Why Victoria Was Beloved.

The Queen, in fact, was beloved, not as a typical English mother—being essentially German in her family life—but for certain human essentials of character which transcend nationalities, and are confined to no particular social status, no special period of time. Unquestionably feminine in action, outlook, and expression, she yet possessed in no small degree the mental breadth and consistency which characterizes statesmen, and always comported herself as a mistress of a great principality. Her profound interest in domesticities, so endearing to many thousands of her subjects, never diminished the public significance of her attitude at every emergency. Along the lines on which she wisely elected to exert it, her influence was firm and unmistakable, working always toward a truthful simplicity of goodness. She who held no heroic surprises for her people, yet never disappointed them. She was of the few on whom one could always absolutely depend. On her as surely and as significantly as on her Ministers rested the cares of state, and the honor of England never suffered at her hands.—[R. Binley Johnson in the Atlantic Monthly.

Polson's Nerviline Cures Rheumatism.

The remarkable strength and marvellous soothing power of Nerviline renders it quite infallible in rheumatism. Five times stronger than any other remedy, its penetrating power enables it to reach the source of the pain and drive out the disease. Nerviline is stronger, more penetrating, more highly pain-subduing in its action than any other medicine heretofore devised for the cure of rheumatism. Sold in large 25 cent bottles everywhere.

How to Treat the Hair.

Treat your hair as you would a plant—carefully, tenderly, judiciously. If the plant seems hardy, so much the better, and so much greater is your chance for keeping it.

Hair tendencies are inherited, and one should profit by the examples of her ancestors. For instance, if your father grew bald and grey in his early thirties and your mother's hair was brittle and harsh at forty, your efforts to keep your own hair in good condition must be redoubled.

A certain hair specialist said that if a woman did not care for her hair before 20, she would have no hair to care for at 40. And there never was a truer saying.

From childhood it has been constantly dinned into our ears that the hair, to be kept in a healthy condition, should be brushed with a stiff hair brush for ten minutes night and morning. This is a most absolute fallacy. It is impossible to lay down rules of that description for womankind in general. How often, and how long hair should be brushed depends altogether on the individual head of hair. You would not think of digging mercilessly into the roots of a tender plant, and if your hair is fine, thin and silky, too vigorous treatment with the brush will produce bald spots in short order.

Cut Both Ways.

A farmer's boy in Scotland was charged with attempting to steal an article from a shop door. In pleading his case he said he didn't steal the thing—"he was only gaun tae dae it."

Whereupon the judge informed him that to do it and going to do it were all the same, and that he would have to pay a fine of 10s. or go to gaol for ten days.

The boy not having the money was allowed to go and get it from a friend. In a little while he was seen standing in the court, and when asked if he had got the money to pay his fine he answered:—

"Na; but I was a gaen tae dae it, and ye said that gaen tae dae it and dae it were 'jist the same. I'm thinking you and me'll be about clear noo."

CATARRHAL POISONS AND THEIR REMEDY. The poisonous secretions from Catarrh are dangerous because they affect the stomach and bowels, giving rise to an unhealthy condition of these organs. Catarrh is the source of much ill health and was considered practically incurable until it was demonstrated to the satisfaction of the medical profession that by the use of Catarrhazone any case of nasal or throat trouble can be permanently and quickly cured. Catarrhazone by its unusual merit has enlisted the support and endorsement of the most prominent medical authorities, who freely state that any one giving it a trial is sure to receive permanent benefit. Sold for $1. Small size 25c. At Druggists or Polson and Co., Kingston, Ont.

The new edict of cooking experts, that a turkey roasted breast down will have the meat of that part juicier and better flavored than one cooked in the usual way, is borne out by experience. The theory that the juices of the fowl find their way downward and, settling in the often dry and tasteless breast to its great improvement, is correct. It will be found, too, that the apparent difficulty of keeping the bird on its breast is only apparent, a little balancing in the pan until the processes of cooking have settled the fowl being all that is needed. The method is equally valuable applied to chickens, and an experiment with roasting geese in that way proved very successful.

Nervous Depression and Bodily Weakness.

Another Woman Who Has Found Health, Strength and Vigor in the Use of Dr. Chase's Nerve Food.

To women especially Dr. Chase's Nerve Food is proving to be a very great blessing. So many women are weakened and debilitated by overwork, worries or diseases peculiar to their sex, and need the assistance of just such a restorative as this great food cure.

Mrs. M. A. McCrea, Tory Hill, Ont., writes:—"My system was all run down when I began to use Dr. Chase's Nerve Food. I was weak and very nervous and felt so tired and worn out that I could scarcely drag myself about the house. It seemed impossible for me to get rest or sleep at night, and I felt that I was gradually growing weaker and more nervous and irritable. Since beginning the use of Dr. Chase's Nerve Food I feel altogether different. It has gradually strengthened my nerves and built up my system wonderfully. I sleep well now, and am being thoroughly restored to health and strength. I believe it is the best medicine to be had for the nerves."

Dr. Chase's Nerve Food, 50 cents a box, 6 boxes for $2.50, at all dealers, or Edmanston, Bates & Co., Toronto.

