

Lasts a Lifetime.

That is just what they say of Vapo-Cresolene. The vaporizer is practically indestructible, and the Cresolene is certainly not expensive. This way of treating affections of the throat is most economical, and is also most effective. Our little picture illustrates how it's used. You put some Cresolene in the vaporizer, light lamp beneath, and then breathe in the soothing, healing vapor. For whooping-cough and croup it's a perfect specific.

The Cost of Noise in the Dairy.

The cost of noise in the dairy can be figured to a certainty, writes a contributor to the ploughman, and the man who doubts this may gain some valuable information by making a few experiments on his own account. "A neighbor of mine has been doing this, and the result is decidedly startling. The man has a dairy of about twenty cows, mostly grade jerseys. A quiet man by nature, his cows were accustomed to receive only the kindest treatment. A few years ago this neighbor bought a Babcock test for use in his own dairy. One day he directed the hired man to shut the cows in the yard, and to let the dog in with them. The hired man thought his employer must be going daft, but he obeyed instructions. The two men took sticks in their hands and went into the yard with the cows and began to shout, the dog barked and pandemonium reigned for a few minutes, although not a blow was struck nor a cow bitten. The herd was then brought into the barn and milked. The falling off in yield was quite noticeable, but the test when applied showed a loss of 40 per cent, in butter fat on the basis of the week previous! Thick of that, ye men who yourself shout, kick, thump, and bang your cows, and permit the hired man to do the same.

"Suppose these cows gave at a milking 300 pounds of 5 per cent milk when treated kindly. The loss in weight placed at a low figure must have been at least 5 per cent., or fifteen pounds; while the loss in butter fat 40 per cent., would bring the test down to 3 per cent.

"What does this really mean? At twenty cents per pound, my neighbor's 300 pounds of milk testing 5 per cent, would have been worth to him $3. As a matter of fact, it brought him only $1.74, a loss on one milking of $1.26. After such a result who can wonder if this dairyman laid down some laws and insisted on their rigid enforcement?"

Kidney Cry.—Pain in the back is the cry of the kidneys for help. To neglect the call is to deliver the body over to a disease cruel, ruthless, and finally life destroying. South American Kidney Cure has power akin to miraculous in helping the needy kidneys out of the mire of disease. It relieves in six hours.—38

Did He Do Right?

A staff writer in the Chicago Times-Herald was recently interviewing a lot of railway men regarding tragedies of the rail, when one of them brought out a problem in ethics. It was presented by a man from the machine-shop who knew of a wreck where a woman had been pinned down under timbers of a blazing Pullman. Everything possible was done to free her, but in vain; she was crushed across the hips by the wreckage, and the flames were eating toward her rapidly. Her head lay outside the car, her body inside, and as the fire began to lick at her feet she begged that some one would end her agony. The question was, Had the people standing about a right to kill her?

"Well, what did they do?" he asked.
"Nothing," said the machinist, "because the lady's husband was there."
"And what did he do?"
"He kissed her good-bye and then shot her."
Everybody was silent at this. It was too horrible for words.

"Yes," continued the machinist, "he shot her, which was all right in my opinion, and then he shot himself. And that's the problem I can't solve, whether he did right to shoot himself. What do you boys think?"
It took a long time to say what they thought. One man, prominent at railroad prayer meetings, stuck to it that to take human life is a sin, and would allow no exceptions. Most of them approved the husband's action, suicide and all. A few thought he might have gone on living after sacrificing his wife.

Corns! Corns! Corns!
Tender corns, painful corns, soft corns, bleeding corns. The kind of corns that other remedies have failed to cure—that's a good many—yield quickly to Putnam's Corn Extractor. Putnam's Corn Extractor has been a long time at the business, experiences in fact just know to do it. At drug-gists.

"How well Mrs. Gilwazle holds her age!"
"Isn't wonderful? You would not think she was 30 if she didn't try to act as if she were 40."

PRACTICALLY A PIED PIPER.

Wonderful Destruction of Rats in London.
LONDON, April 13.—There is a man in London, Professor Dalton his title, whose calling in life is to catch rats without the aid of dogs, ferrets or traps.

