Aladdin.
 When I was a beggarly boy,
 And lived in a cellar damp,
 I had not a friend or a toy,
 But I had Aladdin's lamp;
 When I could not sleep for the cold,
 I had enough fire in my brain,
 And builded with roofs of gold,
 My beautiful castles in Spain.
 Since then I have toiled day and night,
 I have money and power good store,
 But I'd give all my lamps of silver bright
 For the one that is mine no more.
 Take, fortune, whatever you choose;
 You gave, and may snatch again;
 I have nothing 'twould pain me to lose,
 For I own no more castles in Spain.

How to Think of the Dead.
 A young man who had lost his mother asked Dr. Lyman Abbott, of the New York Outlook, to tell him how he should think of the dead. The reply of Dr. Abbott, given in part below, is one of the finest things I have ever read:
 "I cannot do that; I can only tell you how I think of the dead. I think that there are no dead; I think there is no death; I think that there is no long and dreary sleep, no waiting for a future resurrection of a body which has served its purpose and has no future purpose which it can serve; that life goes on unbroken by what we call death; that the resurrection of Jesus Christ was not an extraordinary event, but only an extraordinary evidence of an ordinary event; that He was the first fruit of them that sleep; that all rise from the dead as He rose from the dead, and live as He lives; that to die is 'to depart and to be with Christ, which is far better'; that every death is a resurrection, and that to every spirit God giveth a body as it pleaseth Him. I think of death as a glad awakening from this troubled sleep which we call life; as an emancipation from a world which, beautiful though it be, is still a land of captivity; as a graduation from this primary department into some higher rank in the hierarchy of learning. I think of the dead as possessing a more splendid equipment for a larger life of divine service than was possible to them on earth—a life in which I shall in due time join them if I am counted worthy of their fellowship in the life eternal."

Something About Faith Cures
 What a great variety of faith cures there must be. Some have faith in so-called divine healers, others in certain doctors, and still others in the medicines they use. Every person who has tested Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills has faith in them, but faith or no faith they cure just the same, for they act specifically on the kidneys, liver and bowels, and make these organs healthy, active and vigorous. Judging from the enormous demand for these pills there must be hosts of people that have faith in them.

Quite Familiar With the Job.
 An Irishman out of employment went up to a "boss" and asked for a job.
 Boss: "Do you know anything about horses?"
 Pat: "Sure, and wasn't Oi born in a stable?"
 Boss: "Do you know anything about cattle?"
 Pat: "Sure, and I'd like to know phwat I don't know."
 Boss: "And carpentry. Do you know anything about that?"
 Pat: "Begorra, and I'd loike to see the man as would beat me at it."
 Boss: "Do you know how to make a Venetian blind?"
 Pat: "Sure, and I'm in my element at that job."
 Boss: "Just tell me, then, how you would make a Venetian blind."
 Pat: "Sure, and wouldn't Oi just poke me finger in his eye?"

Advice to Mothers
 If your little boy or girl comes home with a sore throat, the first thing to do is to rub the throat and chest with Polson's Nerviline. Don't be afraid to use Nerviline freely—a whole bottle full wouldn't burn or blister the tenderest skin. Rub in until all taken up by the pores, and just before the child goes to sleep give him a glass of hot water into which 30 drops of Nerviline has previously been stirred. This is a sure, pleasant and speedy cure. Large bottles 25 cents.

Searching for Knowledge.
 "I say, pa," began little Clarence Callipers, with the rising inflection of one who earnestly desires to acquire important information, "what—"
 "Oh, I don't know," replied his long-suffering sire, wearily.
 "Yes. But the question I wanted to ask is 'n't foolish, pa."
 "H'm! If it isn't foolish you may ask it. But remember, just one question, and no more."
 "Well, pa, there are two of 'em that I want to ask. One is, which is the smartest, the man who knows enough to know that he don't know much or the man who knows enough to look as if he knew everything? The other is, if the end of the world was to come and the earth be destroyed while a man was up in a balloon, where would he land when he came down? And, pa, I don't know which one of 'em to ask."

 "You speak," said a fond mother, "about people having strength of mind, but when it comes to strength of don't mind, my son William surpasses anybody I ever knew."

