THE Toronto "Mail Empire" says:—and "That success has placed the stamp of approval on the amalgamation of the Manufacturers and Temperance and General Life assurance Companies is evidenced by the statement presented at the annual meeting. The showing is a remarkable one."

LAST THURSDAY evening when Neil McKinnon was crossing the bridge he stubbed his toe on the centre piece and fell to his knees. He had his hands in his pockets and being unable to save himself fell with great weight. He is now confined to the house as a result of his injury. Dr. Hand is in attendance.

A VERY pleasant little party was given by Miss Lorena G. Brittain, of Bristol, to about 25 of her young friends on Hallow E'en. The games played were new and spicy. The contest for making gum animals was very amusing. The prize for the best fell to Miss Bertie Prior and the booby prize fell to Mr. George Davis.

Congressman Charles N. Fowler of New Jersey recently visited one of his constituents in Union County, and found him trying to give some medicine to his little son, who had eaten too many green apples, while a Christian Science neighbour was assuring the boy that there was nothing at all the matter with him. "I think I ought to know," groaned the boy; "I guess I've got inside information."

MRS. MICHAEL McLAUCHLAN, of Bloomfield, who drove in to Woodstock on Friday morning was taken suddenly ill in Miss McCaffrey's millinery store. She was stricken with paralysis and though every possible medical attention was given she died in a few hours. The remains were interred in the Roman Catholic cemetery on Sunday. The Rev. W. F. Chapman conducted the funeral services.

ALFRED SCOTT, with his wife and four sons, of Wakefield Centre, Carleton County, left last week for Riverside, California, where they intend to make their home. Mr. Scott was a prominent farmer of the parish of Wakefield, and he and the family were much respected in the locality in which they resided. On Monday evening previous to their departure, a farewell reception was tendered Mr. Scott and family by Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Wilson. The farm house of Mr. Wilson could hardly contain the number of persons who assembled, some of them driving ten miles to wish bon voyage to the guests of the evening. It was an ideal reception. Charles Scott, a brother of Alfred Scott, left with the party to spend the winter in California.

THE halloween dance in the opera house was a very pleasant affair. The orchestra composed of Joe Donovan, clarinet, leader, Arch Kirkpatrick, piano, George Brittain, cornet, Mr. Reed, violin and Waldo Payson clarinet, made some of the best dance music Woodstock has been treated to for a long time. If this orchestra will hang together there will be no need to send around the world for music when a dance is being gotten up here.

CHARLIE, third son of Rev. J. E. Flewelling, while at Edmunston attending his sister's marriage was taken suddenly ill with typhoid fever, and Monday night last his condition was considered dangerous. A trained nurse is now with him, and under Dr. Main's skillfulness he is improving. On Thursday morning he was brighter and more talkative. His many friends at Centreville and elsewhere will be pleased to learn he has possibly passed the critical stage.

A. F. FAWCETT is getting out rock or sugar maple at Dead Creek, about five miles from Scott's siding. He will haul this lumber to the siding where he has sheds whose total length amount to one thousand feet. Twenty men will be employed at these sheds manufacturing this maple into last blocks. Mr. Fawcett can give employment to plenty of men and teams in hauling the maple from the woods to the track. He expects to get out about 300,000 blocks this winter.

MR. GEORGE B. WILLIAMS of New York will give another dramatic and humorous recital in Graham's Opera House on Monday, November 10th. His last appearance in Woodstock was before a delighted audience under the auspices of the Masonic Lodge. Mr. Williams is undoubtedly an artist of first rank among American Dramatists. He is wonderfully versatile as an impersonator of character, being equally at home with Shakespearean drama or modern comedy. His audience was as deeply interested in his realistic interpretation of Falstaff as they were enthusiastic over the intensely funny situation in the Sleeping Car by W. D. Howells. Mr. Williams is brought here by the St. Paul's Junior Literary Society in the expectation of raising sufficient funds to purchase necessary books for their use.

JUST ABOUT now, when people are beginning to think of Christmas, it would seem opportune to say again, what we have said so often, that we can buy at home quite as cheaply and more satisfactorily than from the departmental stores of the big cities. When one buys in his own town he has an opportunity of seeing the goods before he separates himself from his money. He knows just what he is getting, there is no pig in a poke about the transaction. He runs no chance of his money being lost on the way to the distant city and no chance of the goods being lost on their way to him. When we get any money in the country let us keep it in circulation here rather than ship it away several hundred miles to swell the wealth of people in whom we can have no interest. Loyalty is a good thing, and the sort of loyalty that makes a fellow stick hard for his own town and county will bear a lot of cultivation.
