S. Greenlaw. The bride was richly and beautifully attired in white. She was the recipient of many valuable presents.—(Highway please copy.)

ZERA SEMON, the magician, who has given many entertainments in the opera house in Woodstock, died a few days ago in the Southern States.

15 MINUTES ROUGH HOUSE.

Checker Board Avenue, the Scene of many Battles, Agala Figures in the Police Court.

The street that runs from Main street down past the Woodstock Carriage factory, known to the under world as Checker Board Avenue, has in recent times been the scene of many a hard fought fight, and many a Bacchanalian carousal. At times when the fight has run high Balaclava has loomed up as a mere school boy's tussle, and when friendship has reigned on this celebrated avenue it has been the scene of social functions that outrivalled the Sherry dinner.

A scrap that took place on the avenue last Thursday between Mrs. Ruben Shaw of the one part, and Mrs. Sadie Aboud of the other part, gave rise to the case of The King vs. Sadie Aboud, which was tried in the police court on Saturday morning.

As in all great battles, there was a preliminary exchange of hostilities between the outposts. Mrs. Aboud's little boy came home with his nose somewhat disfigured, and his tale of woe was that Mrs. Shaw's boy had struck him with a rock. Mrs. Aboud gave chase to the retreating assailant, and in the course of pursuit came in contact with Mrs. Shaw. They went to Mrs. Aboud's house to examine the ruined nose. Mrs. Shaw denied that her son had been the assailant. A conversation of some warmth ensued, which ended in a fight. Mrs. Aboud in giving her testimony said that Mrs. Shaw called her a d— liar and hit her with a hammer and that under the circumstances she felt compelled to eject her from the house. In her broken English she said that during the tussle "there was hollerin' and talkin' all the time; and very goot talkin' too." She said in defence of the character of her son, "I never had no bum boy, who drink too much rum and such thing." She went on to say "I run a decent house; I don't run no rough house like Mrs. Shaw. I never go near such people." She and her husband sometimes get drunk and come to my house."

Mrs. Shaw said that Mrs. Aboud had invited her to the Aboud residence to examine the injured nose of the youthful Aboud and while there Mrs. Aboud took her by the hair, mused her about and threw her on the ground. One Lizzie Day, who at the time was sewing for Mrs. Aboud corroborated the testimony of Mrs. Shaw. She testified that Mrs. Aboud did, with malice aforethought and animus furandi, unduly yank Mrs. Shaw about by the hair and throw her on the ground. She constituted herself a Peace Convention and a Board of Arbitration and intervened to bring the hostilities to a close.

The Police Magistrate imposed a fine of five dollars and costs on Mrs. Aboud or one month in jail.

W. P. Jones appeared for the complainant and J. C. Hartley for the defendant.

Death of Mrs. Edward Craig.

Mrs. Edward Craig died at the residence of R. H. Montgomery, Broadway, on Saturday evening last at 9.30 o'clock. The deceased lady was out for a drive on Thursday afternoon and retired to her room early in the evening. Some time during the night she was stricken with paralysis, and was found next morning lying on the floor in an unconscious condition. Medical aid was summoned, but she never regained consciousness, and passed away on Saturday. The funeral took place on Monday. Rev. W. B. Wiggins officiated at the house, and Ven. Archdeacon Neales at the grave. The remains were laid to rest in the lower church burying ground. Mrs. Craig leaves one brother in Boston, George McIndou, and three nieces, Mrs. W. B. Jewett, Mrs. Henry Sinecock, and Miss Hattie Raymond, all of Houlton, Me.

Tompkins-London.

At the residence of Mr. and Mrs. John London, East Hodgdon, Me., today at noon, their daughter, Maud Alice, will be united in marriage to Lincoln Wilnot Tompkins, of Northampton.

If it is asthma, bronchitis, croup, or any such trouble, use Vapo-Cresolene. All Druggists.

So many inquiries have reached THE DELINEATOR in relation to the Etiquette of Weddings etc., that Mrs. Frank Learned devotes her article on Social Observances in the May number of THE DELINEATOR to the question of Weddings and the customs that are associated with them.

The fashions for those who mourn are constantly undergoing slight changes. The May number of THE DELINEATOR describes in detail the materials and general appearance of nine mourning gowns. The article speaks of the various fabrics and also the various customs now most in vogue.

God Save the King.

The Orpheus Club was formed in February of this year. Its object is the study of literature, and this concert was given for the purpose of raising money for the purchase of books.

The concert was very highly appreciated by the audience and the young ladies have laid the foundation of a good concert reputation for themselves. The next time they come before the public they will need a larger hall.

Below are given the officers of the club:— President, Miss Nellie Winslow; Vice Pres., Miss Ella Nelson; Sec., Miss Edna Wise; Treas, Mrs. Norman McIntyre.

Miss Winslow is a graduate of Wilberforce College, Ohio, and both she and Miss Wise distinguished themselves while they were at the grammar school in Woodstock.

Their club deserves the hearty support of the town and when its existence and its object become better known no doubt it will receive it.

North American Life Assurance Co.

The following articles is taken from the February number of the Economist, the best recognized insurance critic in Canada. The Economist is published in Toronto, Ont:—

Among the most progressive of life assurance companies is the North American of this city.

Notwithstanding the fact that last year was not altogether favorable to the business of life assurance The North American issued more insurance than in any other year except one in its twenty year history, and stands fourth, of all Canadian and British companies doing business in Canada, with $4,153,000 of business written during the year. The management of Mr. Wm McCabe together with the able assistance of the secretary, Mr. L. Goldman, and the medical director, Dr. J. Thorburn, have effected this excellent result. The North American is today among the most stable of our institutions, which is a most comforting fact for policyholders. Moreover the excess of assets over liabilities is greater in the case of The North American than in any other company, affording very ample security. The Company now has on its books insurances in force to amount of $25,000,000, and the popularity of the Company is maintained by the constant efforts of the management to meet the increasing demands of insurers for sound investment, coupled with secure insurance.

Messrs. Holyoke & Mallory are agents of the North American Life Assurance Co., for the district of Carleton, Victoria and Madawaska counties.

CANTERBURY STATION.

Mrs. Jameston, widow of the late Robert Jameston died at his son's home Friday. The burial was on Sunday. Rev. C. N. Barton officiated.

Mrs. Charles Miller is home from the Fredericton Hospital.

Luke Lawson and James Johnston, McAdam, spent Sunday in the village.

Mrs. Coburn, her son George and little daughter Hazel, Fredericton, visited the Doctor here last week.

A short time ago, at the Volunteer range at Wormwood Scrubbs, a recruit was taking a lesson in firing, but not with very promising results. After repeatedly failing to hit the target at 300 yds., the instructor tried him at 200, with the same result. He then decided to try him at 100yds., but the results were even worse than before. Losing all patience, the instructor exclaimed in disgust: "Fix your bayonet, and go and stab the thing; it's your only chance."