When it Hurts To Cough

The cough that hurts, the cough that gets tight in the chest is daily getting deeper and deeper into the bronchial tubes and is making directly for the lungs, to become pneumonia, inflammation of the lungs or consumption.
 Such coughs are sometimes referred to as "graveyard coughs," because they usually bring their victim to that last resting place.
 Dr. Chase's Syrup of Linseed and Turpentine has long been known as mother's favorite remedy for croup, bronchitis, coughs and colds. It gains in popularity every day and now has by far the largest sale of any similar preparation.
 It loosens the tightness in the chest, allays the inflammation, cures the cold and prevents pneumonia, consumption and other lung troubles. 25 cents, all dealers, or Edmansons, Bates & Co., Toronto.

 Given a Gold Watch.
 There was a pleasing ceremony the other day in the office of the president of the Canadian Pacific Railway, Montreal, when Sir Thomas Shaughnessy, in a few well-chosen words, presented Captain McDougall, of the company's lake steamer Athabasca, with a costly gold watch, the gift of the President of the United States of America. The watch has the following inscription, which tells the simple story of a British seaman's bravery:
 "From the President of the United States to Captain George McDougall of the British steamship Athabasca, in recognition of his humane services in the rescue of the captain and crew of the American barge, Preston, June 29, 1901."
 The captain, who was accompanied by Mr. Arthur Piers, general superintendent of the company's steamships, blushed like a school girl, thanked Sir Thomas and replied that he only did what any other British seaman would have done under similar circumstances.

Would Have Done The Same.
 The following story is told of Rudyard Kipling's maternal grandfather, the Rev. George B. Macdonald, a Wesleyan clergyman:
 It is related of this gentleman that in the days when he was courting the lady whom he afterwards married, the father-in-law to be—an aged Methodist with extremely strict notions in regard to the proprieties—was injudicious enough on one occasion to enter the parlour without giving any warning of his approach. The consequence was that he found the sweethearts occupying a single chair.
 Deeply shocked by this spectacle, the old man solemnly said:
 "Mr. Macdonald, when I was courting Mrs. Brown she sat on one side of the room and I on the other."
 Macdonald's reply was:
 "That's what I should have done if I had been courting Mrs. Brown."

It Was a Dream.
 When a certain divine was a younger man and chaplain at the University of Pennsylvania, like all other ministers who filled that position he was much troubled over the apparent lack of attention from the students during the morning exercises in the chapel.
 The exercises hardly ever continued for more than fifteen minutes. Some of the students were in the habit of taking their books into the chapel and studying there during the services to make up for their tardiness of the night before in not preparing their lessons.
 The young chaplain was desirous of breaking up the habit, so one morning preceding his customary five minutes' address he spoke as follows:
 "Young gentlemen, last night a dreamed I was here in the chapel addressing you. And as I spoke I saw every eye fixed upon me, every man attentive, while in all the chapel there was not a book opened, and then I knew it was a dream."

Twenty Years of Bronchitis. Captain Dunlop, of Kingston, commander of the steamer "Bohemian," of the R. & O. fleet, suffered unceasingly for twenty years, and although he took treatment all that time permanent relief was not obtained until he used "Catarrhazone" which cured him quickly and permanently. The Captain says "Catarrhazone is the best cure for Bronchitis on face of the globe, pleasant to use, quick to relieve and sure to cure." Catarrhazone is a wonderful treatment for all diseases of the Throat, Lungs and Bronchial Tubes. Two months' treatment, price $1.00, small size 25 cts. Druggists or Polson & Co., Kingston, Ont.

Feline Depravity.—"O Horace!" wailed his young wife, "I have just found out that Ajax, our beautiful Angora cat, has been leading a double life!" "That makes eighteen, I suppose," said Horace. "What has he been doing?" "You know I let him out every morning, because he seems to want to go to play out of doors. Well, I have discovered that he goes over to the Robinsons and lets them feed him and pet him."—[Chicago Tribune.

Many School Children are Pale, Weak and Nervous.

Debilitated and Exhausted in Mind and Body—Dr. Chase's Nerve Food is Surprisingly Beneficial for Children.
 The severe and ever-increasing strain of competitive examinations coming at a time when every boy and girl is undergoing trying physiological changes does much towards making mental and physical wrecks of school children. Run down in health, with the blood thin and watery and the nervous system exhausted, children have no chance to escape the many ills that beset a feeble body. There is no treatment known to science that so naturally and thoroughly restores strength and vitality to the nervous system as Dr. Chase's Nerve Food. It makes parents happy by bringing back the color to the faces and the strength and elasticity to the bodies of their pale, puny children.
 Mrs. S. Dempsey, Albany, Ont., writes:—"My little granddaughter, nine years old, was pale and weak, she had no appetite and seemed to be gradually growing weaker. Dr. Chase's Nerve Food proved invaluable in her case, restoring health and color and making her strong and well."