The medical reports presented to the local Russian authorities by the doctors of the different districts reveal an alarming state of things with regard to infant mortality. It appears that in many of the governments the proportion of the children who die during the first year is as high as 40 and even 50 per cent. In isolated cases it is even higher. The reports ascribe this terrible mortality mainly to the ignorance of the peasants and to the fact that the mothers have frequently to neglect their children in order to work in the fields. In support of this view it is noted that the death-rate is considerably higher in summer than in winter in spite of the severity of the climate. Another cause appears to be the growing practice of employing wet nurses, with the result that the nurses' own children have to be fed by artificial means. This explanation is supported by the fact that the rate of infant mortality is much lower among the Mohammedan population, in whose case the law obliges every mother to nurse her own children. In one of the governments, for example, the rate of infant mortality among the Mohammedans is only 14.4 per 1,000, while among the Christians it is 34.2.

Medical Science Advances.

It is not more than half a century ago that physicians considered a surgical operation with its risk, expense and pain as the only cure for piles. Today it is only the out of date doctors that think of such treatment. It is cruel and extravagant to operate for a disease which is far more certainly cured by the application of Dr. Chase's Ointment. You may be skeptical, but for proof you are referred to tens of thousands of cases that have been cured by this famous preparation.

"We ought to appreciate the change in the South," says the Boston Evening Record (Rep.), "when a South Carolina committee selects Lincoln's birthday as the date on which the President shall attend South Carolina's Exposition."

The Steel Trust.

To the boastfulness concerning trade won by Germany and the United States in competition with Great Britain the answer has been returned that much of these apparent gains has been actually economic loss, the result of bounties or the protective tariff paid by the German or United States people. The 'Railway and Engineering Review' surprisingly supports this view, so far as the United States is concerned, in a recent review of the billion-dollar steel trust. The profits of the trust for the last nine months were $85,000,000, over and above the losses incurred in the late strike. The journal quoted maintains that a large part of this profit is obtained by the trust selling steel in the United States at about thirty-six dollars a ton, while it is selling the same steel in Europe, freight included, for less than twenty-five dollars a ton. Further than this, Mr. Schwab, the manager of the steel trust, says that he can afford to lay down steel at English ports, freight paid, at sixteen dollars a ton. Here is sufficient demonstration that the United States consumers are compelled to pay an abnormal price for steel because the tariff permits the trust to make enormous and immoral profits. The conclusion is also apparent that the United States citizen is paying through the nose for much of the boasted 'expansion' in that country's manufactured exports.—Montreal Witness.

Should The Cars Miss?

(New York Tribune.)

It is an old story, but a good one, apropos at this time, of the Irishmen who were on the bridge at Fifty fifth street, over the railway tracks near the entrance to the Fourth avenue tunnel. One was lately landed, and the other, who had been here a year or two, was showing the sights. 'It's a wonderful invention, Pat,' says Mike, 'and, sure, if we wait here a bit 'tis the wonderful Empire State Express I'll be showing you.' In a short time the great limited train, with a roar and a rush that almost took their breath away, passed beneath the Irishmen's feet and disappeared in the tunnel. 'What'd ye think of that, Pat?' queried one to his dazed companion. 'Well, Mike,' rejoined Pat, as he gazed at the gaping orifice that had just swallowed the rushing train, 'tis a mighty small hole and a mighty big train. If them cars iver miss it there's going to be a horrible smash some day.' J. G. B.

The Pope's Little Joke.

(Rome Correspondence N. Y. Times.)

That the Pope's mind is bright is illustrated by the daily experiences of those who have business with him, and his memory is said to be as retentive as ever. He also retains his sense of humor, and indulged in a quite little satire not long ago at the expense of a most estimable and pious member of one of the royal houses of Europe. This lady, who fancies herself an artist, painted his portrait upon a piece of canvas, leaving a blank at the bottom in which she requested him to write his autograph. When the picture was received it was such an atrocious caricature that the members of the Papal household determined to destroy it, but the Pope would not permit them to do so. Taking his pen, he wrote in Latin this inscription: 'It is I; be not afraid. Leo. XIII.'

Which is Which?

Two paragraphs recently got mixed up in a newspaper, viz., a lecture by a reverend gentleman and a slight railway accident. It read as follows:—

"The Rev. Mr. Virtue gave an interesting lecture on 'English Authors' yesterday evening. He began by leaving the Central Station at the rate of twenty miles an hour. He said the story he referred to was a magnificent masterpiece. The buffer was smashed, and the shock to the passengers was great. Literature, he said, was one of the faults of the driver, but out of sixty passengers only three were injured. A grand array of books blocked the line for hours. Mr. Virtue was much applauded during his lecture. The affair is to be inquired into. Another is to take place on Saturday evening."

People Who Have Used It

Say that Dr. Chase's Syrup of Linseed and Turpentine affords wonderfully prompt relief for coughs and colds. Everybody has confidence in Dr. Chase, in his great recipe book and famous family remedies. They have learned by experience that it says to insist on having Dr. Chase's Syrup of Linseed and Turpentine instead of accepting the various unscientific 'mix-ups' which some druggists offer as "just as good." Dr. Chase's Syrup of Linseed and Turpentine contains many of the most valuable and most effective remedial agents for throat and lung troubles that science has discovered. It acts so directly and promptly as to be of incalculable worth in all cases of croup, bronchitis and whooping cough. It is so far-reaching in its effects as to loosen the tightest chest cough and cure the cold of long standing. 25c a bottle; family size, three times as much, 60c. at all dealers', or Edmanston, Bates & Co., Toronto.
