

NEWS FROM THE COUNTY.

NOTICE TO CORRESPONDENTS.

Correspondents must send their names with each week's contribution, or their matter will not be printed. The names will not be published, but The Dispatch must know who is accountable for everything that is inserted in its columns.

ARTHURETTE.

A new mill is in course of erection at the mouth of the Otterlick stream. R. Armstrong, St. John, is owner, and Alex. Crawford, Red Rapids, is local manager for Mr. Armstrong.

John Aitken has been engaged by the Sprague Brothers, and is now at work blacksmithing in their new shop at the end of the Red Rapids Bridge.

Dr. J. D. Coffin is at present in P. E. I. He left on the 27th, ult., for a two week's visit to his home in Charlottetown, and to stand examination for a position of the staff of the Edinburgh Medical College.

James McNair is busy getting in supplies for the winter, for his camp on Beaver Brook, Owen Rock and River de Chute. The tote roads are in a bad state, owing to so much rainy weather.

Partridges are very scarce in this vicinity this year, probably because the young ones were not able to stand the cold wet weather of May last. A close season for a year or two would be a good thing, as well as the enforcement of the law against Sunday shooting.

Patrick McQuade's story of seeing 13 or 18 cow moose in a herd sounds well, gamey, anyhow. The writer spent 40 days in the heart of the game country this season, and saw nothing to warrant the cry that bull moose are getting scarce, but they are getting shy, very shy. And no wonder. Every guide that goes in the woods is satisfied (in his own mind) that he can call moose; and wherever you travel in the woods, you will see where some fellow has peeled the bark off a white birch to make his moose horn.

The writer had the pleasure of seeing quite a number of moose, and of hearing the calls of both bulls and cows at close quarters, (from 100 to 400 yards) and the sounds were very different from the most of the calls made with a birch horn. The calls of the males can be imitated, of course, but to draw the game within shooting distance is not so easy a matter for a novice, and there are many novices now in the guiding business. Speak for the Upper Tobique hunting country, the writer would say that every male moose running in the woods is worth to the province, directly and indirectly, from $400 to $700 each. And they are not so scarce as some people would have us believe. It is generally conceded by guides and hunters also, that the largest moose are got by still-hunting.

WEST GLASSVILLE.

The family of Mr. Thomas Doherty has moved into Mr. Wesley Releeders house for the winter.

Mrs. Kerr, of Oak Mountain, and Mrs. Kirk, of Woodstock, are visiting Mrs. David Young.

Mr. George Newcomb, of West Acton Mass., is spending a few weeks in this place.

Manzer Caldwell, of Bristol, was married on Wednesday last to Miss Maggie McLean, of Upper Woodstock.

Dr. Polchis and two other Indians of Woodstock, returned last week from a moose hunt on the Miramichi. He had with him the finest head that has been brought in here this season. The Antlers, though only measuring 56 inches, were very uniform, each having twelve prongs. The animal was captured at Lampedo Lake.

UNION CORNER.

Last Thursday afternoon John Sullivan, while coming up the road with a load of slab wood on a high wagon, coming down a small hill a little below Samuel Potter's the wood tumbled and he fell head foremost behind the horses, one of them kicking him. One of Mr. Potter's sons saw the team going up stopped it, hitched up one of his horses and went down to look for the teamster. He found him beside the road in a dazed condition. He carried him home and Dr. Dickinson of Houlton was immediately summoned. He found his jaw broken in two places, and bruises elsewhere. The doctor thought he was not hurt internally, but today he is very bad. He thinks he received the kick in the throat. He can take no nourishment and is suffering a great deal.

Mr. and Mrs. Greely Hillman went down to Dow Settlement York Co., last Wednesday, where his brother Moses was united in marriage to a Miss Dow by Rev. C. N. Barton.

Samuel Potter and son are threshing quite extensively. They report a good deal of damp grain.

Henry and Fred Potter are away to the Maine lumber woods.

Gunning has been the favorite sport this fall. Ira Carson shot a deer some time ago, and Wm. Craig and David Alexander shot another a few nights ago.

A slight fire caught in the attic of Sam Mason's house on Monday afternoon. It was speedily put out and no damage was done.

We are having a spell of nice fine weather and although it has come rather late we are glad to welcome it. The roads are in a better condition than they often were through the summer.

WAKE UP, BABY!

A New Game for Mothers.

Baby's awakening ought to be looked forward to as a pleasure, not dreaded as a scourge. He should awaken bright, merry, and full of fun, refreshed by sleep, ready for a good time.

How many mothers dread his awakening howls, knowing that he will keep everyone miserable until he goes to sleep again or gets his food. These crying fits are the terror of every inexperienced mother. Mrs. Gabriel Barnes, Six Mile Lake, Ont., is a mother who has learned how this trouble can be best met, and writes us as follows: "My baby suffered much from indigestion, and was cross and restless. I gave him several medicines, but they did not help him. I then got a box of Baby's Own Tablets and they helped him almost at once, and have done him so much good that I would not now be without them. I can recommend Baby's Own Tablets to all mothers as the best medicine I have ever used for children." These Tablets are guaranteed to contain no opiate or harmful drug and can be given with absolute safety to the youngest, weakest infant. Sold by all druggists or sent by mail, post paid, at 25 cents a box by writing direct to the Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont., or Schenectady, N. Y.