A reporter hearing that the proprietor of a certain warehouse in St. Mary Axe had engaged this rat executioner to clear his establishment, obtained permission to attend the function.

"This," said the professor, "is my wand," showing a weird-looking weapon in the light of his lamp.

Dalton then advanced, carrying a huge empty wire cage on his back, put his fingers through the ring of a trap-door, lifted it, and invited the reporter to follow him into the cellars below.

Presently he began darting to and fro in the blackness of the vault, with a lamp glimmering in one hand and the magic wand in the other. Every few seconds he stood to examine the floor and make a noise with his mouth like fifty rats fighting and squeaking over some domestic affair.

Whatever talismanic virtue there may be in the ratcatcher's wand, it is nothing to the magic of his voice, for all kinds of rats came out of their holes and scampered towards their executioner.

By a dexterous twisting of his wrist Dalton twirled the wand round and round at a terrific pace and literally picked the rats off the ground as they came forward. In twenty minutes he had a cageful.

"My father has been in the trade for sixty years," he said, "and taught me all he knew. I've caught 500 rats in one warehouse in South London in three nights—that is the most I ever took out of one place.

"Mrs. Patti sent for me to clear her estate in Wales. I took 300 out of Craig y-Nos. Next week I am engaged by a well-known lord to clear two farms at Guilford.

"When the plague scare was on every port in England wanted me. I was very busy in Cardiff, and took £28 in ten days. But the ratcatcher's life is not without its vexations.

"The Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals has threatened to prosecute me if I overcrowd them in the traps.

"The part of London most infested is from London Bridge to Westminster, but the most ferocious rat is in the West End. There he is a terror."

The Reward Still Unclaimed.

When Polson & Co., Kingston, offered the tempting reward of $1,000 for a case of Catarrh, Bronchitis, Asthma or Throat Irritation that could not be cured by Catarrhzone, many expected that it would soon be claimed. We are advised, however, that Catarrhzone has given such universal satisfaction that no one has been able to make the claim. This explodes the theory that these diseases are incurable, for even the worst cases yield to Catarrhzone; it cures them every time. Cures by the inhalation of medicated air which is breathed right into the lungs, bronchial tubes and nasal passages. Catarrhzone is pleasant and safe to use; quick to relieve; guaranteed to cure. Price $1.00; small size 25c., at all drug-gists.

Just a Little Drop.

In the west of Ireland on a certain circuit a judge was wont to doze during the speeches of counsel.

On one occasion counsel was addressing him on the subject of certain to wn commissioners' rights to obtain water from a certain river, water being very scarce at the time.

During the speech, he made use of the words:

"But my lord, we must have water—we must have water."

Whereupon the judge woke up, exclaiming:

"Well, just a little drop!—just a little drop! I like it strong!"

Sciatica put him on Crutches.

—Jas. Smith, dairyman, of Grimsby, Ont., writes: "My limbs were almost useless from sciatica and rheumatism, and, notwithstanding my esteem for physicians, I must give the credit where it belongs. I am a cured man to-day, and South American Rheumatic Cure must have all the credit. It's a marvel."—34

Chronic Bronchitis

Rev. J. N. Van Natten, of Strator, Ill., writes:—"About one year ago I obtained from you six bottles of Dr. Chase's Syrup of Linseed and Turpentine. I gave away two and took the other four. A leading physician told me that it was only a question of time until it would wear me out, but thanks to this wonderful remedy of Dr. Chase I am now a strong man. 35 cents a bottle, all dealers.

A Severe Test.—Stranger—"Call your paper a great advertising medium do you? It isn't worth shucks. I put in an advertisement last week, and didn't get an answer, not one." Editor—"My! my! How was your advertisement worded?" Stranger—"A poor young man wants a pretty wife who can do her own housework."—New York Weekly.

Strong words by a New York Specialist.—"After years of testing and comparison I have no hesitation in saying that Dr. Agnew's Cure for the Heart is the quickest, safest, and surest known to medical science. Shame on Him!—"Harry is so well posted on this South African war," said young Mrs. Kidder, "and he just loves to discuss it with me, because, he says, I have such an intelligent conception of it."
