FATAL ACCIDENT NEAR WOODSTOCK.

Amasa Turney of Plymouth Instantly Killed by a Falling Tree.

Amasa Turney, a young man 33 years of age, well known in Woodstock, went into the woods near his home, Plymouth, on Thursday morning to fell some trees. He cut one which lodged and he proceeded to fell another on the lodged tree to knock it to the ground. When the last tree struck the first one it slid along it with great force and struck Mr. Turney a fatal blow on the side of his head. The tree, after striking him, passed over his head and when Mr. Turney dropped to the ground he lay with his head about a foot from the tree that killed him.

Mr. Turney's brother, Nelson, with whom he lived, thought it strange that he did not return to dinner at the regular hour and blew the dinner horn for him. On his failing to return then he went in search and found him lying dead on the snow.

Mr. Turney was the youngest son of the late Thomas Turney. He leaves three brothers, Nelson, who lives on the homestead at Plymouth, Thomas, of Chester, and Duncan, of Manitoba, and one sister who lives with Nelson Turney.

The funeral took place on Saturday afternoon at one o'clock. The Rev. J. A. Cahill conducted the service. The remains were interred in the Methodist cemetery, Woodstock.

Christmas Presentation.

The parishioners of the Rev. Horace E. Dibblee in Blissville and Gladstone have again shown their appreciation for their clergyman in a way which greatly redounds to their credit. On Christmas eve—in the new "St. Andrew's" Church, Fredericton Junction just before the opening of service, Mr. Dibblee was presented with a most appropriate address, congratulating him upon the completion of the beautiful church, and expressing the esteem and admiration which are entertained for him by his congregation.

Accompanying the address was a valuable leather travelling case, containing a set of new church robes of the finest material, consisting of cassock, surplice, and M. H. hood. Mr. Dibblee, in reply, spoke in the most feeling terms of the generosity and zeal which characterize his co-workers in this mission, and of the numerous encouraging proofs the people have given in recognition of his work.

SPEEDING THE HORSES

On Christmas Day—Some Swift Work at Waterville—A bad Accident at Oakville.

On Christmas afternoon there was a large gathering on the ice at Waterville to see some fast trotting and pacing. Among the men who let their horses out were Hurd Seely and J. W. Plummer of Fort Frirfield, Claude DeWitt of Presque Isle and Melvin DeWitt, Homer Kimball, Alfred Palmer and Mr. Crandemire of Waterville. The swiftest horse on the ice was probably Mel DeWitt's, with Claude DeWitt's second and Alfred Palmer's third. J. W. Plummer's pacing colt did some good work.

At Oakville, on Brigg's Mill pond the trotting was good, as it always is, in the vicinity of so many enthusiastic horsemen. But a bad accident marred the pleasure of the day. Arthur Ingraham and James Campbell of Littleton, driving two handsome Dufferin colts, collided. The shaft of Mr. Campbell's sleigh passed into the breast of Mr. Ingraham's colt, coming out behind the shoulder, killing him almost at once. At last account it was thought that Mr. Campbell's colt would die.

Death of Mr. A. C. Smith.

Albert C. Smith, Esq., ex-M. P. P., died Friday morning at his home in Carleton after a long and painful illness with cancer. Mr. Smith in his twenty-five years' residence in St. John became one of the leading citizens, and on the West Side, where he was best known, he was sincerely mourned. Mr. Smith, from a small commission business established in 1876, built up the extensive business now carried on by Messrs. A. C. Smith & Co., and known all over the Dominion as one of the leading and most reliable commission and produce houses in St. John. He was born at Blissville, Sunbury county, on March 10, 1842, and was a son of the late Benjamin Smith. Both parents were of Loyalist stock, and Mr. Smith's great-grandfather on his father's side was an officer in the British forces in the revolutionary war.

After a course at Training School Mr. Smith taught school at Marysville, Tay Creek and Keswick in York County and came to Carleton County about thirty-two years ago. He taught school for two years at Tracy's Mills after which he went into partnership with his brother, the late George F. Smith at Waterville, where they conducted a general store. He remained there two years when he went to Jacksonville where he and his brother David W. Smith, went into the produce business. After two years at Jacksonville he went to St. John, in the year 1876, and began business as a commission merchant.

A year after he moved to Carleton, where he has since resided, filling an important place in the community as one of the leading citizens. His business grew and prospered, and since the development of the winter port business the firm has become known all over Canada, executing extensive commissions for the leading shippers of the west. Mr. Smith was always interested in public affairs, and in 1883 entered the Common Council as alderman for Albert ward. He was elected year by year until his ward was wiped out by the Union Act, and then was elected for Brooks ward. In 1890 he was elected to the legislature as one of the supporters of Dr. Stockton, and was re-elected in 1892, but at the next general election retired in favor of his partner, Mr. C. B. Lockhart. Mr. Smith was married in April, 1866, to Miss Sarah E. Boone, of Fredericton, and is survived by his wife and two children—Mr. H. Colby Smith and Miss Smith. He has been an active member of the Masonic fraternity, and also of the Oddfellows and Good Templars. Mr. Smith was one of the chief workers in the Free Baptist church, and for many years has filled the office of deacon and trustee. Mr. Smith was a generous friend to the poor and many a kindly deed has been done by him. He was a very active worker for the Conservative party.

Mr. Smith leaves four brothers, John, of Oromocto, David W., of Woodstock, Jerry, of Minneapolis, and I. E., of Carleton. He was well known in Carleton County, where an enormous quantity of farm produce has been bought for his firm for years, at every station between Debec and Andover.