Furniture Styles Illustrated.

The Grand Rapids Furniture Record, of Grand Rapids, Mich., contains the following notice. The series of articles here promised will no doubt greatly increase the circulation of this valuable journal.

"There is one feature which I think your paper could adopt with undoubted profit to your readers," writes a prominent manufacturer, "and that is a series of articles on furniture styles, illustrated with half-tones of types of modern furniture based upon those styles. In other words, give us articles on all the well-known schools, but illustrate them with modern conceptions of those styles, not with old pictures of furniture, which can only be seen in the museums or collections of the very wealthy. You would be surprised to learn how ignorant of the different styles of furniture are many prominent and successful buyers. They know the intrinsic value of goods, construction, material, finish, etc., and whether it is saleable or not, but they cannot tell a renaissance from a Sheraton, a Louis from a Chippendale. Now, I am sure you are in position to secure the proper kind of furniture to illustrate and properly describe the different popular schools of furniture, so that all your readers, dealers, buyers and salesmen especially, will be able to distinguish the different schools at a glance, and can so describe them to their customers."

The suggestion we regard as a most excellent one, and The Record takes pleasure in stating that it has perfected arrangements for the publication of an authentic series of illustrated articles on the different styles of furniture, embellished with fine half-tones of modern furniture after each school described. The articles have been prepared with much care, will be copyrighted and appear exclusively in this paper, and will in themselves be of great and growing value to furniture salesmen and dealers,—worth alone, we may add, a good deal more than five full years' subscriptions to The Record. The first article in the series will appear in the November number."

The Telephone Newspaper.

In the November "Pearson's" is described an invention which may revolutionize the present method of newspaper publication. The article says:

"One of Bellamy's boldest conceptions was his idea of a speaking, singing, lecturing, and concert-giving 'newspaper.' He dreamt of the time when people would no longer go to the printed newspapers for their day's news, but to the telephone receivers. It will come as a surprise to most to learn that this fancy has been actually realized in Budapest Hungary, where a telephonic daily has been in active operation for some time.

"Every day, from eight in the morning to eleven at night, the 'Telefon-Hirondondo' is busy sending the news of the world, hot from the wires, into its subscribers' homes. In the editorial rooms six 'tentors,' or speakers, with strong, clear voices, speak the 'copy' into the transmitters.

"At definite hours, concerts, or the performances of the Royal Opera or of the Municipal Operetta Theater, are to be heard through the ear-tubes. Eminent preachers, speakers, or actors tell their stories to enormous audiences scattered over the city. A list of strangers' arrivals, the correct astronomical time, and a list of amusements, are among the many features of this marvelous institution.

"The exact time for each of the news items is strictly regulated, and is announced to the subscribers every morn-

Press Notice for December Designer.

The Christmas number of THE DESIGNER is unusually attractive. Its fashion department illustrates and describes the latest in winter wearing apparel and millinery, and under "Points on dressmaking" is furnished most useful instruction for the making of juvenile garments. A Christmas Cantata by Frederic Van Rensselaer Day, entitled "Santa Claus' Busy Day," is given prominent place among the literary features, and Christmas poems are supplied by Cora A. Matson Dolson. Francis H. Tabor, Frank Farrington and Florence Gertrude Ruthven. John De Morgan furnishes an interesting illustrated paper on Christmas customs and superstitions. Olive C. Tobey is the author of a story for adults, "From the Peyton Letters," while Alice Josephine Johnston writes the Christmas story for juveniles, entitled "What a Christmas Glove Brought." "When Christmas Comes" is the name of a contribution in which numerous dainty and pretty suggestions for gifts are pictured. "Selections for the recitationist" are appropriate to the season, and "Hints for the Holidays" gives some unique ideas for the distribution of presents. An attractive feature which the children will appreciate is a full-page illustrated poem, "An International Christmas Party," by Bertha Stine. Several strong chapters of "The Apology of Ayliffe," by Ellen Olney Kirk, are given this month, and the pages of "What Women are Doing" grow noticeably in importance. A new department makes its appearance in the December DESIGNER, entitled "Helps Along the Way." Like "What Women are Doing," it is edited by the readers of THE DESIGNER, and bids fair to be all that its name implies. "Toilet Table Chat," "Book Notes," "Etiquette Hints," "In Motherland," "Floriculture" and "The Kitchen Kingdom" are included in the list of good things which appear in THE DESIGNER for December.

"Well, my man," said the visiting physician of a Dublin infirmary to a patient, "how do you feel this morning?"

"Purty well, sorr," was the reply.

"That's right. I hope you like the place?"

"Indeed, and I do, sorr!" said the man.

"There's only wan thing wrong in this establishment, and that is I only get as much mate as wud feed a sparrow."

"Oh, you're getting your appetite, are you?" said the doctor. "Then I'll order an egg to be sent up to you."

"Arrah, dother," rejoined the patient, "would you be so kind as to tell him at the same time to send me up the hin that laid 'it!"

"Our son is always needing money," said the young man's mother.

"No," said the precise man, "he does not need it. He merely wants it."

After people reach a certain age their complexion takes on a hue indicating that they haven't washed their faces since the day before yesterday.

Giles—Take two letters from "money" and "one" will be left. Miles—Is that a joke? "Yes verily." "Well, I know of a fellow who took money from two letters, and it was no joke either. He got one year."
